

Chapter 137-1

After leaving the public security bureau, the wind grew even stronger.

Liang Shi quickened her pace for several steps before getting into the car.

She inserted the car key and turned on the heater, finally blocking out the howling wind outside.

The wind whistled as it swept up the damp, withered branches and rotting leaves of the city. People on both sides of the road braced against the wind as they walked, their hair blown into disarray.

Liang Shi, who had just endured the baptism of the fierce wind outside, was no exception.

Using her ten fingers as a comb, Liang Shi casually smoothed out her somewhat messy hair.

Chen Liuying's words still echoed in her mind.

—It was like the thought was just in my head, so I did it.

—Who knows?

—No one instigated me, and I didn't think about the consequences.

—Do I regret it? I don't know either. It's already come to this anyway.

Chen Liuying's tone had been very confused, only becoming resolute again toward the end when she said: "Even if I regretted it, you wouldn't let me go anyway, so why should I regret anything?"

Chen Liuying said: "The only thing I regret is not gouging out your glands."

Liang Shi had then asked her: "Why are you so obsessed with gouging out my glands?"

Chen Liuying fell into confusion again because of her question, asking once more: "Yeah, why is that?"

But she didn't say anything more to Liang Shi.

After she herself emerged from her period of confusion, she gave a big yawn and said with a hooked smile: "Why should I tell you?"

Liang Shi: "....."

"What do you want to find out from me?" Chen Liuying scoffed lightly. "I'll never let you know."

Liang Shi hadn't expected Chen Liuying to be so vigilant.

Or perhaps Chen Liuying simply felt pure revulsion toward her.

Yet Liang Shi said: "Why do you hate me so much? Is it simply because I stole your spotlight? But in the entertainment industry, there are so many people more capable than you, and so many people competing with you from the same period. Why... why is it specifically me?"

Liang Shi spoke with measured cadence, attempting to lead Chen Liuying into her verbal trap.

But Chen Liuying was completely impervious. "Think whatever you want."

That single sentence blocked off all of Liang Shi's overflowing thoughts.

But what Chen Liuying had said earlier was enough to set Liang Shi's mind racing.

The System had once said that important plot points would not be changed.

Yet now she had essentially changed part of the outcome—Chen Liuying, who was supposed to gouge out her glands, was now in prison, and her glands had not been gouged out. Additionally, she had done something that didn't happen in the original book—temporarily marked Xu Qingzhu.

Furthermore, Xu Qingzhu's glands were also still intact, and she had never had any thoughts of gouging out Xu Qingzhu's glands.

The outcomes of the two major plot points from the original book had actually been changed.

Such changes would inevitably trigger a butterfly effect.

Now everything was developing in a positive direction, so where would this butterfly effect manifest?

After meeting with Chen Liuying, Liang Shi's mood had become somewhat poor.

There was an indescribable feeling of oppression.

Since she had temporarily marked Xu Qingzhu and said she would take responsibility, what she needed to do next was certainly to face off against the righteous Alpha, Lu Jiayi.

That was the most important storyline.

Lu Jiayi, as the female lead, was far superior to her in both external conditions and inner qualities.

At any rate, she was far superior to the original owner.

Liang Shi had never met Lu Jiayi, so she couldn't make comparisons.

But since Xu Qingzhu, as one of the female leads in the book, was already so outstanding, the other one who could stand as her equal naturally wouldn't be lacking either.
