

Chapter 15-1

Why not just get divorced?

This thought briefly appeared in Liang Shi's mind.

This job was undoable.

The original body had left behind too many messes, like a tangled ball of yarn with no beginning thread to be found—impossible to cut through and even more impossible to untangle.

When she came out of Xu Qingzhu's hospital room, Bai Weiwei was still trying to persuade Xu Qingzhu to divorce.

Xu Qingzhu didn't really react, her expression remained indifferent. Although she didn't look well, she also didn't bring up divorce.

But Liang Shi had never been good at handling these kinds of situations.

Interpersonal relationships were so difficult!

She almost couldn't hold it together and nearly got into an argument with Bai Weiwei.

Even though she didn't argue, she was still in a bad mood when she came out of the hospital room.

This damn system—what kind of ridiculous mission was this!

The original body was such trash—couldn't they just kill her off directly?

Let Xu Qingzhu be a young widow, wealthy and free, let her be an ordinary person—wouldn't that work?

Why force her to pursue Xu Qingzhu?

Liang Shi sat on a bench in the hospital for a while.

This was a small path that people often came to for shade in summer, but in autumn, very few people came. Plus the recent bad weather—the autumn wind getting colder day by day—and the hospital being full of people with poor health, this place was very quiet.

She gulped down a belly full of ice water, slightly cooling down her anger.

Even clay figures have some temper¹.

People used to say that Liang Shi lived like an immortal.

Her assistant Jingjing often said, "Teacher Liang is a banished immortal from heaven who never gets angry."

Faced with Jingjing's teasing, Liang Shi would just smile, "It's not that exaggerated."

She simply felt it wasn't necessary.

But her current circumstances made her very mentally exhausted.

She could understand that the system had given her a chance at a new life, so it wanted her to do some things—in other words, pay some price.

But without telling her anything, how was she supposed to do it?

Really just giving her a broken wooden sword and forcing her to fight a dragon?

Too challenging.

Autumn skies changed extremely quickly. The sun had just been hanging in the sky, but in no time, large patches of dark clouds moved in, covering the sky and making it look gloomy, as if a storm was brewing.

The autumn wind swept up fallen leaves, and withered branches and dead leaves swirled as they were blown away.

Liang Shi sneezed. After a while, she took out her phone and replied to Qiu Zimin's message: 【Got it, I'll be there on time.】

Just keep living.

Take it one step at a time.

At this point, there was no better solution.

Liang Shi decided not to clean up the original body's messes anymore.

Being herself—wasn't that happier?

Anyway, she probably wouldn't live much longer.

As for the system?

Let it do whatever it wanted.

What did it have to do with her?

Having thought this through, Liang Shi's mood improved.

Even her speed in replying to Qiu Zimin's messages picked up.

"That's good then," Qiu Zimin's voice message came quickly, "You know the Zhou family's influence. Your father has recently set his sights on a piece of land in the south of the city. Whether it can be approved still depends on Zhou Liye², so take advantage of this opportunity to get along well with Yi'an."

Liang Shi: "...?"

"Yi'an likes you—everyone knows that," Qiu Zimin sent another voice message, still quite long, "Don't take advantage of her feelings and act recklessly. Now is different from before. You need to know that the Zhou family is not what it used to be—they've connected with the Shen family line and soared to new heights³. If you still want your father to provide financing for the Xu family, then don't mess around and talk properly with Yi'an."

Liang Shi: "..."

She listened to the voice message twice, trying hard to do reading comprehension.

Later she converted it to text.

She roughly understood.

But the first question she thought of was: The original body was such trash—why would Zhou Yi'an like her?

Was she blind?

Through the screen, Liang Shi hadn't seen Qiu Zimin either, so she just replied: 【Got it.】

A standard response.

She turned off her phone screen and let out an almost imperceptible sigh.

"What are you thinking about?" A clear, cold voice suddenly rang out beside her ear.

It startled Liang Shi.

Her eyelid even twitched as she covered her heart and leaned back slightly, just in time to look up and see who it was—Xu Qingzhu.

Footnotes:

¹ Even clay figures have some temper (泥人都有三分脾氣): A Chinese idiom meaning that even the most patient person has limits and will eventually get angry if pushed too far.

² Zhou Liye (周禮燁): Zhou Yi'an's family member who apparently has influence over land approval decisions, indicating the Zhou family's political connections.

³ Soared to new heights (一朝飛上枝頭): Part of a Chinese idiom "一朝飛上枝頭變鳳凰" (once flying to the treetops, becoming a phoenix), meaning to suddenly rise in social status or power.