

Chapter 67-1

Yan Si didn't answer her question and directly sent a text message to her assistant.

Her fingers rapidly tapped on the screen, typing out some words in the input box.

You Xiaoxiao saw her actions but didn't know what her purpose was, she just vaguely felt that something big was about to happen again.

She looked at Yan Si, whose face still showed anger, and secretly sighed.

"It's just some bullet comments¹, why are you so angry?"

Yan Si pressed the phone screen to turn it off, looking at those continuously floating bullet comments, her brows furrowed tightly.

But what she could do now was merely get angry, everything else, she couldn't do anything about.

Even now, she didn't dare appear by Yin Lingzhu's side.

Ever since Yin Lingzhu said she didn't want Yan Si to disturb her life, Yan Si really hadn't appeared by her side anymore.

But Yan Si was still secretly observing Yin Lingzhu's movements, just not appearing on the surface anymore.

Her actions were all seen by You Xiaoxiao.

Yan Si gripped the edge of her phone tightly.

But her eyes were still staring intently at the TV in front of her, her brows hadn't relaxed until now.

"You don't understand."

Her lips parted slightly, her eyes full of regret.

Yan Si was now thinking, why did she do such things back then.

If she had known earlier, would the outcome now be different?

Yan Si suddenly fell into a loop of thinking.

The phone's vibration suddenly awakened her consciousness—it was a reply from her assistant.

【Alright, I just negotiated with them, they agreed.】

You Xiaoxiao beside her saw this message clearly.

Her heart was extremely shocked at this moment, "What are you planning to do?"

You Xiaoxiao even raised her voice considerably, unable to help asking out loud.

"Have you forgotten that Yin Lingzhu doesn't want to see you right now?"

You Xiaoxiao naturally assumed that Yan Si now wanted to temporarily join this variety show.

Yan Si's face showed a painful expression because of You Xiaoxiao's words.

She hadn't forgotten.

"I just really want to see her."

Yan Si lowered her head, looking at the message her assistant sent her, there was a bit of hope in her eyes.

You Xiaoxiao's gaze fell on her, and she suddenly felt Yan Si was a bit pitiful.

"But if Yin Lingzhu suddenly sees you on the show, how would she react?"

You Xiaoxiao stripped away the truth to show her.

After hearing this, Yan Si lowered her head even more, speaking in a muffled voice.

"I never thought about going on the show, I just want to see her."

Yan Si exited the chat app, revealing her phone's wallpaper.

On it was a photo of Yin Lingzhu turning her head and smiling.

Sunlight slanted down from Yin Lingzhu's body, spilling across half her face, making even the bangs on Yin Lingzhu's forehead glow with golden light.

This photo was secretly taken by Yan Si when they were on set, when Yin Lingzhu was chatting with someone else.

How ridiculous—over the past year, she actually didn't have a single photo of Yin Lingzhu.

Yan Si suddenly laughed out loud, with desolation.

You Xiaoxiao was startled again by her sudden laughter.

"Then what did that message you just sent mean?"

After she finished speaking, she suddenly realized she had said the wrong thing.

Yan Si hated when others pried into her privacy, especially something like her phone.

Thinking of this, You Xiaoxiao had already thought of her upcoming fate.

Although this was her clinic right now, if Yan Si really got angry, then she would be kicked out by Yan Si tonight, and tomorrow this house would have a new owner.

And she would probably be living on the streets starting tonight.

Just thinking about her future fate, You Xiaoxiao's mouth felt bitter.

But she waited for a long time without hearing Yan Si's voice. She couldn't help but glance at Yan Si with her eyes.

She found that Yan Si wasn't looking at her right now, but was staring at the wallpaper with deep eyes.

You Xiaoxiao secretly breathed a sigh of relief—it seemed she wasn't bothered by what she just said.

"I'm not joining the show, I'm just being an observer, a staff member."

You Xiaoxiao's spirits, which had just relaxed, were raised again at this moment.

But now she didn't have the mood to worry about Yan Si anymore—her slip of the tongue just now had already frightened her enough.

"That's good, that's good." You Xiaoxiao's mouth forced a smile, saying words against her conscience.
