

Chapter 123-3

//

Liang Shi still didn't know that Zhao Xuning already knew everything. After arriving at her office, she grabbed a chair and sat down, while Zhao Xuning removed her glasses and placed them on the desk, then took out a white coat from the cabinet.

Liang Shi asked, "Why did you ask me to come here?"

Zhao Xuning first frowned as she disinfected the white coat. The office was soon filled with the pungent smell of disinfectant, and Liang Shi covered her nose with her hand.

After the disinfection was complete, Zhao Xuning hung the white coat on the coat rack, then crossed her arms and looked at Liang Shi: "There's an eighty percent chance that the wounds on Gu Xingyue's body were self-inflicted. The placement and depth of the cuts are very similar."

"...So they weren't inflicted by someone else?" Liang Shi was surprised.

Zhao Xuning said, "There were also wounds inflicted by others, and those wounds are quite serious."

"Did you report this situation?" Liang Shi asked.

Zhao Xuning nodded: "Of course, but all her wounds look like they were inflicted by others, so they were all reported as such."

Liang Shi: "....."

"After Qi Jiao passed away, Mrs. Qi found Gu Xingyue to act as Qi Jiao's stand-in, right?" Zhao Xuning asked.

Liang Shi hesitated for a moment, then asked uncertainly, "Why are you asking about this?"

Zhao Xuning fell silent.

"There's something I have here, and I'm not sure whether I should tell you." Zhao Xuning said, "I'm still thinking about it."

Liang Shi: "?"

"What is Gu Xingyue's true identity?" Zhao Xuning asked, "Can her biological parents be found?"

Liang Shi shook her head: "She was a child adopted by the director of the former Angel Orphanage. She was abandoned at the orphanage's doorstep right after she was born."

Zhao Xuning frowned in thought, returned to her desk and pulled open a drawer, finding a document pressed at the very bottom.

It was in a dark-colored folder, appearing very solemn.

Liang Shi was puzzled: "What do you want to tell me?"

"You'll know once you look at it." Zhao Xuning pushed the folder over.

Liang Shi glanced at her suspiciously, not knowing what she was up to.¹

At first, she was calm and composed when opening the folder, but a few minutes later she was holding her breath in concentration, until she finished reading the very last word.

"This..." Liang Shi was so surprised she couldn't speak.

"As you can see." Zhao Xuning's arms rested on the wooden desk, her brows furrowed, "So, are you close with her?"

"Are you close with this person?" Liang Shi asked her in return.

A moment later, the two answered each other simultaneously, speaking in unison: "Sort of."

Nothing else needed to be said.

This document was a DNA test report. Zhao Xuning had taken Gu Xingyue's hair and compared it with a person named Feng Xian, and the results showed that the two were mother and daughter.

Liang Shi's heart was already in turmoil. After the initial shock passed, Liang Shi was finally able to calmly ask Zhao Xuning: "Why do you have this?"

"Feng Xian is my patient." Zhao Xuning said, "When I first came to this hospital, it was her first hospitalization. But her blood type is special—it's a relatively rare type among Omega blood types. At that time, she was hospitalized for anemia, but the hospital blood bank had no blood type compatible with hers, so they gave her Type O-AB blood."

Liang Shi didn't really understand this world's blood type rules either, so she could only quietly listen to Zhao Xuning explain.

Actually, the reason was simple: Feng Xian's blood type was so special that very few people could be compatible with her. There were only about a hundred or so people in the entire world with this blood type, and people with this blood type were more prone to developing anemia and other diseases during middle and old age, requiring extra care in daily life.

Yesterday, after Gu Xingyue was sent to the hospital, she needed a large blood transfusion due to excessive blood loss.

But unexpectedly, her blood type was also Type O-S, the same blood type as Feng Xian.

Zhao Xuning hadn't been practicing at the hospital for long, but she had asked their department head whether they had ever encountered a patient with Type O-S blood in their previous career. The head had also shaken her head, saying the last time she encountered one was when doing research abroad.

The blood bank only had a small amount of Type O-S blood, all of which had been donated in small quantities by Feng Xian after she recovered from her illness.

After Gu Xingyue received the same blood type, she initially absorbed it well, but unexpectedly, a rejection reaction occurred half an hour later. With no other choice, they could only give her Type O-AB blood instead.

Rejection reactions during blood transfusions vary depending on individual constitution. Omegas often experience this situation due to their special body structure.

So no one else thought anything of it.

But Zhao Xuning had met Feng Xian before, and Feng Xian had mentioned during her hospitalization that she once had a daughter, but her daughter was lost.

Gu Xingyue's face bore about forty percent resemblance to Feng Xian.

¹ Not knowing what she was up to (不知她葫蘆裏賣得什麼藥): This is a Chinese idiom that literally translates to "not knowing what medicine is being sold in her gourd." In ancient China, traveling doctors would carry medicine in gourds, and this phrase came to mean not knowing someone's true intentions or what they're planning.
