

Chapter 190 - Part 2

Extra 12-2

After Gu Yixue finished talking with the auntie, she went back to her room to shower. When she came out after showering, it was already 11:40. She casually applied body lotion while sitting around bored in a daze.

Clearly, Shen Fenghe hadn't come back yet.

And her phone hadn't rung either, so Shen Fenghe had even forgotten her birthday.

Gu Yixue glanced at her phone. Many were messages from staff and actors. She opened them one by one to look, but didn't reply to anyone.

After applying body lotion, the air filled with a faint jasmine fragrance.

She didn't care that her hair was still wet and leaned against the bed, lowering her head to play a little game, trying to keep her heart from being so affected.

But at times like this, little games couldn't distract Gu Yixue's attention either.

After playing one round, Gu Yixue sat by the bay window again to look at the moon.

Her birthday was close to the fifteenth, so the moon was very round.

Not knowing what she was thinking about, she slowly felt drowsy.

Over these years, Gu Yixue's life hadn't been easy. Walking on thin ice in the Gu family, there were several times in her sleep when Gu Chunmian nearly smothered her to death, so her sleep was very light.

The moment someone touched her, she would wake up.

When she woke up, she happened to grab a slender wrist. Even though her eyes couldn't quite open yet, her hand had already applied force, so she heard a familiar muffled groan.

Gu Yixue fully woke up.

She sat up and pinched the bridge of her nose, discovering an extra blanket on her body that hadn't been properly covered yet.

Gu Yixue asked hoarsely: "Why did you come back?"

Shen Fenghe raised an eyebrow: "Can't I come back to my own home?"

Gu Yixue paused: "I didn't mean that."

"Oh." Shen Fenghe said.

Shen Fenghe had never been afraid of awkwardness.

She always had the ability to adjust the atmosphere to its most awkward state.

At this moment, the room fell silent. Gu Yixue was still a bit dazed. Her hair was half-dry. She casually grabbed at it and actually pulled out a strand of hair.

That long strand lay alone in her palm, divided into two very distinct color tones.

It had been a long time since she'd dyed her hair. Gu Yixue thought.

Gu Yixue sat there, beginning to regret why she came back.

She shouldn't have had expectations.

The higher the expectations, the greater the disappointment.

Usually it didn't matter if she took more initiative, but on days like this, she kept a selfish hope that just for this one day, Shen Fenghe would be a little better to her, and then she could continue burning herself out.

"Did you eat?" Shen Fenghe asked first.

Gu Yixue shook her head: "No."

A few minutes passed, and Gu Yixue finally became somewhat more clear-headed.

She stood up and looked at Shen Fenghe, really wanting to hug her.

Thinking this, she did it.

One good thing about marrying Shen Fenghe was that she wouldn't resist her approaches like before.

Gu Yixue could hug her, could kiss her. When in bed, they were also uninhibited.

Gu Yixue would deliberately use a very tender voice to call her elder sister, sometimes even boldly calling: "Shen Fenghe."

Enunciating each word clearly.

Shen Fenghe would pause.

In her impression, Gu Yixue had always been someone who obediently called her elder sister.

So Gu Yixue calling her elder sister was perfectly normal.

But suddenly calling her by name, Shen Fenghe felt somewhat awkward, so she would pinch her waist, leaving obvious red marks on that beautiful waistline, "Not good."

Gu Yixue especially loved wearing crop tops.

Her waistline was often exposed.

Her closet was full of this type of clothing.

And her waist was indeed beautiful.

But after marrying Shen Fenghe, Gu Yixue's closet gained many oversized clothes, in a style completely different from her usual one.

Shen Fenghe liked them.

Especially because she wanted her to wear oversized clothes, she would deliberately leave marks on her waist during their intimate moments that wouldn't fade.

Maybe by the next time they were intimate, the marks still hadn't completely faded.

Gu Yixue didn't mind though.

On the contrary, she really liked it.

She always had to find evidence in these small details to prove that Shen Fenghe cared about her.

Even if it wasn't love, it was at least caring.
