

Chapter 135-3

//

The day Liang Shi went to see Chen Liuying was a windy day.

After the snow had just fallen on this coastal city, it didn't warm up but instead started blowing strong winds.

The wind scattered the snow everywhere. The roads that had just been swept were covered with snowflakes again before long, though only a thin layer that would melt into water when the midday sun came out.

After Xu Qingzhu's heat period passed, Liang Shi was finally able to extricate herself from those matters.

When she thought back on those days, they were quite pleasant.

There was nothing to think about—in that small space, there were only the two of them.

One day, after a thoroughly satisfying session, Liang Shi carried Xu Qingzhu, wrapped in a blanket, to the sofa to watch a movie.

She had already forgotten what the movie was about.

The only thing she remembered was that there was a very beautiful kissing scene in the movie.

When the camera turned to that scene, Liang Shi and Xu Qingzhu looked at each other simultaneously.

They smiled at each other.

Their slightly curved lips touched, not caring that it was broad daylight, with the cold sunlight refracting in through the window.

Only after they finished did they discover that the sofa cushion was not easy to clean at all. In the end, they had no choice but to order a new sofa cushion online.

After placing the order, Liang Shi figured since they were going to replace it anyway, she took Xu Qingzhu for another round.

After all, they couldn't let the soon-to-be-discarded sofa cushion go to waste.

It was clearly the most ordinary scene, yet in both their eyes, it carried an enchanting atmosphere.

Afterward, they watched movies together several more times, and almost all ended the same way.

Indulging in intimacy could make one's willpower weaken.

At that time, they were like sinking into a safe harbor, not wanting to think about anything, letting their bodies' instincts take over.

Liang Shi wasn't entirely wooden in these matters either. To coax Xu Qingzhu, she would call her "baby," "wife," "Zhuzi," "meimei," and "little princess" when emotions ran deep.

Of course, what she called her most often was still "little princess."

Liang Shi would always sigh helplessly: "Meimei, after all these years, how are you still such a little princess?"

Xu Qingzhu was crying so hard she was gasping for breath, having no time to answer her question.

During Xu Qingzhu's heat period, Liang Shi also paid attention to contraception.

Afraid of harming Xu Qingzhu's body, she later specifically went to buy birth control pills for Alphas.

Except for the first day, when there wasn't time.

But the educational documentary had also mentioned that on the first day of an Omega's heat period, as well as when an Alpha had just marked an Omega, the possibility of pregnancy was extremely low.

By the time she remembered this, time had already passed and there were no remedial measures, so Liang Shi just left it to fate.

Such a low-probability event surely wouldn't happen to her.

After Xu Qingzhu's heat period passed, Liang Shi planned to go see Chen Liuying, Gu Xingyue, Yang Jiani, and Chen Mian.

There were too many people to see. She listed them all for Xu Qingzhu to hear.

Xu Qingzhu's sensitive emotions from just finishing her heat period hadn't completely subsided. Hearing this, she scoffed lightly, "So basically you don't want to spend even a moment with me anymore."

Liang Shi: "?"

Liang Shi felt deeply wronged and immediately hugged her, "Xu Qingzhu, you can't wrong me like this."

"How am I wronging you?" Before anything else happened, Xu Qingzhu's eyes were already red, leaving Liang Shi at a loss for what to do. Fortunately, she had figured out some ways to coax her during these past few days.

Liang Shi leaned in and licked her earlobe in a placating manner.

Xu Qingzhu pushed her, "Don't..."

Liang Shi blew a breath into her ear, "Still angry?"

Xu Qingzhu: "...You're annoying."

"So are you still angry?" As Liang Shi spoke, she was about to repeat the earlier action, but Xu Qingzhu pinched her face, "Are you done yet?"

Liang Shi chuckled softly: "It's all because you forced me to."

Xu Qingzhu lowered her eyes, and before she could even speak, her voice was already choked: "It's because you're mean."

Liang Shi reached out to wipe away her tears, "Okay, I'm mean."

Liang Shi brought her to the sofa and coaxed her in a low voice, "Baby, don't cry anymore."

During these past few days, the phrase Liang Shi said most often was "don't cry anymore."

But an Omega in heat was emotionally fragile, and the more she was told not to cry, the more tears would flow.

There was even one night when Xu Qingzhu cried until she nearly fainted.

After waking up, she continued crying. Liang Shi said she wanted to stop, but Xu Qingzhu cried even harder.

After becoming slightly more lucid, Xu Qingzhu said to Liang Shi in a very soft voice: "Actually, it feels good."

She was crying because it felt too pleasurable.

It was crying from happiness, not from sadness.

Xu Qingzhu also said: "Actually, I don't want to cry either, but I can't stop the tears. There's nothing I can do."

Liang Shi comforted her: "It's all this damn heat period's fault."

Just hearing this one sentence made Xu Qingzhu's eyes redden.

Sometimes Xu Qingzhu's tears wouldn't fall; it was simply that her voice was choked.

During the day when she went to work, her voice was hoarse.

During those nights of revelry, Liang Shi even compared finger lengths with Xu Qingzhu.

They lay side by side on the bed, the room lights bright.

That was also shortly after they had just finished, when Xu Qingzhu still had her rationality and could chat with her.