

Chapter 50-2

When the two arrived at Yan Si's attending physician's office and were about to knock on the door, someone came out from inside.

As soon as You Xiaoxiao came out and saw them, she nodded at them as a greeting.

But where Yin Lingzhu couldn't see, Yan Si and You Xiaoxiao exchanged a glance.

After learning of their purpose, the attending physician looked at Yan Si's medical records for a long time.

"Given Yan Si's condition, she can be discharged, but she must pay attention to maintaining physical and mental well-being, as this is very beneficial for subsequent treatment."

Hearing the doctor's words and seeing Yan Si's expectant eyes, Yin Lingzhu had no choice.

She could only agree to Yan Si's discharge.

After they left the hospital, You Xiaoxiao walked back into Yan Si's attending physician's office.

Returning to the familiar apartment, Yin Lingzhu felt nothing in her heart.

The apartment room was about the same as when she left.

It looked like a model home.

Perhaps because she had lived in hotels for so long, Yin Lingzhu subconsciously treated this place like a hotel too.

"Lingzhu, I really missed you so much during this time."

Yan Si noticed Yin Lingzhu's current indulgence toward her, and she threw herself into Yin Lingzhu's arms.

Yin Lingzhu's body stiffened again and again. It took great effort for her to control her hands and not push Yan Si away.

She was very unaccustomed to Yan Si being so close to her.

Yan Si also noticed that Yin Lingzhu's body was as rigid as wood.

She slowly loosened her hands. "Do you still hate me now?"

Yin Lingzhu shook her head. "I don't hate you."

But Yan Si's heart didn't feel happy.

She asked the same question as before. "If I died, would your sadness be ordinary sadness, or the sadness of losing a lover?"

Unlike before, Yin Lingzhu was very certain of her answer.

But she also knew what Yan Si wanted to hear from her.

She opened her mouth, about to speak, when she heard Yan Si say: "Don't lie."

Yin Lingzhu could only put down that sentence and choose her true thoughts.

"Ordinary." Yin Lingzhu's voice was very light, but Yan Si heard it clearly.

Yan Si also didn't understand why she had asked this question again.

She was so obsessed with this answer.

In her heart, Yan Si already knew Yin Lingzhu's response, but she just wasn't willing to accept it.

As if she had made up her mind, she looked straight at Yin Lingzhu. "If I gave you back a life¹, could we start over?"

Yin Lingzhu was frightened by this and quickly shook her head.

"You don't need to do this."

Harm wasn't something that could be resolved by "you hit me once, I hit you back."

Yin Lingzhu didn't dare say this out loud, afraid of stimulating Yan Si.

"Feelings are very complicated."

Looking at Yan Si in front of her, Yin Lingzhu felt her own voice trembling.

Yan Si's eyes just now had been very determined.

She definitely wasn't joking.

Yin Lingzhu swallowed, moistening her somewhat dry throat.

She was afraid Yan Si might do something foolish.

Yin Lingzhu's nervous appearance fell into Yan Si's eyes.

Yan Si suddenly smiled, dispersing the somewhat heavy atmosphere in the room.

Yin Lingzhu noticed that Yan Si reached out and took her hand.

She now looked like a robot, following step by step behind Yan Si.

Through the window, Yin Lingzhu could see the entire city.

Why had Yan Si brought her to the window?

Yin Lingzhu soon understood.

Yan Si's left hand held Yin Lingzhu's, so she raised her right hand, pointing at the sky above the entire city.

"Lingzhu, wherever you like, I'll buy it for you as our home, okay?"

Footnotes:

¹ "If I gave you back a life" (如果我還你一條命): This is a reference to the fact that Yin Lingzhu saved Yan Si's life during the fire incident on set. Yan Si is suggesting that if she sacrificed her life for Yin Lingzhu in return, it would somehow balance their relationship and allow them to start fresh. This is a deeply concerning statement that suggests Yan Si is contemplating self-harm or suicide as a way to "make things even" between them.
