

Chapter 138-1

After receiving Xu Qingzhu's message, Liang Shi didn't get out of the car.

The car door that had already been opened was closed again.

There was a crowd of people on the roadside, and the cars near Liang Shi's vehicle were being driven away one after another.

The orange sunset fell on the silver car body. Liang Shi's gaze passed through the car window, but she could only see Xu Qingzhu's back.

This morning was the day Xu Qingzhu officially confirmed she had passed through her heat period. Her body temperature had returned to normal, and she no longer needed suppressants or would be affected by Alpha pheromones.

However, the two of them had carried on rather late yesterday.

When Liang Shi went downstairs to buy dinner last night, she had also made a trip to the pharmacy to buy some ointment.

When buying it, she was a bit embarrassed to say it out loud. In the end, she stammered out a few words: "Omega... heat period... that thing... too much... a bit red and swollen..."

The shop assistant understood immediately and recommended the latest ointment to her.

She even thoughtfully told her: "The medicinal effect is very powerful. It'll be better in just half an hour, and it won't affect your intimate activities."

Liang Shi's ears instantly felt like they were on fire.

She hurriedly ran out of that pharmacy.

Last night, Xu Qingzhu's heat period had actually already passed safely, but there was still some residual warmth.

After dinner, Liang Shi told her to go take a bath. After tidying up the kitchen, it would be just the right time to help her apply the ointment.

Liang Shi was very serious about applying the ointment.

She even placed the suppressant on the bedside table. At that time, she thought very solemnly: "Tonight, I will definitely not touch Xu Qingzhu."

Xu Qingzhu's body also couldn't take much more. When she went to have lunch with Sally and the others at noon, she felt her waist and back aching after walking just a few steps, and a thin layer of cold sweat seeped out on her forehead.

This had greatly alarmed Sally at the time, who thought she had contracted some incurable disease.

Xu Qingzhu was helpless.

Both of them had secretly made up their minds.

Xu Qingzhu also told Liang Shi to leave the ointment in the room—she would apply it herself.

Seeing this, Liang Shi didn't force her and waited at the door.

The downside of having a small home became apparent at this moment—the room wasn't very soundproof.

And what the shop assistant had said was still conservative; the ointment's effectiveness was indeed very good.

But Xu Qingzhu couldn't see. When the transparent ointment was squeezed onto her fingers and applied, the icy sensation was too strong. It made her shiver involuntarily, and she instinctively leaned back, but her head hit the headboard.

It hurt so much that tears immediately fell.

The sounds from the room naturally didn't escape Liang Shi's ears. She pushed open the door and went in.

Xu Qingzhu was rubbing her head with her hands. She slightly raised her head, her eyes brimming with tears.

Liang Shi immediately asked gently: "What happened?"

Xu Qingzhu felt even more aggrieved: "Jiejie~ It hurts."

Liang Shi raised her hand to cover the back of Xu Qingzhu's hand, her heart aching as she said: "Be more careful."

After bumping her head, the vulnerability that had accumulated over these past few days made Xu Qingzhu unable to bring herself to apply the ointment on herself, so she handed the task over to Liang Shi.

Liang Shi was also feeling quite embarrassed.

Although they had done everything already, and there had been absurd moments.

But it had never been like this, with the room lights bright as day, where even the subtle expressions on her face could be seen clearly.

Her face felt inexplicably hot.

Liang Shi kept giving herself a mental pep talk: "It's fine, just treat her like a patient."

"She's already hurt. I can't possibly still continue doing it—that would be too inhumane."

After giving herself enough mental preparation, but when she leaned on the bed with ointment on her fingers...

The transparent cream refracted light on her fingers, looking extremely alluring.

Liang Shi's hand suddenly trembled, causing Xu Qingzhu to hiss at her: "It hurts."

Liang Shi immediately apologized.

In the end, she still couldn't hold back.

Originally, she was supposed to be comforting her, but somehow, while comforting her, things became absurd once again.

When true feelings and passion took over, once started, it couldn't be stopped.

For people who had just tasted the pleasures of intimacy, no one could restrain themselves much.

Liang Shi still felt some heartache for Xu Qingzhu. At the crucial moment, she dawdled and asked: "Are you okay? How about we don't do it tonight."

Xu Qingzhu's tears had already fallen from the corners of her eyes onto the pillow. Her weakened hand rose to brush Liang Shi's hair behind her ear, her fingertips wiping the sweat at Liang Shi's temples. With just a slight tug, Liang Shi pressed down.

She had no resistance to begin with.

There was no need to hear an answer.

Xu Qingzhu's actions were the best answer.

By the time they went to sleep last night, it was already past three o'clock. Liang Shi finally managed to properly apply the medicine on Xu Qingzhu without any more fooling around.

Mainly because Xu Qingzhu had cried until her voice was hoarse, her whole body collapsed on the bed, utterly exhausted.

She had practically fallen into a deep sleep.

When Liang Shi was applying the medicine for her, her toes had curled up many times.

She sobbed intermittently.

After Liang Shi finished applying the medicine, she kissed her again—her forehead, nose, and lips—and only then was she finally soothed.

Naturally, they woke up late this morning.

Xu Qingzhu had a very important meeting. She didn't have time to coordinate her outfit and just grabbed whatever to put on.

But even a casually thrown-together outfit looked beautiful on her.

Inside was a gray turtleneck sweater, paired with a foolproof and versatile white shirt, then a light-colored blazer, and on the outermost layer, a coat in matching tones.

She wore many layers, yet didn't look bulky at all.

Xu Qingzhu stood there with an upright posture, the orange sunset casting a long, slender shadow behind her.

She stood there chatting with Sun Chengcheng, without much expression, only occasionally giving a reaction, yet Sun Chengcheng could continue talking animatedly.

Standing opposite Xu Qingzhu, Sun Chengcheng was really no comparison.

Liang Shi's gaze barely fell on Sun Chengcheng at all.
