

Chapter 39-2

In the clinic, Yan Si sat inside with a phone on the table in front of her, on speaker.

You Xiaoxiao took out her own phone from her pocket and placed it on the table.

Both phones showed [In Call].

You Xiaoxiao sat beside her, waiting for her to "interrogate" her.

"Do you think Lingzhu would really go find someone else?"

Unlike what You Xiaoxiao expected, Yan Si didn't ask her why she told Ming Qingyun about Yin Lingzhu's physical condition.

Instead, she asked her a question.

You Xiaoxiao wasn't sure in her heart either, but she knew what answer Yan Si wanted to hear.

"Of course not. You're her legal wife. Apart from you, she won't look for anyone else."

You Xiaoxiao said with conviction, patting her chest.

Yan Si listened to her words, but her heart didn't believe it.

During this period, Yin Lingzhu's attitude toward her was crystal clear to Yan Si.

Yin Lingzhu obviously didn't want to have any contact with her now and had been avoiding her all along.

You Xiaoxiao sat nervously beside her, her mind racing, ready to answer questions at any moment.

Who knew that Yan Si remained silent for a long time.

She secretly glanced at Yan Si.

Yan Si was holding her phone. From You Xiaoxiao's angle, she couldn't see clearly, but could vaguely make out that she was chatting with someone.

You Xiaoxiao didn't dare look too much—just one glance before she looked away.

Yan Si opened Yin Lingzhu's chat window, her fingers tapping on the screen.

A long string of text appeared in the input box, then was deleted by her.

Finally, the message she sent was very short and simple.

[Are you feeling okay?]

Yin Lingzhu heard the sound and thought it was from someone on the film crew.

Yin Lingzhu hurriedly picked up her phone, afraid of delaying the crew's work because of herself.

She lit up the screen and saw the displayed message. Yin Lingzhu's mood became a bit complicated.

Didn't Yan Si already know? Why was she still asking her?

Yin Lingzhu thought for a moment and didn't reply to her.

Just as she was putting down her phone, there was a knock at the door.

"Come in." Yin Lingzhu turned off her phone.

Seeing Ming Qingyun at the door, Yin Lingzhu breathed a sigh of relief.

"Are you feeling okay?" Ming Qingyun sat down beside her and asked.

Yin Lingzhu smiled at her, "I'm fine."

"I heard from your doctor that it's about your pheromones?" Ming Qingyun's eyes were full of worry.

Yin Lingzhu looked at her expression and felt some warmth in her heart.

"Don't worry, my pheromones aren't really a big problem either." Yin Lingzhu said casually.

Subconsciously, she didn't want to tell Ming Qingyun about the situation she was facing.

Seeing that Yin Lingzhu wasn't saying anything, Ming Qingyun felt a bit hurt inside, but she didn't show it on her face.

"Alright then, you should rest well. I won't disturb you anymore. Call me if you need anything."

Ming Qingyun tucked in the corners of Yin Lingzhu's blanket before leaving.

She knew that Yin Lingzhu didn't trust her right now, but she would use her actions to prove that she was sincere.

Yin Lingzhu saw Ming Qingyun's action of tucking in her blanket and was slightly stunned.

This gesture was too intimate.

She felt a bit uncomfortable with it.

In the hallway, Yan Si and Ming Qingyun passed each other without any pause, as if the two didn't know each other at all.

Yan Si entered the room and saw Yin Lingzhu staring blankly at the corner of her blanket, thinking the blanket wasn't tucked in properly.

So she quickly went forward and tucked Yin Lingzhu's blanket even tighter.

The traces Ming Qingyun had just left instantly disappeared.

Yin Lingzhu also came to her senses, "What are you doing?"

She frowned at Yan Si, speaking with some displeasure.

Hearing her tone, Yan Si felt a bit wronged.

"I saw that you seemed uncomfortable."

Yan Si lowered her head, her voice trailing off with a tremor.

Hearing Yan Si's explanation and seeing her appearance, Yin Lingzhu suddenly felt that she might have been too harsh just now.

"I'm sorry."

Yin Lingzhu felt a bit embarrassed. Even though she didn't like Yan Si now, even as a stranger, her tone had been inappropriate.

Hearing Yin Lingzhu's apologetic voice, Yan Si was somewhat surprised, but she immediately reacted.

"You don't need to apologize to me. This is all what I owe you."

Hearing the response, Yin Lingzhu didn't continue with the apology topic.

"What are you here for?"

Yan Si sat down, choosing a position slightly farther from Yin Lingzhu's bedside.

"I heard from Xiaoxiao about your condition."

Yan Si's eyes held half worry and half deeply hidden joy.

What You Xiaoxiao had said before still had an effect on Yan Si's heart.

She was Yin Lingzhu's legal wife.

Hearing that Yan Si had come for this matter, Yin Lingzhu politely showed a smile.

"You don't need to trouble yourself, President Yan¹. I have a solution."

Yin Lingzhu's voice was polite but full of distance.

Yan Si wanted to say something more, but Yin Lingzhu spoke first.

"If President Yan doesn't have anything else, I'm a bit tired."

Yin Lingzhu's intention to send her away was obvious. After hearing this, Yan Si felt bitter in her mouth.

"Alright, you should rest well. Call me if you need anything."

Yan Si said one last sentence and left the hospital room somewhat unsteadily.

Yin Lingzhu looked at her leg—there was a bandage wrapped around her knee.

"Is your leg serious?"

Yin Lingzhu's brow furrowed again.

Hearing Yin Lingzhu's words, Yan Si turned around and smiled at her, the smile carrying considerable weakness.

"It's nothing. The doctor said I'll be fine after resting for a couple more days."

Yin Lingzhu made an "oh" sound and didn't say anything more.

Yan Si waited for a while, and after confirming that Yin Lingzhu had nothing more to say, she walked out of the hospital room with a limp.

Yin Lingzhu suspected in her heart that Yan Si's leg injury was fake.

How could a simple fall make Yan Si act as if her leg was broken?

But she couldn't figure out what purpose Yan Si had for doing this.

It couldn't be to attract her attention, could it?

This possibility suddenly appeared in Yin Lingzhu's mind, and she found it a bit hard to believe.

After thinking for a while, she stopped thinking about it. Her body was still in danger right now—she didn't have time to worry about someone else's body.

Yin Lingzhu took out her phone and browsed casually to see if there were any other solutions.

A piece of information jumped into her line of sight.

#Why aren't S-level suppressants sold on the market#

It was from a marketing account.

Yin Lingzhu quickly browsed through the article and roughly understood the meaning.

The effectiveness of suppressants was determined by purity—the higher the purity, the better the suppressant's effect.

S-level suppressants had extremely high purity requirements, making them very difficult for ordinary manufacturers to produce.

Moreover, whether Alpha or Omega, ordinary families generally wouldn't differentiate² into S-level.

Well-off families would specifically hire people to formulate suppressants or keep people to make suppressants.

So most manufacturers didn't bother with this effort.

After reading this article, Yin Lingzhu felt even more melancholy.

She let out a long breath.

She would just have to endure it with her own body. She didn't believe she couldn't get through it.

Soon, Yin Lingzhu paid the price for her arrogance.

That night, her susceptible period arrived.

At first, Yin Lingzhu felt dizzy and her whole body seemed to be on fire.

Footnotes:

¹ President Yan: This is the formal title "宴總" that Yin Lingzhu uses to address Yan Si, showing distance and formality rather than intimacy.

² Differentiate: In the ABO universe, this refers to the biological process where individuals develop into Alpha, Beta, or Omega at sexual maturity, usually around age 18.