

Chapter 97-5

Liang Xinhe had gone home last night to confront Liang Xinran, but Qiu Zimin had protected her. Liang Xinhe ended up getting hit by Qiu Zimin too.

Listening to this, Liang Shi felt a mix of emotions. She thought Qiu Zimin had truly gone insane.

Her daughter was her biological child, but wasn't her son also her own flesh and blood?

When the whole world is trying to stop you, shouldn't you reflect on yourself a little?

But Qiu Zimin didn't reflect. She chose to go against the whole world.

The result was that Liang Xinran fainted, and Qiu Zimin was so angry that her chest hurt—she was hospitalized.

.....

What a drama this was.

After listening to his voice messages, Liang Shi sent an "okay" emoji.

Then she told him to calm down.

Liang Xinhe didn't reply after that—he had probably gone off to deal with things.

She hadn't been standing there waiting long when Shen Hui finished signing and came out. She didn't need anyone to pick her up and could leave directly.

As she passed by Liang Shi, she didn't even spare her a glance and walked straight ahead. But Liang Shi called out to stop her. "Dr. Shen, wait a moment."

Shen Hui stopped in her tracks but didn't turn around. She said coldly, "What is it?"

Liang Shi walked over and apologized to her gently. "I'm really sorry about last night. I didn't expect things to develop like this either. I've caused you trouble."

"You didn't give me any heads up before you hit someone." Shen Hui's light brown pupils swept across her face, indifferent and cold. "Don't you think it's a bit late to say this now?"

Liang Shi: ".....I'm really sorry. Desperate times call for desperate measures. Can I treat you to breakfast as an apology?"

Shen Hui: "No need. Just don't come to our hospital again."

Liang Shi: "....."

Having hit a soft wall, Liang Shi awkwardly touched the tip of her nose and asked seriously and politely, "Dr. Shen, may I ask why you dislike me?"

"Hm?" Shen Hui looked at her. "I dislike you?"

Liang Shi nodded. "Yes. I've sensed it since last night. You seem to be..... hostile toward me."

"You're imagining it." Shen Hui said. "The truth is, I look down on you."

Liang Shi: "?"

"This is our first time meeting, isn't it?" Liang Shi said. "Why would you say that?"

"A married person being involved with someone else in an unclear relationship." Shen Hui laughed contemptuously. "Does your wife know?"

Liang Shi: "....."

"I'm not!" Liang Shi said. "Who am I supposedly involved with? Dr. Shen, you can't just falsely accuse....."

"Shen Hui." Zhao Xuning suddenly interrupted her.

She came running against the faint morning light. Shen Hui's light brown pupils only gave her a brief, shallow glance. Then, as Zhao Xuning ran over, she took a step back to maintain distance, her hands stuffed in her trench coat pockets, appearing utterly cold and distant.

Zhao Xuning asked anxiously, "Are you okay?"

Shen Hui said coolly, "Why don't you go care about the person you should be caring about."

Zhao Xuning frowned. "Huh?"

Shen Hui lifted her chin toward Liang Shi. "I'm not the one who called you here. What do you want with me? Dr. Zhao, hanging around with a married woman—how impressive of you."

Zhao Xuning: "?"

Shen Hui laughed lightly, her eyes devoid of warmth. "Sorry, I forgot—Dr. Zhao has never had any boundaries."

Liang Shi & Zhao Xuning: "....."

Liang Shi now understood where her inexplicable hostility came from.

Just as Zhao Xuning was about to deny it, Liang Shi suddenly stepped forward and clung to Zhao Xuning's arm. "Oh my, Dr. Shen, so that's what you were talking about? My wife and I are in a lavender marriage¹. Dr. Zhao is my true love."

Zhao Xuning: "?"

Footnotes:

¹ Lavender marriage (形婚): Short for "形式婚姻" (xíngshì hūnyīn), literally "formal marriage" or "marriage in form only." This refers to a marriage of convenience, typically between a gay man and a lesbian woman, entered into for social appearances while both parties maintain their actual romantic relationships separately. It's a way for LGBTQ+ individuals to satisfy family and societal expectations in cultures where same-sex relationships are not widely accepted.
