

Chapter 70-1

Yin Lingzhu looked carefully at the dog in front of her. It might have been psychological, but she felt it didn't look quite right.

"I don't know either. Let's just let it run around here—aren't there people watching over there?"

Yin Lingzhu lifted her chin toward the several bodyguards who stood like door gods.

Wan Miaoyin also ruffled the Golden Retriever's head.

"I guess that's all we can do for now."

Wan Miaoyin crouched down, looked into the Golden Retriever's eyes, and spoke in a gentle voice.

"I wonder why this dog is so attached to you."

As she said this, the Golden Retriever proved her point.

The big golden dog's tail, dragging on the ground, wagged frantically, and its black eyes stared at Yin Lingzhu, as if reluctant to blink.

Yin Lingzhu, beside Wan Miaoyin, heard what she said and also crouched down.

Her perspective changed from looking up to looking straight ahead.

Yin Lingzhu extended her hand but didn't pet the dog—she stared intently at the dog in front of her.

Combined with what Wan Miaoyin had just said, whether intentionally or not, the thought she had previously suppressed surfaced again.

Niannian.

Yin Lingzhu's black pupils looked at the Golden Retriever while her heart repeated these two words.

If this dog really was Niannian, how did it end up here?

Had Yan Si abandoned it?

She had seen with her own eyes how much Yan Si liked this dog, specially buying all sorts of dog supplies. How could she possibly abandon it?

Yin Lingzhu found it hard to imagine.

But then she immediately realized—it couldn't have been abandoned.

She had just seen those bodyguards come to claim the dog.

This meant the Golden Retriever had an owner, and from Yin Lingzhu's observation, this Golden Retriever's current owner seemed to have considerable status.

So who did this Golden Retriever belong to?

If it was Yan Si's, that brought them back to the original question—how did it end up here?

Yin Lingzhu thought for a long time but couldn't come up with an answer.

She unconsciously looked toward the area below the stage. The person wearing the baseball cap was still in the same spot.

However, her cap was still pulled down low, making her eyes invisible.

When Yin Lingzhu withdrew her gaze, Yan Si also lifted her head.

She looked at the two people on stage, her heart aching.

She was happy that Yin Lingzhu was petting Niannian, but why should Wan Miaoyin get to pet her too?

They were petting her dog, and she didn't even dare approach.

Thinking this, Yan Si felt even more wronged.

Yin Lingzhu was staring at the Golden Retriever, lost in thought, when Wan Miaoyin suddenly nudged her.

She looked over in confusion.

"Let's go, it's time for lunch."

Wan Miaoyin pointed to the clock hanging on the wall.

Only then did Yin Lingzhu realize that the Golden Retriever's disruption had made them over ten minutes late for mealtime.

"Let's go then."

Yin Lingzhu stood up, preparing to go eat.

Before leaving, she turned back to look down at the Golden Retriever.

The Golden Retriever seemed to sense she was leaving and quickly got up from the ground.

Its four paws stood on the ground, eyes looking innocently at Yin Lingzhu.

It looked like it wanted to follow Yin Lingzhu.

Yin Lingzhu paused for a moment, then pointed toward the distant bodyguards.

"You should be with them."

The Golden Retriever tilted its head, then suddenly raised its body, trying to touch Yin Lingzhu's extended finger with its head.

Yin Lingzhu withdrew her hand before the Golden Retriever could touch it.

The Golden Retriever missed, its round eyes showing some confusion.

Although Yin Lingzhu didn't want to admit it, this Golden Retriever's owner was most likely Yan Si.

But she didn't know why the Golden Retriever had come here.

Yin Lingzhu sighed, glanced at the bodyguards, and led the Golden Retriever to where they were standing.

The bodyguards looked very excited when they saw Yin Lingzhu approaching them.

When Yin Lingzhu reached their side, they couldn't control their emotions either.

"Watch your master's dog properly and don't lose it again."

Yin Lingzhu held the Golden Retriever's leash, preparing to hand the rope to the bodyguards.

But the Golden Retriever seemed to anticipate what was happening and suddenly began struggling vigorously.

Yin Lingzhu hadn't expected this scene. She called out loudly, "Niannian!"

The Golden Retriever immediately calmed down.

Looking at the Golden Retriever sitting on the ground, Yin Lingzhu felt no happiness.

She looked at the Golden Retriever with complex emotions.

Now, she could be almost one hundred percent certain that this dog was indeed Niannian.

She had wanted to avoid any more connections, but unexpected things kept happening.

When Yin Lingzhu handed the leash to the bodyguards, she took one last look at Niannian.

Hopefully, this would be the last time their paths crossed.

Niannian made reluctant sounds from its throat.

Yin Lingzhu closed her eyes and didn't look at it.

Yan Si watched all of this, her already pale face becoming even whiter at this moment.

If not for the mask covering her face, Yan Si's complexion right now would have been ready for hospitalization.

Yan Si's gaze had been fixed on Yin Lingzhu the whole time. When she heard Yin Lingzhu call out "Niannian," she knew it was over.

From Yan Si's current angle, she could see that Yin Lingzhu showed no expression, revealing no emotions.

Yan Si knew clearly that Yin Lingzhu must be angry right now.

But she didn't dare show herself either—what if Yin Lingzhu became even angrier upon seeing her?

Thinking this, Yan Si's legs felt like they were filled with lead, rooted to the spot.

She watched Yin Lingzhu and Wan Miaoyin walk away side by side, then put down the camera she had been carrying on her shoulder.

Yan Si returned the camera to the prop room before going back to her car.

The bodyguards were already waiting for her beside the car.

Niannian looked somewhat guilty when it saw Yan Si arrive, avoiding eye contact.

Yan Si said nothing and got in the car.

When passing by Niannian, she didn't even glance at it.

If Yin Lingzhu hadn't discovered it was Niannian, that would have been somewhat better.

Yan Si leaned back in her seat, pressing her temples to ease her headache.

She could be certain that Yin Lingzhu definitely knew it was Niannian.

Yan Si's headache worsened, and her brows furrowed tighter.

The bodyguard led Niannian into Yan Si's line of sight, "President Yan, what should we do about this?"

Yan Si half-closed her eyes and looked at the dog in front of her.

Niannian's face was full of guilt, not daring to look at her at all.

Yan Si let out a cold laugh.

The bodyguard unconsciously shivered.

At the dining table, the others had already finished eating.

Only the late-arriving Yin Lingzhu and Wan Miaoyin remained.

Yin Lingzhu had no appetite now and just hastily ate a few bites.

Wan Miaoyin noticed her unusual eating pattern today, "You're not on a diet like me, are you?"

She said this teasingly.

Yin Lingzhu went along with her words, "Yes, I've noticed I've gained a lot of weight since coming here. I won't be able to find a partner in the future."

【Wife, look at me, I'm right here.】

【What did I just hear? Bamboo is worried about not finding a partner? I must be hallucinating.】

【Isn't her wife sitting right next to her?】

【Hehe, is this what they call high-level humble bragging?】

Wan Miaoyin clearly agreed with the bullet comments, "You don't need to worry about not finding a partner."

Yin Lingzhu just smiled and said nothing.