

Chapter 27

Yan Si originally wanted to stop her, but didn't dare reach out her hand, and could only watch helplessly as she left.

Only after she completely couldn't see Yin Lingzhu anymore did Yan Si withdraw her gaze.

"Speak, how should this be handled." Yan Si sat in the chair, looking at the person standing in front of her with his head lowered.

The executive secretly glanced at Yan Si's face, and seeing no expression on it, his anxious heart relaxed slightly.

"President Yan, I have several people under me. If they debut, the effect would definitely be better than those few."

"They could also earn more money for the company."

The more the executive spoke, the more pleased he became, and his back straightened considerably.

In his view, Yan Si would definitely prioritize profits, and Yan Si definitely wouldn't do anything to him.

"Healthy competition." Yan Si dropped this phrase and got up to leave.

The executive stood there confused, thinking she had let him off.

It was just a newly debuted team—could Yan Si really punish him over this?

Sitting in her office, Yan Si picked up the materials her assistant had placed on her desk.

On it were details about that executive and the person he wanted to promote.

【Overly intimate contact<sup>1</sup>】

With these six words appearing, what more was there not to understand.

"Very good indeed." Yan Si slammed the materials on the desk, making a 'bang' sound.

The assistant, seeing her action, was startled and trembled.

"I hope that in the future, not only in the company, but in this entire industry, he will never be seen again. You know what to do."

Yan Si's eyes were ice-cold as she looked at her assistant.

To promote his person, he maliciously broke up other teams. Looking at the photos pasted in the materials, Yan Si sneered.

They couldn't even match the most basic appearance standards—how did they have the face to say they had more potential?

Based on bedroom skills?

After venting her emotions, Yan Si finally had time to think about what to do next.

Yin Lingzhu was now completely certain that she had caused their team to disband.

Yan Si thought angrily, why wouldn't she just believe her?

Yin Lingzhu left the company and returned to the hotel, covering her head and sleeping for the entire day.

When she woke up again, it was already dark.

This sleep left Yin Lingzhu's head feeling groggy and confused.

She picked up her phone to check the time—eleven o'clock.

No wonder it was so dark.

Yin Lingzhu used the moonlight to turn on the room's lights.

She irritably ruffled her hair, not knowing what to do next.

At this moment, she felt as if she had been abandoned by the entire world.

She casually turned on the TV and clicked on a program that was currently airing.

The production team really had given them a lot of screen time. If there had been no accidents, they really would have become popular.

Yin Lingzhu ordered takeout. The cheapest bowl of noodles she had just ordered was already clumped together and didn't taste good.

If she picked up her old profession again, money wouldn't be scarce, but...

Yin Lingzhu clearly knew she didn't want to live that kind of life.

Why, after experiencing a happy life, should she return to her previous barren spiritual world?

Yin Lingzhu's grip on her chopsticks gradually tightened, but then immediately loosened.

So be it, she thought. What was wrong with being able to earn money?

The phone rang. Yin Lingzhu put down her chopsticks and answered casually.

"You've hit the jackpot." Yang Daiyi's voice was very excited. "A drama crew director specifically contacted me to invite you to play the second female lead."

While answering the phone with one hand, Yin Lingzhu accidentally knocked over the noodles, spilling soup all over the floor.

She was wiping the table with tissues and hadn't listened carefully to what Yang Daiyi meant.

"Mm, I understand."

Yang Daiyi heard her voice, completely calm and showing no joy. "Don't you want to act?"

When she finished wiping the table, Yin Lingzhu heard this question.

"It's okay, I don't dislike it. What's wrong?" Yin Lingzhu asked with some confusion.

Yang Daiyi felt the death stare from beside him and forced himself to continue, "So will you take this role?"

"What role?" Yin Lingzhu felt a bit embarrassed. "I was a little busy just now and didn't hear what you said."

Hearing her say this, Yang Daiyi repeated what he had said, emphasizing how luxurious and good this drama was.

"You're playing the second female lead, definitely won't be a loss."

Yang Daiyi waited happily for Yin Lingzhu to agree.

"This drama was given to you by Yan Si, wasn't it?" Yin Lingzhu's voice revealed no emotion.

Yang Daiyi looked helplessly at Yan Si beside him, and seeing her shake her head, "No, how could that be? It's the drama crew's director who saw your program and liked you."

Hearing Yang Daiyi's answer, Yin Lingzhu said, "Yan Si is beside you, isn't she?"

Yang Daiyi was startled, his brain freezing again. "No, that's not right, there's no one beside me. No one, how could there be anyone beside me?"

Yan Si watched Yang Daiyi's performance and felt utterly hopeless inside. It would have been better to directly say she was there.

She was already prepared for Yin Lingzhu to refuse.

Yin Lingzhu had always shown she wanted to leave her. Now knowing this resource came from her, she definitely wouldn't accept it.

"Mm, okay. Sister Yang, send me the script later."

Unexpectedly, Yin Lingzhu agreed.

Yan Si was puzzled but immediately overwhelmed with joy.

She had accepted her resource—did this mean she was going to forgive her?

"President Yan, I'll leave first then." Yang Daiyi looked at the inexplicably happy Yan Si and said.

Seeing Yan Si nod, he quickly left.

After Yin Lingzhu hung up the phone, she studied the script Yang Daiyi had sent.

Yan Si's resources had been delivered to her door. If she didn't take them, wouldn't that disappoint Yan Si's 'good intentions'?

Yin Lingzhu curved her lips into a smile with malicious intent.
