

Chapter 46-1

Yin Lingzhu glanced at the distance between herself and Yan Si—it was probably only about ten meters.

She shouted loudly, "Yan Si."

Hearing Yin Lingzhu's voice, Yan Si indeed turned her head.

Yin Lingzhu quickly ran toward her, and just as she was about to speak, she noticed the gazes of people around them.

They were all looking at her, probably because of the shout she had just made.

Yin Lingzhu felt somewhat embarrassed. From last night until now, this had already happened three times.

Yin Lingzhu composed herself and said, "I have some questions about acting that I'd like to ask for your guidance."

Yan Si also cooperated by saying, "Of course, come to my dressing room."

But in fact, the reason everyone was looking at Yin Lingzhu wasn't because of how loud her voice was.

In the entertainment industry, there was almost an unwritten rule: if the other person had more experience than you and a higher status than you, then you should address them as "senior" or their surname plus "sister/brother."

For Yin Lingzhu to directly call out Yan Si's name in front of everyone truly surprised those present.

Looking at Yan Si's attitude toward Yin Lingzhu, some perceptive people were already secretly pondering their relationship, wondering if they could fish out something useful.

Yin Lingzhu followed Yan Si to her dressing room.

Yan Si gently supported her waist and smiled as she looked at Yin Lingzhu.

"What did you want to see me about?" Yan Si's voice carried a hint of pleasant surprise.

This was the first time Yin Lingzhu had actively sought her out since signing the divorce agreement.

This made her extremely excited, even somewhat incredulous.

Yin Lingzhu looked at her and noticed her hand supporting her waist.

But she quickly looked away, her eyes filled with seriousness as she looked at Yan Si.

"You gave me inhibitors¹. I want to pay you for them."

Yin Lingzhu's black pupils had no trace of impurity, looking like a little puppy's eyes.

Yan Si became somewhat lost in thought.

"I didn't hear clearly just now. What did you say?" Yan Si came back to her senses, feeling a bit embarrassed.

Hadn't she already looked her fill this morning? Yet now she was staring again.

Yin Lingzhu's clear eyes showed a hint of helplessness, so she had to repeat what she had said.

This time Yan Si heard clearly, but she also saw the look in Yin Lingzhu's eyes.

"No need to pay. Consider it a gift from me." Yan Si's lips curved upward, looking very gentle.

But contrary to her composed exterior, her heart was in complete turmoil.

She saw the helplessness in Yin Lingzhu's eyes and was afraid that her annoyance with her would increase another level.

However, Yin Lingzhu's attitude was very firm. "No, I absolutely must pay you for this."

If she paid, then they would have a transaction. If Yan Si didn't accept payment, then she would owe Yan Si a very big favor.

Favors were extremely difficult to repay.

Seeing Yin Lingzhu insist so much, Yan Si had no choice but to agree.

She was now almost completely compliant with whatever Yin Lingzhu said.

Seeing Yan Si nod, Yin Lingzhu finally felt relieved.

But Yan Si asked a question first: "When Ming Qingyun gave you the inhibitors, did she make any demands?"

Yin Lingzhu expressed confusion at Yan Si's question.

"Is there a problem?" Yin Lingzhu asked.

Yan Si immediately shook her head. "No problem."

"I'm just curious."

Yan Si continued, "If you don't want to say, that's fine too."

"She didn't really want anything—500,000 yuan per inhibitor."

"Nothing else besides that."

After Yin Lingzhu finished speaking, she looked at Yan Si.

She could sense that Yan Si's mood had suddenly improved significantly.

Yin Lingzhu found this somewhat baffling.

Yin Lingzhu wasn't wrong—Yan Si's mood was indeed quite good now.

That Ming Qingyun hadn't made any demands and only asked for money was something Yan Si hadn't expected.

To let such a great opportunity pass by—Ming Qingyun really was unexpected.

At that time, among the people Yin Lingzhu knew who could provide S-level inhibitors, there were only her and Ming Qingyun.

Yin Lingzhu obviously wouldn't come to her, so the only person Yin Lingzhu could turn to was Ming Qingyun.

In other words, no matter what conditions Ming Qingyun proposed, Yin Lingzhu would have agreed.

At this moment, for Ming Qingyun to act like a righteous gentleman was truly unexpected.

"So how much did Ming Qingyun charge?" Yan Si asked again.

Yin Lingzhu understood her meaning. "500,000 yuan per inhibitor."

"Would 10,000 yuan per inhibitor be okay for mine?" Yan Si asked tentatively.

Yin Lingzhu looked at her. "These are your inhibitors. Whatever you say the price is, that's what it is."

Seeing Yin Lingzhu's reaction, Yan Si also felt relieved.

"Then 10,000 each."

Yin Lingzhu sighed. She still owed Yan Si a favor.

Thinking about the four inhibitors on the table today, and that Yan Si's note said she had taken another inhibitor last night.

Yin Lingzhu transferred 50,000 yuan to Yan Si.

If Yan Si tried to use the inhibitors against her in the future, at least she wouldn't be so passive.

After transferring the money, Yin Lingzhu didn't make any small talk.

After confirming that Yan Si had nothing else to discuss, she left the dressing room.

Upon leaving, Yin Lingzhu immediately noticed that many people's gazes were focused on her. She quickened her pace.

Yin Lingzhu actually didn't mind being looked at—otherwise, she wouldn't enjoy the feeling of being on stage.

She enjoyed people's gazes.

But these people looked at her like they were looking at a fine cake, thinking in their hearts about how to divide and devour it.

This made Yin Lingzhu particularly uncomfortable.

But she also knew why this was happening.

The moment she saw Yan Si, she hadn't controlled herself and just wanted to quickly resolve the inhibitor issue.

She hadn't maintained control.

Yin Lingzhu quickened her pace back to the hotel.

She still hadn't bought a car, so to get back to the hotel, she usually took a taxi or rode a shared bicycle.

At this moment, because Yin Lingzhu had just transferred out 50,000 yuan.

This heat period had completely emptied all her money.

So to get back to the hotel, Yin Lingzhu chose the most economical option.

She walked back.

On the way, she encountered someone somewhat unexpected.

Ming Qingyun.

Looking at Ming Qingyun's posture, Yin Lingzhu felt that Ming Qingyun seemed to be intentionally waiting for her.

"Lingzhu, over here." Ming Qingyun waved at her from the entrance of a coffee shop.

Yin Lingzhu saw her and, thinking of what Yan Si had told her last night, pressed her lips together.

It still wouldn't be good to tear off the facade so bluntly.

Yin Lingzhu stepped forward, walking toward Ming Qingyun.

Ming Qingyun invited Yin Lingzhu into the shop beside her.

Footnotes:

¹ Inhibitors: In the ABO (Alpha/Beta/Omega) universe setting of this novel, inhibitors are medications that help suppress biological urges and reactions during heat periods (for Omegas) or rut periods (for Alphas).