

Chapter 40-2

After sending Ming Qingyun away, Yin Lingzhu began studying the suppressants.

The small bottle was about the size that one hand could grip.

The bottle was made of transparent glass, and the light blue liquid reflected light, emitting a glowing radiance.

It looked like a very dreamy color.

Yin Lingzhu unscrewed the cap and drank the entire bottle in one gulp.

She felt there was no taste in her mouth—it was about the same as plain water.

And her body had no reaction either.

She looked at the three bottles remaining on the table.

She put two bottles in the bedside cabinet and packed away the remaining bottle separately for next time.

After doing all this, Yin Lingzhu finally went to sleep peacefully.

A dreamless night.

Throughout the night, she didn't feel anything uncomfortable.

Her gratitude toward Ming Qingyun rose another level.

Yin Lingzhu got herself ready and hurried to the film set without stopping.

She had told the director yesterday that her body was fine now and she could work.

When she arrived at the set, the director was holding a megaphone and scolding the crew.

Yin Lingzhu had originally planned to wait until the director was resting before greeting him, but the director spotted her first.

The director dropped the megaphone in his hand and walked straight toward her.

Facing the director's inquiries, Yin Lingzhu repeatedly explained that the fainting that day had been an accident, and only then did the director feel at ease.

"Little Yin, when you fainted that day, you really scared me."

The director patted Yin Lingzhu's shoulder, "You can't do that next time. I was scared to death at the time. If you feel unwell, speak up immediately."

Yin Lingzhu had originally wanted to explain that that day really had been an accident, but seeing the director's concerned look, her words got stuck in her throat.

She swallowed what she was going to say and showed a smile.

"Director, don't worry." Yin Lingzhu nodded, looking very serious.

The director was amused by her expression.

"Go get changed quickly. You have a lot to film today."

The director put down his hand, signaling for Yin Lingzhu to hurry to the makeup room.

Yin Lingzhu obediently headed straight to the makeup room.

However, in her makeup room, there was an unexpected person inside.

Yin Lingzhu opened the door and saw Yan Si inside.

Sitting in her chair—the chair where she did her makeup.

Yin Lingzhu looked at her, her eyes full of coldness.

"What are you doing here?"

Yan Si hadn't expected her to come and panic clearly appeared on her face.

She hurriedly stood up.

"I, I just..." Yan Si spoke for a long time but couldn't come up with a reasonable explanation.

Yin Lingzhu had no mood to listen to her make up reasons.

She moved her body to the side, revealing the open door.

"President Yan¹, if there's nothing else, please leave." Yin Lingzhu's face showed no expression, looking terrifying.

Yan Si didn't dare to linger, but when she walked to Yin Lingzhu's side, she stopped and said something.

"I just miss you so much."

After hearing this, Yin Lingzhu's expression still showed no change, and her eyes didn't fall on Yan Si.

After Yan Si left, she slammed the door shut with such force that all the nearby crew members heard it and looked toward the door.

They happened to see Yan Si coming out.

Yan Si showed them a smile and explained lightly, "The door was blown by the wind."

Yin Lingzhu angrily sat in front of the makeup mirror, looking at herself in the mirror.

Yan Si had just been sitting in this exact position.

She suddenly sprang up from the chair.

When Yan Si had stopped just now, Yin Lingzhu could clearly smell the rose scent on her body.

At that moment, she had actually had the thought of asking Yan Si to stay.

This was why she was so angry.

Even after moving to a different spot, Yin Lingzhu could still smell that rose fragrance.

It seemed to have rubbed off on her.

Thinking this, Yin Lingzhu subconsciously lifted her sleeve to smell herself.

She almost got entranced by that captivating fragrance.

Coming to her senses, she immediately put down her hand.

The crew did have a shower room, but this morning there was a rain scene being filmed, so it was occupied.

Yin Lingzhu had no choice. After the makeup artist finished her makeup.

She endured that rose scent that only she could smell and acted for the entire morning.

With the director's call of "Cut!" Yin Lingzhu couldn't wait to rush to her makeup room.

She had to immediately remove her makeup, change clothes, leave the crew, and go wash.

Although she didn't say anything, Yin Lingzhu's makeup artist could tell from her pace that she was in a hurry.

Just as the makeup artist was following behind Yin Lingzhu and about to enter the room, she was stopped by Yan Si.

"You can go rest first." Yan Si smiled very harmlessly.

The makeup artist was deceived by her smile and nodded blankly, "Okay."

Once before, when removing makeup, makeup remover had gotten into Yin Lingzhu's eyes.

Since then, Yin Lingzhu kept her eyes closed during both makeup application and removal.

If it weren't for the makeup artist saying that this makeup was very complex and difficult to remove.

She would have just done it herself.

Yin Lingzhu closed her eyes, sat in the chair, and anxiously waited for the makeup artist to arrive.

Feeling someone working on her face, Yin Lingzhu subconsciously assumed it was the makeup artist.

Unable to see, Yin Lingzhu's voice was somewhat anxious, but she still controlled her volume, "Could you please hurry up?"

Footnotes:

¹ President Yan: The formal title "宴總" that Yin Lingzhu uses to address Yan Si, showing distance and formality rather than intimacy.