

Chapter 99-3

.....

On this bed, Liang Shi was thoroughly worn out.

Sheng Yu was a little demon king. Ling Dang had been well-behaved at first, but then she joined in on the chaos. They made such a ruckus that Liang Shi lay exhausted on the bed with three little kids nestled around her.

Liang Shi held them down. "Alright, ceasefire."

Ling Dang nuzzled against her shoulder. "Auntie, then sing for us."

"Yay~!" Sheng Yu also said, "Sing the one you were singing in the bathroom just now. I want to hear it!"

Liang Shi: "....."

She really didn't remember singing!

Rainbow nodded. "It was very nice. The lyrics were good too."

Liang Shi asked, "You still remember them?"

Rainbow recited the lyrics like an emotionless reading machine.

Liang Shi roughly knew which song it was now. It had been sitting in her playlist gathering dust for a long time. There was a period when she had especially liked listening to it.

It also existed in this world. When she was taken away last night, one of the officers had this song as their phone ringtone, which awakened her memory.

She was about to sing when Ling Dang frowned. "That's not how it goes."

Rainbow said matter-of-factly and righteously, "I'm tone-deaf."

"Then recite the lyrics again." Ling Dang said.

Rainbow repeated them. Ling Dang worked hard to memorize the lyrics, then placed her short little fingers on Liang Shi's stomach.

Liang Shi felt her fingers tapping out a rhythm. After four beats, Ling Dang suddenly started singing, "Like a spring breeze blowing past my cheek, like a light rain falling on my shoe tips..."

Her voice was very clear and crisp, carrying a milky childish innocence. It didn't have the technical skill of an adult's singing, but it was full of emotion.

She had imitated about seventy percent of the original.

But she could only remember those two lines. By the third line, she could only hum the melody.

Liang Shi continued singing along with her rhythm. "Like the fallen leaves swirling on an autumn street, like a lamp going out in the endless night..."

Ling Dang gently tapped Liang Shi's stomach through the blanket to keep the beat. Sheng Yu saw this and followed suit.

Only Rainbow was thinking: Those two are so childish.

When Xu Qingzhu and Su Yao returned, this was the scene they saw.

Liang Shi sat in the middle of the bed, her hair seventy percent dry, pajamas loosely draped on her body, surrounded by three little kids, singing gently.

A gentle person even had a gentle voice. It was like she was singing a slow love song, full of patience.

Su Yao stood beside her and said softly, "A-Shi sings quite nicely too."

Xu Qingzhu nodded. "Not bad."

The two of them didn't interrupt the warm scene in the room and went straight to the kitchen.

In the kitchen, Su Yao asked Xu Qingzhu, "Do you still have a lot of work at the company?"

Xu Qingzhu nodded. "A lot."

After Xu Guangyao had talked with her last time, he had given her authority. She was no longer in the Design Department—she had given the position of Acting Department Head to Sally. She went directly to the President's Office and became the General Manager.

She was currently in a phase of sweeping reforms. To rectify Minghui's current culture, she would inevitably have to change the practice of "appointing people based on personal connections" and find various reasons to lay off those who had gotten into the company through nepotism but had no actual ability.

So work was still very busy. During the day at the company, she was working non-stop without rest. Only on Saturdays and Sundays could she squeeze out a little bit of time.

After a while, she probably wouldn't even have weekends free anymore.

There was a rest room in the President's Office. She would probably be living there for a long time.

So whether or not she moved didn't really matter.

"Then you need to take care of your health." Su Yao reminded her. "I don't understand business matters, but if you need help with anything, just tell me, or tell your uncle. He'll definitely help you."

Xu Qingzhu: "....."

She was stunned for a few seconds, then smiled helplessly. "Okay."

This was also the first time she had heard that when you run into problems, you could go ask your rival for help.

But she had no such plans. She didn't want to compete with Haiwei Jewelry for a share of the market pie.

Doing business wasn't about "what you have, I must not have." Smart people would choose a situation of mutual benefit and win-win.

Su Yao helped her divide the things they had bought onto plates.

Xu Qingzhu took the milk out of the refrigerator and poured it into cups to heat up for the children.

Su Yao hesitated to speak several times. Xu Qingzhu glanced at her repeatedly and took the initiative to ask, "Is there something you want to say?"

"Are you pregnant?" Su Yao asked quietly.

Xu Qingzhu: "....."

She shook her head. "No."

Su Yao lowered her eyes, hesitating again, not knowing whether she should say these things.

Xu Qingzhu hesitated for a moment, then put her arm around Su Yao's shoulder. "Just say whatever you want to say. I'm listening."

Su Yao first said, "Just listen to what I have to say. If you don't like it, just pretend I never said it, and don't take it too much to heart."

Xu Qingzhu was startled, wondering what she was going to say.

After waiting for a while, Su Yao said with concern, "I can see that A-Shi really likes children. When are you two planning to have kids? You're so busy with the company now, and her career should have just started too, right? If you have children, your aunt-in-law and I can help take care of them, but it's still better for children to grow up by their mother's side. Otherwise..."

She paused, thinking of her own situation over the years.

"Anyway, I just want to say that you need to plan for this. If you suddenly get pregnant in the middle of building your career, the child might seem like a bit of an inconvenience." Su Yao said. "And remember to ask A-Shi what she thinks, to see when would be a good time for you two to have children. Two people need to be on the same page about these things, otherwise it can easily sour the relationship."

Xu Qingzhu knew everything she said was right, but worrying about these issues now was premature.

However, she didn't refute Su Yao's words. Instead, she nodded and said she understood, telling her not to worry.

When the kitchen quieted down, Xu Qingzhu could still hear singing coming from next door.

Liang Shi really seemed to like children, and she was especially indulgent with them.
