

Chapter 139-3

//

On the way back that night, Liang Shi even played very sweet songs on the car stereo.

It was also on the way back that she learned that Xu Qingzhu had already known who Sun Chengcheng was while she was in a coma.

Sun Chengcheng approaching her was probably just to build a good relationship. Although she didn't know why Sun Chengcheng wanted to do that, Xu Qingzhu was playing along with her scheme.

Liang Shi actually didn't quite agree with her approach. For someone like that, Liang Shi would rather have her stay far away.

But Xu Qingzhu smiled and said: "Whether it's a tiger or a cat, it's always safer to keep them by your side."

Liang Shi: "?"

"It's easier to put a cage on her." Xu Qingzhu said.

So that's why Xu Qingzhu had sent Liang Shi a message telling her not to come out and not to meet Sun Chengcheng face to face.

But Liang Shi said: "It's no use. We'll be working together later anyway."

"But she doesn't know I'm also the one from before." Liang Shi said.

Xu Qingzhu nodded upon hearing this: "Then remember to hide it well."

Liang Shi: "?"

"This kind of thing—closing the door to beat the dog."¹ Xu Qingzhu said: "I'm quite good at it."

She was clearly talking about the tactics commonly used by capitalists.

Usually, these were things Liang Shi had looked down upon before, thinking that those who played schemes were dirty.

But when these words came out of Xu Qingzhu's mouth, Liang Shi only found her cute.

No matter what she did, she was cute.

Liang Shi and Xu Qingzhu didn't eat out. Although Xu Qingzhu was already starving, tomorrow was a rare day off, so she wanted to indulge a little tonight.

It had been too long since she'd eaten Liang Shi's cooking, so tonight she wanted Liang Shi to cook. She didn't mind that they wouldn't be able to eat until the early morning hours.

So the two of them stopped by the supermarket on the way.

It was the first time they had gone grocery shopping together.

Xu Qingzhu grabbed a lot of snacks. Liang Shi was pushing the small cart beside her, looking at all those high-calorie foods in surprise: "You're going to eat all of these tonight?"

"Not necessarily able to finish them all." Xu Qingzhu said: "But I am eating them tonight."

"They're all puffed snacks." Liang Shi said.

Xu Qingzhu shrugged indifferently: "It's not like I'll get fat."

Liang Shi: "....."

So she didn't prepare any for her?

"What should we drink tonight?" Xu Qingzhu asked: "Alcohol or soft drinks?"

"Alcohol." Liang Shi said.

So Xu Qingzhu grabbed a bottle of red wine from the shelf.

Liang Shi looked at vegetables and fruits, filling up a small cart full.

When it came time to pay, Liang Shi was about to do it, but Xu Qingzhu beat her to it.

Liang Shi carried the bags with one hand and held her with the other as they left the supermarket.

"Why do you have to compete even over paying?" Liang Shi teased her: "President Xu is rich, isn't she?"

"I suppose so." Xu Qingzhu slid her fingers through the gaps between Liang Shi's fingers. The wind blew toward them, but she didn't feel cold at all.

Xu Qingzhu leaned closer to Liang Shi's side. "I still have enough money to support my jiejie."

Liang Shi: "....."

"I have money." Liang Shi said: "I can support you."

Xu Qingzhu raised an eyebrow: "Huh? How much?"

Liang Shi's eyes rolled, her voice very low: "About two hundred or so."

"How much?" Xu Qingzhu pretended not to hear.

"About two hundred." Liang Shi repeated.

Xu Qingzhu paused for a moment. "Then what are you going to support me with? Are we going to eat steamed buns and pickled vegetables together?"

Liang Shi laughed at this and pinched her fingers. "Add 'ten thousand' after that."

"That's quite a lot." Xu Qingzhu said: "Teacher Liang has quite a nice nest egg. What are you planning to do with it eventually?"

Liang Shi paused for a moment. "Buy a house, I guess."

Xu Qingzhu: "?"

"That works too." Xu Qingzhu said: "Should we ask Zhao Xuning to buy the place we're living in now? Or buy a different one?"

"What do you think?" Liang Shi asked her: "Where do you want to live? Anywhere is fine with me."

"Anywhere is fine with me too." Xu Qingzhu rested her head on her shoulder. "Wherever you go, I'll go."

"Really?"

"Even if you go back to that place of yours in the future, I'll find a way to follow you." Xu Qingzhu's cool voice laughed: "Jiejie, are you at ease now?"

Liang Shi: ".....At ease."

"By the way, did you want to come back because of me?" Xu Qingzhu asked.

Liang Shi gave a low cough, too embarrassed to answer directly.

Even though Xu Qingzhu had asked this question many times in bed during her heat period.

But asking it now made Liang Shi's feelings feel somewhat at a loss.

However, after a moment, she still answered firmly: "Yes."

"That's really nice." Xu Qingzhu said: "You got your wish."

Liang Shi: "....."

She had a feeling Xu Qingzhu was complimenting herself.

-
1. "Closing the door to beat the dog" (關門打狗) is a Chinese idiom/military strategy meaning to trap someone before attacking them, cutting off their escape route before dealing with them. It's one of the Thirty-Six Stratagems in Chinese military strategy. ⇐