

Chapter 103-1 Extra

Extra: Ming Qingyun [First Person]

---

My name is Ming Qingyun.

I come from a small village, an extremely, extremely small village.

They said Omegas don't deserve to study. They said Omegas are ultimately meant to get married.

But I just didn't believe it.

I know I was a bad child.

When I was 6 years old, there was only one spot in the family for schooling.

I looked at my Alpha younger brother who was born with me.

Later, my brother fell from a high place while playing carelessly and injured his leg.

That school spot, even though they were unwilling, fell to me.

I thought I was different from the people in my village.

I was smarter than them. What the teachers said, I understood quickly.

I was first in every exam.

But I never received a single word of praise from my parents.

Looking at my grades, they could only sigh helplessly.

"If Xiaobao<sup>1</sup> hadn't been injured back then, his grades would definitely be better than yours."

After too many times, I didn't want to talk to them anymore.

I was different. I had to go out and see the world beyond.

So I studied hard. I succeeded.

I got into the top university, and because of my excellent grades, my tuition could be waived.

But I waited for a long time. Every day I guarded the village's courier pickup point, hoping my acceptance letter would come quickly.

What I received was an acceptance letter from an ordinary university.

I was extremely shocked in my heart. This was the first time I experienced failure.

My score had passed that university's admission line.

But I didn't know why the acceptance letter in my hands was like this.

I didn't know who to tell.

Much later, I learned that I had been impersonated by someone else.

Even though I made that person who impersonated me suffer worse than death, what good did it do?

Could my feelings at the time, my pain at the time, be erased?

Before the college entrance exam, I went to change my name.

I changed it to Qingyun because I loved that idiom, "píng bù qīng yún"<sup>2</sup>.

In university, I met someone.

Her name was Yin Lingzhu.

She seemed to be a poor student, always laughing and playing around with people.

At that time, I very much disliked this Yin Lingzhu.

She looked too happy.

Every time I saw her, she was making the people around her laugh.

I knew her purpose—nothing more than coveting beauty and getting some money from those foolish Omegas.

How stupid those Omegas were, to actually fall for this kind of trick.

I felt disdainful in my heart and continued to lower my head to read.

But later, Yin Lingzhu gradually came to my side.

I told myself that Yin Lingzhu was a liar.

But I still fell.

I became one of those "foolish Omegas" I had once spoken of.

In the past, no one would prepare a candy for me.

No one would prepare medicine for me when I was sick.

I knew that everything Yin Lingzhu did had a purpose.

But I didn't care.

As long as when she looked at me, her eyes only had me.

Thinking this way, I became determined to make money.

I thought, at least I could use money to keep Yin Lingzhu.

She would tilt her umbrella toward me on rainy days.

She would pick out the green peppers from my bowl.

She would gently feed me a candy when I didn't want to study anymore.

She would sing softly before I went to sleep.

I loved this kind of unreserved favoritism.

Even knowing it was fake, I was like a moth drawn to flame, throwing myself into the fire without hesitation.

Just for that moment of warmth.

I couldn't live without Yin Lingzhu.

I knew Yin Lingzhu took care of more than just me.

But I didn't care, or rather, I was very confident.

I knew they all couldn't compare to me.

Later, I worked hard to make money and started a company.

Because I wore suits to every appearance, everyone thought I loved wearing suits.

But actually, I didn't love this constraining thing at all.

I always wore suits because Yin Lingzhu said I looked good in suits.

Whatever Yin Lingzhu liked, I became.

In the end, there had to be something about me that would make Yin Lingzhu unable to leave.

Whether it was money or beauty.

I always had enough confidence in myself.

Facts proved I succeeded.

Yin Lingzhu spent more and more time with me.

I once thought we would live this way for the rest of our lives.

But what I didn't expect was that she actually left me.

How could she not want me?

I wanted to ask Yin Lingzhu for clarification.

But the company at that time couldn't let me go, and by the time I could get away, it was already a week later.

When I found Yin Lingzhu, she was with another girl.

I knew that girl too—I heard she was a girl with a beautiful singing voice.

I angrily rushed over, wanting to ask clearly why Yin Lingzhu would leave me.

But when I saw the smile on Yin Lingzhu's face, I fell silent again.

I changed my plan. Even if Yin Lingzhu came with me at that moment by rushing over so directly, if her heart wasn't with me, what would be the point?

I would definitely make her willingly come to my side.

I began to work even harder at making money and running my company.

Working hard to make myself richer and more charming.

---

Footnotes:

<sup>1</sup> Xiaobao: A common nickname meaning "little treasure," typically used for young children.

<sup>2</sup> Píng bù qīng yún (平步青雲): A Chinese idiom meaning "to rise rapidly in one's career" or "to have a meteoric rise to success."