

Chapter 72-4

"How can you be certain that something must have happened over twenty years ago?" Liang Shi asked.

Xu Qingzhu paused. Her clear, cold voice sounded simultaneously with the car engine starting, but completely overpowered the sound of the car.

The car sped along the road. Xu Qingzhu's speech was neither hurried nor slow as she analyzed methodically: "I just saw her. Obviously, she doesn't remember having had another daughter, and even Su Meiqi doesn't know."

"Zhou Yi'an told me that sentence about her always being in a psychiatric hospital, which indirectly indicates she might have developed mental illness from strong external stimulation. But she would take that little child to visit my uncle." When Xu Qingzhu said this term of address, she suddenly paused. After a while, she continued, "And you told me that little child is from a single-parent family, and her surname is Sheng, so it's very likely she's her and my uncle's daughter."

"Your uncle passed away many years ago." Liang Shi said.

"Sperm can be frozen." Xu Qingzhu said, "Su Yao still remembers things related to him, so this wouldn't be very difficult to accomplish."

Liang Shi: "....."

She had actually forgotten about that option.

And Xu Qingzhu continued analyzing, "The current CEO of Haiwei Jewelry is her older brother. Recently, while organizing Minghui's old materials, I discovered that Haiwei Jewelry has been in competition with Minghui in many areas, mainly starting from fifteen years ago. At that time, Su Zhe assumed the CEO position and repeatedly stole Minghui's business, ultimately dividing up the market directly."

"Couldn't it just be normal business competition?" Liang Shi deliberately asked.

Xu Qingzhu shook her head: "If it were normal business competition, then Haiwei should treat all companies in the jewelry industry equally. But very conveniently, he only targeted Minghui, even engaging in predatory pricing within the industry to steal resources from Minghui. It's purely squeezing out Minghui."

Liang Shi: "....."

I see.

"As recently as July this year, Haiwei was still squeezing Minghui's survival space, but ever since I entered the company....." Xu Qingzhu suddenly smiled, "Haiwei loosened its grip on Minghui. Even the competitive relationship isn't as obvious anymore, and they've even intentionally or unintentionally helped once."

"Although I'm not too certain about this point—after all, I've only been at the company for a short time—what I can confirm is that Su Zhe went crazy suppressing Minghui after taking his position, which should be related to his younger sister. And he knows about these matters, so why didn't he come to the Sheng family to demand an explanation? Why does he keep suppressing them in the business world instead?" Xu Qingzhu raised several questions in succession, then answered them herself: "It means they had a conflict over Sheng Qinglin's death over twenty years ago, and it should have been a very big conflict."

Liang Shi: "....."

This logical reasoning ability was truly exceptional.

But that wasn't all. Xu Qingzhu continued earnestly: "My birthday is forty days before Sheng Qinglin's death anniversary. The year I was born and the year he died are the same. If all of this is just coincidence..... then I can only say that things in this world are absurdly, ridiculously coincidental."

Liang Shi: "....."

After a long silence in the car, Liang Shi said quietly: "Don't you think your reasoning ability is absurdly strong?"

Xu Qingzhu: "?"

She was still seriously thinking about the whole matter, then looked at Liang Shi with astonishment, "Is this difficult?"

Liang Shi: "....."

"It requires remembering every detail and stringing them together." Liang Shi affirmed, "It's actually very difficult."

Xu Qingzhu: "..... Not too bad."

"So are you really going to dig up the truth?" Liang Shi asked, "The truth might be very cruel."

If it weren't cruel, Su Yao wouldn't have lost her memory, and wouldn't have lived like a mental patient for so many years.

This was a very realistic matter.

"But I also have the right to know." Xu Qingzhu propped one hand against the car window, her head resting in her palm. She looked lazy and casual, no longer tense like before, "Mainly because I feel that even if I don't want to know, someone will chase after me to tell me, so I might as well go look for myself."

"You mean Zhou Yi'an?" Liang Shi asked.

Xu Qingzhu shook her head: "Not just her."

After she entered the company, she would encounter Su Zhe sooner or later.

Then there was Zhou Yi'an, Su Meiqi, and even when Liang Shi went to pick up a child, she would run into Sheng Yu.

It was as if there was an invisible thread connecting all these people.

Suddenly, silently entering her life, as if wordlessly saying: "You should know."

Then she would know.

Xu Qingzhu had adjusted her state and prepared herself mentally for the worst.

Liang Shi couldn't help but admire her psychological fortitude, saying sincerely: "Teacher Xu, you're amazing."

Without her needing to do anything, she had sorted out the entire matter's context by herself.

"Mm?" Xu Qingzhu raised an eyebrow, smiling lightly: "Teacher Liang, that doesn't sound like a compliment."

Liang Shi: "No, it's absolutely sincere praise."

"Then I accept it." Xu Qingzhu said.

Liang Shi asked her: "Have you thought about what the worst outcome would be?"

Xu Qingzhu thought for a moment and answered: "Su Yao's illness was caused by my grandparents, or even my parents. Su Zhe hates the Sheng family to the bone, wishing Minghui would go bankrupt immediately. Su Yao recovers her memory and once again goes abroad far away. Minghui....."

She paused, then said the last two words coldly: "Bank. Rupt."
