

Chapter 13

The three people who woke up the next day went to the company together.

On the way, Yin Lingzhu also understood the young girl's identity.

Her name was Kong Murui¹, and her agent didn't really manage her, so she had to fight for resources herself.

She had gone to last night's dinner party on her own initiative, but after arriving, her heat cycle² came early, which was why she panicked and came out.

But because of this, she lost another opportunity once again.

After she announced the concert time on Weibo, she began to practice wholeheartedly.

Before Yin Lingzhu's concert began, except for sleeping and eating, she practically lived at the company.

If she wanted to completely cut contact with Yan Si, she needed to have enough fame and money.

The company she was currently signed with belonged to Yan Si.

The day before the concert began, the specific process needed rehearsal, so Yin Lingzhu arrived at the concert venue.

She was surprised to discover that Kong Murui was also there.

Kong Murui also noticed her and bounced over to her side.

"My agent arranged for me to be included." Kong Murui said.

Yin Lingzhu nodded and asked about the song she would sing - it was a sweet song.

"Not bad, it matches your image well." Yin Lingzhu praised.

Kong Murui had a cute style, with a sweet smile when she laughed. Today she had twin ponytails with a butterfly bow in the middle of her hair, looking like a total cute girl³.

After a full day of rehearsal, Yin Lingzhu was exhausted. When she returned to the hotel, she collapsed on the bed without any regard for her image.

While she was resting, she received a message from Yang Daiyi about adding a lucky draw segment.

Yin Lingzhu replied with a message indicating she understood.

The next day, Yin Lingzhu arrived at the concert on time.

On stage, Yin Lingzhu sang with all her might, her bangs swaying with her body movements, sweeping across her brow, combined with the smile at the corner of her mouth, she was radiant on stage.

She wore only pure black pants that accentuated her straight legs, and a white shirt with two buttons undone, revealing her delicate collarbones, inevitably drawing people's gaze.

During her performance, the cheers from the audience were the loudest.

When the performance ended, it was time for the lucky draw.

Yin Lingzhu reached into the box - there was only one slip of paper inside.

She raised an eyebrow. This small concert was still playing tricks. She read out the number on that slip of paper.

"3-16."

Yin Lingzhu looked toward that seat, and her heart skipped a beat when she saw clearly who it was.

Yan Si stood up calmly, with a smile on her lips.

This was how Yan Si appeared in the public eye - always gentle and soft.

Completely opposite to how she appeared when facing Yin Lingzhu.

The people around exclaimed when they saw it was Yan Si.

Watching Yan Si walk step by step toward her, Yin Lingzhu forced a stiff smile at the corner of her mouth.

She placed the gift box prepared by the company into Yan Si's hands, saying like a robot, "Please support us more in the future."

Yin Lingzhu could feel Yan Si squeeze her wrist hard when taking the gift box.

"Wait for me after the performance." Yan Si lowered her voice, speaking at a volume only the two of them could hear.

The two people smiling on stage created a strangely eerie atmosphere.

Yin Lingzhu came down from the stage and didn't look for Yan Si.

After coming down from the stage, she saw Yang Daiyi standing outside and walked over with a smile, quickening her pace.

When she saw clearly who was beside Yang Daiyi, the smile on Yin Lingzhu's face suddenly disappeared.

"Well, you two chat. I have something to do so I'll leave first." Yang Daiyi saw Yin Lingzhu coming and, as if seeing a savior, hurriedly left after speaking.

Yin Lingzhu looked at Yan Si in front of her, and Yan Si was also looking at her.

Finally, it was Yan Si who spoke first.

"Stop being willful." After Yang Daiyi left, Yan Si spoke expressionlessly.

Hearing her words, Yin Lingzhu actually wanted to laugh, "Willful? How am I being willful? Is singing willful? Was waiting for you obediently in the room being good?"

Yan Si didn't expect her to say this, "That divorce agreement, you don't need to sign it. We don't need to divorce either."

Yin Lingzhu's expression turned mocking, "Don't need to? Yan Si, I don't have anything left to give you."

"You destroyed my glands⁴, nearly took my life, what more do you want from me?"

Yan Si stood frozen in place, wanting to speak, but Yin Lingzhu had no patience to listen.

"The money I spent this year, when I earn enough, I'll pay you back."

After Yin Lingzhu finished speaking, she immediately left. She had no interest in talking to Yan Si.

Yan Si, left behind, didn't understand why this was the result.

Didn't Yin Lingzhu like her? Why was she rejecting her?

From the first moment Yan Si saw Yin Lingzhu, she knew Yin Lingzhu liked her.

Therefore, she was even more puzzled by Yin Lingzhu's current behavior.

She was even willing to give her life to her, so why did she still want to leave?

Yin Lingzhu returned to the car, where Yang Daiyi was already sitting in the driver's seat.

"Little Yin, do you know the Movie Queen?" Yang Daiyi started the car and asked carefully.

Just now, the Movie Queen had been standing beside her. Although she was smiling, Yang Daiyi could feel the Movie Queen's low pressure⁵, and she didn't even dare to breathe loudly.

If Little Yin had a conflict with the Movie Queen, then Little Yin would be finished.

Yang Daiyi thought worriedly.

Yin Lingzhu considered her relationship with Yan Si, "I know her, but we're not close."

Thinking about it now, she had really been an idiot this past year. Just from meeting once, she had actually given everything.

"You don't have any conflicts with her, do you?" Yang Daiyi asked again.

"No." Yin Lingzhu shook her head.

Even if there were conflicts, it would be her hating Yan Si. What reason would Yan Si have to hate her?

Hearing Yin Lingzhu's answer, Yang Daiyi relaxed a bit, "Tonight you have a livestream on Weibo, to interact with fans."

That evening, at the studio.

Yin Lingzhu had set up her phone and was preparing to start the livestream when Yang Daiyi came in, with Kong Murui following behind her.

She looked at Yang Daiyi, asking with her eyes what was going on.

"You two livestream together, you guide her." Yang Daiyi pushed Kong Murui forward.

"She's been assigned under me."

Yin Lingzhu nodded to show she understood, then started the livestream.

This livestream actually didn't have many people.

Even with over a hundred thousand followers, most people had their own fixed entertainment routines in the evening.

Although there weren't many people in the livestream, the atmosphere was harmonious.

About a minute after the livestream started, a conspicuous comment appeared.

【Yan Si has entered the livestream】

The comments paused for a moment, then after a while, one popped up.

【Is this Yan Si the Yan Si I'm thinking of?】

Immediately below it, another comment appeared.

【I checked, it's officially verified, yes】

Yin Lingzhu at this moment also didn't understand what exactly Yan Si wanted to do.
