

Chapter 47-1

Xu Qingzhu saw Bai Weiwei's message just as she closed her computer, planning to leave work.

What first caught her eye was a bunch of photos, followed by those words.

After saying all that, she wanted to reply, but the message she sent out had a red exclamation mark in front of it.

Bai Weiwei had blocked her.

This matter was quite ridiculous when you thought about it.

Bai Weiwei had specifically removed her from the blacklist just to say this.

Not knowing what kind of intention she had, it was all quite speechless.

After dinner, Xu Qingzhu reminded Liang Shi to be careful.

She might be secretly photographed in the future.

Liang Shi was startled, "I really didn't do anything to betray you."

"I know." Xu Qingzhu said, "But some media will make up stories based on photos."

Liang Shi: "..."

She was silent for a few seconds, then said helplessly, "I'll be careful to keep my distance in the future."

It clearly hadn't been too long since she left that circle. The days of being followed and secretly photographed on the way home, downstairs, and at hotel entrances hadn't passed that long ago, but when Liang Shi thought about it now, it felt as distant as a century.

Those days seemed very far away from her now.

Regarding Cheng Ran's matter, Liang Shi didn't say much, so Xu Qingzhu didn't ask either.

Dinner was takeout that Xu Qingzhu had brought home, just needing to be warmed up in the microwave.

This was a relatively friendly approach for Xu Qingzhu, who couldn't cook.

After dinner, it was Liang Shi who washed the dishes while Xu Qingzhu sat on the living room sofa continuing to work.

She seemed to have endless things to keep her busy.

After Liang Shi finished washing the dishes, seeing her frowning deeply, she didn't go out to disturb her. Instead, she took some fruit from the refrigerator, washed a plate of fruit, and brought it out.

Even the action of placing it on the coffee table was very gentle.

When Xu Qingzhu finished her work, she sat there chatting casually with Liang Shi.

Somehow, they started talking about Qi Jiao's situation and then moved on to Rainbow. Liang Shi said she had been lectured by a five-year-old child.

Hearing this, Xu Qingzhu raised an eyebrow, "Tell me about it."

Liang Shi then told Xu Qingzhu about Rainbow's remarks from today, and finally asked, "Do you think it's the adults who are strange, or this little child who's strange?"

"This little child." Xu Qingzhu paused for a moment, then after a long while found a word to describe her, "Very smart."

"Yes, last time when she watched a sci-fi movie with me, she guessed the character logic and story direction very accurately." Liang Shi said, "And she was watching it in full English."

"Is she mixed-race?" Xu Qingzhu asked.

"Yes." Liang Shi said.

"Mixed-race children are indeed a bit smarter than ordinary children." Xu Qingzhu said, "But I think her remarks are quite valid."

As someone who had been hurt in childhood, Xu Qingzhu reflected on her own feelings back then. After a long while, she said in a low voice, "Harm won't disappear just because you don't look at it."

"But she's just a little child." Liang Shi said, "Isn't protecting children supposed to be adults' responsibility? At her age, she should be carefree, only worrying about what to eat and drink each day."

Xu Qingzhu glanced at her, "What about when you encounter irresponsible parents?"

Liang Shi: "..."

She was silent for a moment, then said, "Irresponsible parents wouldn't teach children these things either."

Xu Qingzhu nodded, "So children still have to grow up on their own. These are truths they'll have to understand sooner or later. Knowing them earlier is definitely better than knowing them later, right?"

Liang Shi sighed, "But these things are too painful for little children."

Hearing this, Xu Qingzhu looked at her with a meaningful gaze.

Liang Shi suddenly felt uneasy, "Why... why are you looking at me like that?"

Xu Qingzhu pressed her temples and said very seriously, "Promise me, if you have children in the future, please don't teach them yourself, okay?"

Liang Shi: "Huh? Why?"

Xu Qingzhu smiled, "You'll spoil them rotten."

This was clearly a future daughter-doting father¹ in training.

Liang Shi: "..."

She said in a low voice, "I don't have children yet. It's too early to think about these things."

Xu Qingzhu: "Planning ahead."

Liang Shi belatedly realized - so... what were they discussing?

How to educate children in the future?

Footnotes: ¹ Daughter-doting father (女兒奴): A Chinese term referring to fathers who are extremely protective and indulgent toward their daughters, often spoiling them.
