

Chapter 70-2

By evening, Yan Si finally understood what despair meant.

Her heat cycle had arrived.

She lay on the bed, with a bottle of clear liquid on the nightstand.

The suppressants lay there openly.

Yan Si didn't even glance at them.

That night, she endured it all by sheer willpower alone.

The next morning, her desire to see Yin Lingzhu was particularly intense.

She understood now how terribly wrong she had been.

What kind of feelings must Yin Lingzhu have had when she lay on that machine back then, willingly letting her extract her pheromones?

And she, for the sake of a ridiculous test, had stubbornly persisted. The outcome she received was what she deserved.

Yan Si's body still bore the lingering pain from the pheromone impact.

But what hurt more than her body was her heart.

Yan Si's pillow was soaked with tears.

There were tears from being unable to bear the pain of the susceptible period¹ last night, and there were tears of regret.

When she went to find You Xiaoxiao, her entire gait was unsteady.

She didn't dare go see Yin Lingzhu.

Yan Si knew that no matter what, the harm she had caused in the past could never be undone.

You Xiaoxiao had already arrived at the hospital and was sitting in the consultation room, waiting for her patients.

She actually didn't have many patients.

Most people with glandular problems either had minor issues that didn't require her services, or major problems but wouldn't come to her.

Because her consultation fees were very expensive, and those who could afford them were either wealthy or noble, with private doctors at home.

Just as she was feeling bored, her phone suddenly buzzed with a message.

You Xiaoxiao glanced at it and suddenly sat up straight.

She frowned, carefully examining the information sent by the detective.

After reading everything, the shock in You Xiaoxiao's heart still hadn't subsided.

She slumped back in her chair, somewhat drained.

When You Xiaoxiao saw Yan Si arrive, she told her everything she had just learned.

"Is the information reliable?"

After listening, Yan Si showed no reaction on her face and asked calmly.

You Xiaoxiao, seeing her so composed, was almost going crazy inside.

"I'm certain. This detective's information is one hundred percent reliable."

You Xiaoxiao stood up, speaking with considerable agitation.

Yan Si still showed no reaction.

You Xiaoxiao glanced at her and only then noticed how pale Yan Si's face had become.

"What's wrong with you?"

You Xiaoxiao asked hesitantly in a small voice.

Yan Si lifted her eyes but they weren't focused, staring vaguely ahead.

A ray of sunlight from outside shone in.

Yan Si stared blankly at that beam of light, the grief in her heart rising again.

"Tell me, how much pain was she in back then?"

She said numbly, her neck still aching faintly.

Yan Si unconsciously touched the spot.

You Xiaoxiao heard what Yan Si said, and after seeing Yan Si's gesture, she immediately understood what had happened.

She knew that Yan Si's susceptible period should be around these few days, and when Yan Si had first come in, she had smelled a very strong rose scent.

You Xiaoxiao knew clearly that this smell was Yan Si's pheromone scent.

"You didn't use suppressants."

You Xiaoxiao said with absolute certainty.

Yan Si showed no reaction, but You Xiaoxiao knew she had guessed correctly.

You Xiaoxiao's anger suddenly flared up.

"You know the consequences of not using suppressants after being marked."

You Xiaoxiao's voice carried anger, and her tone was heavy.

Yan Si sat like a piece of wood, staring blankly at that beam of sunlight, showing no response to the outside world.

You Xiaoxiao's brows furrowed tightly, "Fine, I want to see how you'll chase after someone if you ruin your health."

Hearing this, Yan Si finally showed a slight reaction.

Her head tilted slightly, but she didn't look at You Xiaoxiao.

¹ Susceptible period: In omegaverse fiction, this refers to a period when Alphas and Omegas experience heightened sensitivity to pheromones and physical discomfort, similar to heat cycles but less intense.
