

Chapter 65-2

As soon as the two minutes were up, Li Li could reveal his drawing board for the next person to see.

Based on the difficulty level from the morning, the words given by the production team generally wouldn't be too hard.

But looking at it now, she was dumbfounded.

On the white drawing board were some crooked and twisted lines, all jumbled together. If the production team hadn't given the general category of "animals," she wouldn't have guessed anything animal-related at all.

Yin Lingzhu looked for a long time and could barely make out that this was something with four legs.

Seeing that time was almost up, Yin Lingzhu had no choice but to start drawing.

She drew a turtle on the board.

【This Yin Lingzhu isn't much smarter either, can't even guess something so simple.】

【That's hilarious. Li Li's garbage drawing, it's already quite impressive that Yin Lingzhu could draw this much from it.】

【I agree. If it were me, I'd probably just draw something random. This really messes with your mindset.】

The people after Yin Lingzhu all guessed it quite easily.

But when Wan Miaoyin confidently said the word "turtle," she was met with a big "WRONG" from the production team.

Wan Miaoyin immediately looked at Yin Lingzhu.

Yin Lingzhu looked apologetic and smiled at her with regret, "This is all my fault, I guessed wrong."

The production team announced that the correct answer was displayed on the screen.

Seeing the word 【Tiger】 displayed on screen, Wan Miaoyin nudged Yin Lingzhu's arm.

"How did you guess that? How could you get this wrong?" Wan Miaoyin said teasingly.

Yin Lingzhu looked at the answer above and said embarrassedly, "I don't know what I was thinking either. I'm sorry."

【Zhuzhu is such a little angel. It's clearly Li Li who didn't draw properly.】

【Did Li Li not bring his brain?】

【Right, even if his drawing skills were really bad, if he just wrote the character '王' on the head, it would be very obvious.】

Li Li also walked over to Yin Lingzhu's side. He originally wanted to pat Yin Lingzhu's shoulder, but Yin Lingzhu dodged it.

His expression suddenly turned gloomy, then he forced himself to smile again.

"You can't guess wrong next time. This time it's fine that you got it wrong."

Li Li's words seemed comforting, but they invisibly cleared himself of all blame.

【What does he mean by this? What does he mean? Isn't it because he drew badly?】

【This makes me so angry. If this Li Li is sick, he should go to the hospital. What's he doing here?】

【Hey, hey, hey, you're getting too worked up. Can't it be that Yin Lingzhu guessed wrong?】

【That's ridiculous. Given "tiger," what did Li Li draw? It was completely random scribbling with nothing recognizable.】

A group of people started arguing again.

Yin Lingzhu looked at Li Li with a half-smile, "Mm, I'll try harder. You should also draw better."

Her tone was very flat, without any fluctuation.

But after Li Li heard what she said, his expression became gloomy again.

Yin Lingzhu also didn't understand what Li Li meant by this.

Wasn't he afraid that when the show aired, this segment would be edited in by the director?

She looked at Li Li, thinking uncertainly.

But she didn't plan to say anything either.

She was now completely certain that Li Li was targeting her, but she didn't understand why.

Just because she didn't remember him?

Yin Lingzhu looked at Li Li's back, thinking uncertainly.

But the director immediately announced the start of the second round of games, making her abandon the idea of continuing to speculate.

Whatever comes, she would deal with it accordingly.

But next, it would probably be very difficult to win cards.

Sure enough, in the next several rounds, they didn't guess correctly at all.

After the last round ended, Yin Lingzhu couldn't help but get angry.

"You're targeting me."

Yin Lingzhu asked directly, staring intently at Li Li.

Li Li pointed at the camera in the staff member's hands, "You can't just say things randomly."

But after Li Li said this, he immediately turned his back to the camera.

"I am targeting you."

Li Li didn't make a sound, but just by reading his lips, Yin Lingzhu could make out what he said.

"Why?" Yin Lingzhu also didn't make a sound.

Li Li didn't continue talking to her and just walked away directly.

Yin Lingzhu, considering that the camera was still there, didn't stop him.

【What did they say? Cameraman, get closer!】

【Yeah, I'm so curious too. The production team is really not good at their job.】

【We can accept ceiling cameras too.】

【No use, they didn't make any sound, so getting the camera closer wouldn't help.】

【So frustrating. Is there anyone who can read lips? Please!】

The morning's word guessing and afternoon's draw-and-guess games—Yin Lingzhu's group lost both.

So no one in their group got any cards.

Everyone in the other group had four cards each.

Yin Lingzhu noticed Wan Miaoyin's expression, but she could only say some encouraging words—there was nothing else she could do.

They actually didn't win a single game.

Thinking about this, Yin Lingzhu looked at Li Li, a sharp glint flashing in her eyes.

Before the day ended, there was still one more segment.

【I Know Your Scent²】

Just hearing the name, you could feel the ambiguity coming at you.

In a room, everyone would be blindfolded and rely on their other senses to find people.

If you decided someone was your partner, you would hold their hand. If they also held your hand back, congratulations—you would act together tomorrow.

If they shook off your hand, then unfortunately, you weren't a team, and you should continue looking for your partner.

After the production team introduced the game rules, they gave them five minutes to react.

When time was up, they were immediately blindfolded.

Yin Lingzhu was afraid of the dark. After the staff left, there were only eight people in the room.

She slowly felt her way to the wall. Her fingers traced the rough wall surface, which gave her heart a little sense of security.

Fine beads of sweat appeared on Yin Lingzhu's forehead, and her legs were trembling.

She had no way to go find others—she could only wait for others to find her.

After an unknown amount of time, she suddenly felt a breeze beside her.

Someone was near her.

Footnotes:

¹ Wang (王): The Chinese character meaning "king," which is traditionally drawn on a tiger's forehead in Chinese art and culture, making it an obvious identifying feature.

² I Know Your Scent: This is a direct translation of the game name that plays on the ABO (Alpha, Beta, Omega) dynamics where individuals can identify others through their unique scents/pheromones.