

Chapter 41-1

Yin Lingzhu could clearly feel that the movements on her face were speeding up.

But the fingers on her face were trembling a little.

She didn't think much about it, as long as the speed was faster.

Just when Yin Lingzhu wasn't paying attention, suddenly a more intense fragrance drifted to her nose.

Yin Lingzhu felt as if she was drowning in roses.

This scent was a bit off. She suddenly opened her eyes.

The person in front of her was not the makeup artist she thought it was, but Yan Si.

She instinctively wanted to retreat backward, but when she leaned back, the chair's backrest completely blocked her.

She was now face-to-face with Yan Si, with only about twenty centimeters between them.

She was lying in the chair, with Yan Si bending over and supporting herself above her.

Yin Lingzhu could almost feel Yan Si's breathing.

She immediately pushed Yan Si away.

Yan Si was caught off guard, stumbled backward several steps, and barely managed to steady herself.

"What are you doing again? Where's my makeup artist?" Yin Lingzhu's voice was full of impatience, her arms crossed over her chest in a defensive posture.

Her gaze unconsciously looked toward Yan Si's legs.

Yan Si was wearing black pants today, with her legs completely wrapped inside.

She could only see that Yan Si's legs were very straight, but couldn't make out the condition of her knees.

Yin Lingzhu moved her gaze away from the knees and saw Yan Si staring at her motionlessly, looking like she wanted to say something.

She didn't have the leisure to actively ask what Yan Si wanted to say.

She just wanted Yan Si to leave quickly, to leave the room, to leave her.

The two stared at each other for a while, until finally Yan Si couldn't hold back anymore.

"I know that you're currently in your heat cycle¹."

Yan Si lowered her head, the light in her eyes like shattered gems, but the only audience in the room didn't notice.

Yin Lingzhu was waiting for Yan Si's follow-up words.

But Yan Si's mouth opened and closed without saying anything.

Yin Lingzhu revealed a smile, her expression full of mockery.

"Yan Si, wasn't the pheromones extracted half a year ago enough?"

Hearing Yin Lingzhu mention this matter, Yan Si's face instantly turned pale.

Even though she had deliberately applied makeup before coming, it couldn't cover her current complexion.

"No, I've never used your pheromones." Many words that could serve as her defense flashed through Yan Si's mind.

But in the end, what she said was this dry sentence.

Yin Lingzhu was now very impatient, and her words carried irritation.

"Then what are you here for?"

Yan Si raised her head and opened her lips, her beautiful lip shape exposed to Yin Lingzhu's view.

"I came to say that if you need it, I can help you."

"Please don't go find someone else, okay?"

Yesterday when she went to the hospital, she discovered that Yin Lingzhu had already gone through the discharge procedures.

No one knew how panicked her heart was.

When Yin Lingzhu was in the hospital, she could still know a little about Yin Lingzhu's movements.

But if Yin Lingzhu was discharged, on the surface, she had completely lost contact with Yin Lingzhu.

Unless she clung to Yin Lingzhu like she was doing now.

If she didn't take the initiative, then there would really be no relationship left between her and Yin Lingzhu.

Even if she insisted on not divorcing, so what? That red booklet² couldn't confine a person's heart.

Last night, her assistant told her that Ming Qingyun had gone to Yin Lingzhu's room.

She almost rushed out then, wanting to run to Yin Lingzhu's side.

But the assistant continued to say that Ming Qingyun had only stayed inside for about an hour.

This dispelled Yan Si's intention.

Hearing her say this, Yin Lingzhu felt like laughing. Yan Si said she could help her, but with what?

Yin Lingzhu deliberately put on an indifferent smile.

"You're twenty-eight, four years older than me. I can go find someone younger, understand? You're already old."

Hearing her say this, Yan Si stepped back several more steps.

She leaned against the wall, relying on the wall's friction to support her body.

Yan Si shook her head slightly. She would rather have been deaf just now and heard nothing.

Rather than hear what Yin Lingzhu had just said.

Seeing her like this, Yin Lingzhu knew how hurtful her words were.

But she didn't soften her heart. What was the point of Yan Si clinging to her like a pervert all day?

"If you can't accept it, I think we should hurry up and get divorced." Yin Lingzhu struck while the iron was hot.

Under her expectant gaze, Yan Si shook her head vigorously.

Yin Lingzhu was somewhat confused by her action. What was this?

"No divorce." Yan Si's tears flowed from her eyes, silently hitting the ground.

"Why?" Yin Lingzhu looked at the tears on the ground, her volume also becoming smaller.

But Yan Si didn't answer this question. "As long as we don't divorce, anything is fine."

"What if I wanted to find someone outside?" Yin Lingzhu asked tentatively.

Under her incredulous gaze, Yan Si nodded. "It's okay."

She hadn't expected Yan Si's answer to be this.

Yin Lingzhu got up from the chair and left the makeup room silently.

This was really crazy.

Yin Lingzhu felt the world becoming surreal.

The Yan Si she knew before, although cold and ruthless, was extremely proud and definitely not like this.

Seeing that she had really left, Yan Si dared to let out the sobbing sounds hidden in her throat.

Footnotes:

² Red booklet: In China, the marriage certificate is a red booklet, so this refers to their marriage certificate.
