

Chapter 102-2 Extra

Extra: Ji Jingrong Loves Yin Lingzhu the Most (If Line Ending) 2

After going out, she couldn't control the corners of her mouth from rising high.

"Do you guys know? Lawyer Ji is dating someone."

Her fingers almost created afterimages on the screen. After sending this message, the group chat exploded as expected.

"What? Which Lawyer Ji?"

"Please don't tell me it's Ji Jingrong, that workaholic."

"With her personality, how could she possibly be dating? Absolutely impossible."

She watched the excited discussions in the group with satisfaction.

She couldn't be the only one shocked.

"It is Ji Jingrong. When I went to deliver documents to her just now, I saw a girl sitting at her workstation."

She spilled everything she had just witnessed.

"This, maybe it's a sister or something."

"I don't even know what Lawyer Ji's office looks like."

"Last time my stomach hurt, only her office had hot water. Damn, she didn't even have a reception chair for me to sit in, made me stand while getting water."

"Holy shit, someone as cold-blooded as Ji Jingrong would date?"

The group was now buzzing with various discussions about what happened.

Ji Jingrong also had an alternate account lurking in this gossip group.

The constant notification sounds made her pick up her phone.

Seeing the messages in the group, she glanced at Yin Lingzhu, who was already asleep.

"I'm pursuing her, not dating her."

Ji Jingrong sent this message to the group, then set it to do not disturb and closed her phone, not caring about others' reactions.

She slowly walked to Yin Lingzhu's side, gazing at Yin Lingzhu's sleeping face.

She hadn't expected Yin Lingzhu to come looking for her.

She poked Yin Lingzhu's face with her finger, feeling the sensation under her fingertip with some curiosity.

Ji Jingrong rarely had physical contact with people.

Yin Lingzhu was also awakened by her movements.

The just-awakened Yin Lingzhu hadn't figured out the situation yet and thought she was in her own room.

She rubbed her eyes, and after her vision returned to normal, she suddenly realized this wasn't her territory.

Seeing Ji Jingrong beside her, Yin Lingzhu's face instantly turned red as blood.

Losing face in front of someone she had feelings for.

"I'm sorry, I fell asleep."

Yin Lingzhu got up from the chair and said quietly.

Ji Jingrong smiled nonchalantly. In her view, the just-awakened Yin Lingzhu was explosively cute.

In the days that followed, the two often made plans to go out together, eat together, and shop together, just like extremely close friends.

Another winter arrived.

Yin Lingzhu looked at the falling snow outside the window, not wanting to go out. She nestled in her blankets, lazily scrolling through short videos.

Just as she was laughing at a video, a pop-up suddenly appeared.

Ji Jingrong: I'm at the door.

Seeing the message, Yin Lingzhu immediately got out of bed and rushed toward the door.

Opening the door, she indeed saw Ji Jingrong with a scarf around her neck, carrying two large bags of groceries in her hands.

"In winter, we must eat hot pot."

Hearing this, Yin Lingzhu immediately hugged Ji Jingrong excitedly.

"I knew it, Rongrong¹ understands me best."

The steam and aroma rising from the hot pot instantly made the entire room feel warm and cozy.

Yin Lingzhu ate until she was sweating profusely, while Ji Jingrong wiped her sweat from the side.

After eating, as Ji Jingrong was cleaning the table, Yin Lingzhu's phone suddenly buzzed.

Ji Jingrong didn't have the habit of looking at Yin Lingzhu's phone, but when the screen lit up, she just glanced unconsciously. This one glance made Ji Jingrong's heart sink halfway.

She saw that Yin Lingzhu's contact name for her was just her actual name.

This realization made Ji Jingrong's previously happy mood instantly disappear.

Yin Lingzhu had just finished washing her hands when she noticed Ji Jingrong looking like a wilted mushroom.

"What happened?"

Yin Lingzhu sat beside Ji Jingrong and asked.

At this moment, Ji Jingrong didn't want to say anything and shook her head.

This silent Ji Jingrong gave Yin Lingzhu a bad premonition.

"Let's go out for a walk."

The snowflakes were still falling outside. Yin Lingzhu reached out to catch one.

The warmth from her fingertips quickly melted this hexagonal snowflake.

Ji Jingrong looked at Yin Lingzhu's pale fingers and took off her own gloves, putting them on Yin Lingzhu's hands.

"Cold."

Ji Jingrong said one word.

Yin Lingzhu felt the gloves carrying Ji Jingrong's warmth and blinked.

After Ji Jingrong finished putting the right glove on Yin Lingzhu, she picked up Yin Lingzhu's left hand.

Watching Ji Jingrong's movements, Yin Lingzhu's heart suddenly fluttered.

"Do you like me?"

Ji Jingrong had just heard this question and made an "Ah?" sound.

But she immediately reacted and quickly finished putting the half-worn glove on Yin Lingzhu.

She coughed as if to cover up.

"Why are you saying this?"

Seeing her evasive appearance, Yin Lingzhu felt confident.

She smiled at Ji Jingrong. "I like you too. Let's be together."

Ji Jingrong's brain exploded with a bang. She stiffly turned her neck to look at Yin Lingzhu.

"What did you say?"

Yin Lingzhu raised her voice, almost shouting.

"I said, I like you too. Let's be together!!"

It was as if fireworks were blooming from the bottom of Ji Jingrong's heart.

She nodded. "Okay."

The two walked along the path and came to a frozen lake.

Yin Lingzhu leaned against the railing.

"Why were you unhappy earlier?"

She tilted her head to look at Ji Jingrong, asking with some concern.

Ji Jingrong also imitated her posture, similarly leaning against the railing and tilting her head to look at her.

Seeing Yin Lingzhu's undisguised concern, Ji Jingrong hesitated for a moment but still told the truth.

"Why is your contact name for me just my name?"

Yin Lingzhu thought of many things but hadn't expected it would be this reason.

She burst into laughter.

After she finished laughing, she saw Ji Jingrong's resentful expression.

She beckoned to Ji Jingrong with her finger.

Then, the moment Ji Jingrong leaned closer, she gave her a kiss on the face.

"This is my apology. Please forgive this little one, Lord Ji, okay?"

Ji Jingrong's brain had completely crashed at this moment.

After a long while, she finally said "Okay."

But at this moment, Yin Lingzhu was dissatisfied with her coldness.

She turned her head away, not looking at Ji Jingrong.

This made Ji Jingrong's heart instantly panic.

She ran from Yin Lingzhu's left side to her right side so Yin Lingzhu could see her.

"What's wrong? How did I upset you?"

Yin Lingzhu huffed. "You don't even say you love me."

Hearing Yin Lingzhu's dissatisfied tone, Ji Jingrong felt very satisfied in her heart.

"I love you most."

Yin Lingzhu huffed again, louder than before.

"Your voice is too quiet. I can't hear you."

Ji Jingrong had to cooperate with Yin Lingzhu.

"I love Yin Lingzhu the most."

She shouted toward the lake in front of them.

Yin Lingzhu also imitated her. "Who loves Yin Lingzhu?"

"Ji Jingrong loves Yin Lingzhu the most."

Footnotes:

¹ Rongrong: An affectionate nickname for Ji Jingrong, formed by repeating part of her name, which is common in Chinese to show closeness and intimacy.