

Chapter 25-2

Early the next morning, Yin Lingzhu was shaken awake.

"Quick, it seems like an investor has come, the director is calling us to assemble." Kong Murui¹ shook her bed, saying urgently.

Yin Lingzhu had been tossing and turning until five in the morning last night before falling asleep. Now at eight o'clock she was being woken up, and her mind wasn't clear when she arrived at the assembly point.

Yin Lingzhu looked drowsily at the stage, confirming that the person next to the director wasn't Yan Si, then tugged at Wan Miaoyin's sleeve beside her.

"Let me doze off for a bit, help me block the view."

Wan Miaoyin nodded and leaned her body forward to the side, blocking Yin Lingzhu's face.

Wan Miaoyin looked up at the person on stage.

Ming Qingyun², a university classmate of hers and Yin Lingzhu's.

She only glanced once before looking away. Although she and Ming Qingyun were university classmates, their relationship wasn't good—it was even somewhat terrible.

Ming Qingyun seemed to have come today just to see how this program was being prepared.

But Wan Miaoyin sensitively noticed that Ming Qingyun's gaze looked in their direction several times.

She knew who Ming Qingyun was looking at.

The director was still effusively praising Ming Qingyun, his face beaming with joy.

Having two big shots arrive at once, this season's program would definitely be a hit.

Yin Lingzhu didn't know how long she had slept. When she woke up, only Wan Miaoyin remained beside her.

Seeing that she was awake, Wan Miaoyin explained that everyone had dispersed while Yin Lingzhu was still sleeping, so she hadn't called her.

Yin Lingzhu nodded.

"Did you see who came today?" Wan Miaoyin asked, looking at the person eating in front of her.

Yin Lingzhu tried hard to recall, "No, I was too sleepy."

At the time, Yin Lingzhu had only looked once and vaguely made out that it was a woman, but hadn't seen the face clearly.

"What's wrong?"

Wan Miaoyin smiled, "Nothing, she was quite good-looking, like someone you might like."

Hearing this, Yin Lingzhu also laughed, "Right now my mind only has room for career, not love."

Meanwhile, Yan Si still hadn't chosen to give up the surgery. Despite You Xiaoxiao wearing her lips out trying to persuade her last night, she hadn't been dissuaded.

The surgical lights turned on and then off, and Yan Si was wheeled out.

Looking at the unconscious Yan Si, You Xiaoxiao inquired with her eyes to the doctor.

The doctor shook his head, "Come with me."

"One surgery yesterday, another surgery today—this is extremely harmful to her body. She must rest and recuperate for a month."

The doctor gave You Xiaoxiao a long list of instructions.

"You know her glands are naturally deficient, and they were injured during development. If this continues, her glands will also be in danger."

You Xiaoxiao nodded gravely, "I understand. I'll persuade her. She was too willful today, I'll try to stop her."

"And you too, how could you actually perform the surgery on her." You Xiaoxiao couldn't help but complain.

Hearing this, the doctor spread his hands, "She's a shareholder of the hospital, I'm just a small doctor. Besides, she signed the consent form, I was just following protocol."

You Xiaoxiao didn't bother with the doctor anymore.

Returning to the hospital room, You Xiaoxiao kept watch by Yan Si's bedside.

"Water, water." When Yan Si regained some consciousness, she felt her throat burning like fire.

Hearing this, You Xiaoxiao immediately got up to pour her water.

Yan Si sipped the water in small gulps, her hands holding the cup trembling slightly.

"It wasn't successful, and if you insist on continuing, your glands might be in danger." You Xiaoxiao said worriedly, looking at her hands.

Yan Si showed no reaction and continued sipping water in small gulps.

Seeing her like this, You Xiaoxiao had to change tactics, "You don't care about your glands, but what about Yin Lingzhu? Doesn't Yin Lingzhu care either?"

Yan Si recalled the past.

Yin Lingzhu did indeed like her pheromones very much. She had known this from the first time she was marked.

If she lost her pheromones, would Yin Lingzhu still like her?

Yan Si couldn't help but worry.

Seeing that Yan Si was listening to this approach, You Xiaoxiao continued along this line of thought, "Besides, Yin Lingzhu thinks her glands were destroyed, but you and I both know clearly that they weren't."

"If you insist on having surgery and your glands get damaged, do you think Yin Lingzhu will continue to divorce you, or will she pity you?"

Listening to You Xiaoxiao's words, Yan Si couldn't help but worry.

If her glands were damaged, would Yin Lingzhu still want her?

The more Yan Si thought about it, the more agitated she became. As her hands shook, the water in the cup also swayed violently.

"Then let's hold off for now." Yan Si put down the water cup, "Next month, we'll do it then."

You Xiaoxiao heard the first half of the sentence and hadn't had time to feel happy before hearing the second half, making her breath catch in her throat.

But she also knew this was the maximum Yan Si was willing to concede.

"Don't be like this again in the future. Only when your body is well can you win Yin Lingzhu back."

You Xiaoxiao mentioned "Yin Lingzhu" in every sentence.

Yan Si lowered her head, looking at her flat abdomen.
