

Chapter 71-2

Outside the room, You Xiaoxiao picked up her phone and decisively dialed Yin Lingzhu's number.

While waiting for her to pick up, You Xiaoxiao thought of many things to say.

All about how to persuade Yin Lingzhu to come here and convince Yan Si.

But what she didn't expect was that when the call connected, what came through was an unfamiliar female voice.

You Xiaoxiao looked at her phone—she had indeed dialed Yin Lingzhu's number.

She tentatively asked, "May I ask if this is Yin Lingzhu?"

"No, I'm her agent. Are you looking for her about something?"

Yang Daiyi looked at the screen, which displayed the three characters "You Xiaoxiao."

Since there was a note saved, it meant this was definitely someone Yin Lingzhu knew.

You Xiaoxiao slapped her forehead, silently cursing herself for being stupid.

Yin Lingzhu was currently on a variety show—how could she possibly answer the phone?

"Nothing."

You Xiaoxiao said this and immediately hung up.

Yang Daiyi looked at the disconnected phone and put it in the drawer.

Her laptop was playing the variety show Yin Lingzhu was on.

Seeing that Yin Lingzhu inside was safe and sound with no apparent problems.

Only then did Yang Daiyi relax—as long as nothing had gone wrong, that was good.

After You Xiaoxiao hung up, she immediately returned to the room.

Yan Si at this moment looked like she had just been pulled out of water.

Her face was scrunched up, and her hands were clawing at the cold bed due to the pain.

Obviously, Yan Si was now approaching her body's limit.

You Xiaoxiao looked at her and, disregarding Yan Si's wishes, forcibly pressed the stop button.

"Why?"

Yan Si suddenly felt that the pain in her body wasn't as intense, and she knew what had happened.

She was now in so much pain that she couldn't even open her eyes, and her lips had become cracked from dehydration.

"Why did you turn it off?" Yan Si's throat was now dry and hoarse, her voice very small.

Seeing her like this, You Xiaoxiao's eyes showed reluctance, "If we continued, you would die."

Hearing this, Yan Si's mouth corners suddenly curved into a smile.

Even though she had no strength now, in the quiet room, this sound was still very clear.

Yan Si's laughter carried mockery and self-derision.

"How many years of pheromones were extracted?" Yan Si looked at You Xiaoxiao, wanting to know an answer.

You Xiaoxiao looked at the time displayed on the screen, which clearly showed three years.

You Xiaoxiao walked to Yan Si's side, "Four years."

She reached out, wanting to help Yan Si up.

But unexpectedly, Yan Si avoided You Xiaoxiao's hand.

"Tell the truth," Yan Si's tone was very cold.

You Xiaoxiao had no choice but to tell the truth.

"Three years."

Hearing this number, Yan Si laughed again.

A tear slid down from the corner of her eye.

"Add the remaining year too." Yan Si turned her head away.

Having three years of pheromones extracted had made her suffer like this.

Back then, when Yin Lingzhu had four years of pheromones extracted, how desperate must she have been?

Yan Si looked at You Xiaoxiao and repeated what she had just said, "Add the last year."

You Xiaoxiao naturally disagreed.

"You already owe her enough," she couldn't help but say.

Hearing what You Xiaoxiao said, Yan Si kept shaking her head.

"How could it be so simple to repay what I owe?"

You Xiaoxiao didn't understand, but she couldn't just watch Yan Si throw her life away.

"You also participated in designing this device. You know that extracting too many pheromones will kill you."

You Xiaoxiao pleaded earnestly.

She still held onto a last glimmer of hope, wanting Yan Si to understand just how dangerous this was.

But Yan Si still hadn't changed her mind, "As its creator, I naturally know its power."

Her tone carried sarcasm and mockery, "But who said it would take someone's life?"

You Xiaoxiao immediately froze in place. She said blankly, "This was what my teacher repeatedly emphasized during my training."

She looked at Yan Si, seemingly still not understanding what Yan Si meant, "And you also told me many times to always use it carefully."

Yan Si opened her eyes, showing desolation and self-mockery.

"Yes, that was a lie."

"Back then, I simply didn't believe anyone would willingly give their life for another person."

The ceiling light seemed somewhat blinding.

Yan Si thought.

"So I said that if pheromone extraction was excessive, it would cost someone their life."