

Chapter 51-1

Yan Si's tone was very relaxed. Yin Lingzhu looked at her.

When her eyes looked toward the city, they carried undisguised pride.

Yin Lingzhu pressed down Yan Si's raised hand. "No need, this place is fine."

When Yin Lingzhu's palm touched Yan Si's forearm, she truly felt what frailness was.

The wind from outside blew through the window onto both of them.

Autumn wind always carried waves of coolness.

Yin Lingzhu reached out to close the window. "Let's go back, it's cold."

Yan Si obediently followed behind Yin Lingzhu, but was still saying things like asking Yin Lingzhu to choose a house she liked so she could buy it for her.

Yin Lingzhu could only refuse with a smile.

Yin Lingzhu turned on the living room TV and stuffed the remote control into Yan Si's hands.

"Watch TV for a while. Your phone is out of battery and is charging."

Yan Si looked at the remote control in her hands, reached out to grab the hem of Yin Lingzhu's clothes, and looked up at her. "Won't you watch with me?"

Yan Si raised her head, hair scattered on her shoulders, her facial expression carrying a few traces of insecurity.

Yin Lingzhu felt a bit soft-hearted looking at her. She carefully moved away Yan Si's hand, her tone gentle.

"I'll go cook for you. After such a long surgery, you must be hungry."

Only then did Yan Si feel relieved. "Then come back early."

Arriving in the kitchen, Yin Lingzhu looked at the clean utensils and empty refrigerator, feeling quite helpless.

She took off her apron and walked toward the front door.

Yan Si had been keeping her ears perked up, carefully listening to the sounds from the kitchen.

Hearing footsteps, she immediately turned to look toward the kitchen.

Yin Lingzhu came out of the kitchen. After putting away her apron and looking up, she discovered Yan Si staring at her.

Yan Si didn't say anything, but Yin Lingzhu knew what she meant.

Yin Lingzhu walked to the entrance, changing shoes while saying, "I'm going to buy some groceries. Wait for me at home."

After hearing this, Yan Si immediately stood up. "I'll go with you."

Yin Lingzhu's brow furrowed lightly.

"The wind is strong outside. If you go out, you might catch cold."

Yin Lingzhu's tone carried unquestionable firmness.

After Yin Lingzhu finished saying this, the room only had the sound of the TV drama's main character speaking.

It seemed very quiet for a moment.

Yan Si shook her head gently. "No, I want to go with you."

Yin Lingzhu wanted to refuse, but Yan Si once again showed a pitiful expression.

In the supermarket, Yin Lingzhu pushed the cart while Yan Si selected vegetables.

How had things become like this?

She clearly didn't want Yan Si to come out, but why was this still the result?

Yin Lingzhu felt a bit helpless. Yan Si had her completely figured out now.

Returning to the apartment, Yin Lingzhu had Yan Si continue sitting in the living room watching TV while she went into the kitchen.

After finishing dinner, Yin Lingzhu suddenly felt a bit uncomfortable inside.

She had only made a few dishes today, but Yan Si had eaten everything completely.

In the past, Yan Si had never eaten food she made, not even once.

But now, as Yin Lingzhu cleaned up the table, the oil from the dishes stuck to her fingers.

Yin Lingzhu couldn't describe the feeling in her heart.

Yan Si stood up, wanting to take the dishes from Yin Lingzhu's hands.

Yin Lingzhu was pulled back to her senses by her action and instinctively gripped the dishes in her hands tighter.

"You already cooked. Let me wash the dishes."

After hearing this, Yin Lingzhu didn't loosen her grip. "No need, go rest. I'll do it."

Yan Si didn't want to let go. She and Yin Lingzhu both gripped the edge of the dish.

Seeing this, Yin Lingzhu wanted to forcefully pull the dish back, but her fingers were now covered with oil and very slippery.

Yan Si watched her movements and was about to let go when she suddenly thought of a method.

Her eyes lit up, and she smiled at Yin Lingzhu.

"Let's wash them together."

Unable to win against her, Yin Lingzhu could only agree.

When the time came, she would just be faster and quickly finish washing the dishes.

The kitchen space wasn't actually large—just right for one person, but with two people, it seemed a bit crowded.

While washing dishes, when Yin Lingzhu was putting away a freshly washed bowl, she happened to touch Yan Si's hand.

In that instant when their skin touched, Yin Lingzhu instinctively pulled back her arm, and her hand wasn't steady.

"Bang"—that bowl fell from Yin Lingzhu's hand and shattered on the ground.

Yan Si was on the side near the door. Seeing this situation, she immediately came in with a broom.

Yin Lingzhu reacted to the fragments and took the tool from Yan Si's hands. "I broke this, so I'll clean it up."

She looked at Yan Si standing in place and pointed through the doorway to the living room. "Go rest."

Yan Si wanted to stay here, but seeing the kitchen's cramped space and that Yin Lingzhu needed to sweep, requiring a large range of movement...

Even though Yan Si didn't want to go out, she had no choice now.

In the living room, Yan Si turned on the TV, but she didn't absorb a single word of the content.

Her thoughts were entirely focused on Yin Lingzhu in the kitchen.

Yin Lingzhu's current attitude toward her was like treating a fragile porcelain doll.

Yan Si thought with distress, her eyes full of trouble. This wasn't what she wanted.

Just as Yan Si was thinking about what to do, a text message notification sound interrupted her train of thought.

She turned to look—it was her phone, which was charging, and the screen was lit up.

She got up and unplugged the charger. It was You Xiaoxiao sending her a message.

Glancing at Yin Lingzhu still busy in the kitchen, Yan Si hesitated a bit.

You Xiaoxiao contacting her at this time must be because of her current illness.

If she opened it now and Yin Lingzhu came out and saw something she shouldn't see, that would be bad.

Yin Lingzhu was very hesitant, but still opened the message.

You Xiaoxiao had probably thought of this possibility too. The message content was very simple, just saying to come to the hospital for a checkup tomorrow.

It looked completely normal.

But Yan Si knew that after arriving at the hospital tomorrow, You Xiaoxiao had something to discuss with her.