

Chapter 73-1

She took out her phone, wanting to call Yin Lingzhu, but thinking that Yin Lingzhu was still on the variety show, she dismissed this thought.

She pulled her suitcase and returned to her own apartment.

At the same time, You Xiaoxiao also sought out Ming Qingyun.

She sat in the reception room, feeling extremely anxious. In the quiet room, the intermittent sounds of shoe soles touching the floor could be heard.

You Xiaoxiao didn't know whether this decision was right or wrong, but according to the current situation, the only person she could turn to was Ming Qingyun.

Thinking of the information she had learned while by Yan Si's side, You Xiaoxiao gained a bit more confidence.

Thinking of her own family, You Xiaoxiao sighed.

There were five top-tier wealthy families.

The Yan family, Wan family, Qin family, Lu family, and Li family.

Except for the Yan family, she didn't have any familiar people in the other four families.

If she had to say, she had just learned that Wan Miaoyyin was actually from the Wan family.

Thinking of this, You Xiaoxiao sighed again.

She really shouldn't have said those words just for a moment of satisfaction.

Before she could think of a strategy, Ming Qingyun had already sat down across from her.

"You came to find me, is there something you need?"

Ming Qingyun's face showed no expression, and her speech had no inflection, appearing very indifferent.

You Xiaoxiao had stayed by Yan Si's side for many years, so she wasn't afraid.

"Let's make a deal." You Xiaoxiao adopted a negotiating stance.

Her actions carried some of Yan Si's aura, which made Ming Qingyun's eyebrows move almost imperceptibly.

Yin Lingzhu's round of the game was almost her turn.

The apple had already been passed to Wan Miaoyyin's neck. Her body leaned slightly, and her face was already close to Yin Lingzhu.

Yin Lingzhu watched Wan Miaoyyin's face getting closer and closer, and her heartbeat became faster and faster.

Her palms also started to sweat a little.

Yan Si's current physical weakness meant she could no longer carry the camera.

But her outfit today was the same as yesterday's, with the baseball cap on her head already covering her face.

Watching the increasingly ambiguous atmosphere on stage and the two people getting closer and closer, she closed her eyes.

When she opened her eyes again, the apple was already nestled between Yin Lingzhu's neck.

And Yin Lingzhu's face had already turned completely red.

She didn't dare look at Wan Miaoyyin's face. After taking down the apple, she kept her head lowered.

[Wow, shy Bamboo¹, hehe, will Bamboo bloom?]

[Bamboo is actually so pure, I love it so much.]

[This has nothing to do with anything, it doesn't make sense.]

Yin Lingzhu was indeed very shy now. When she was receiving the apple just now, her lips had brushed against Wan Miaoyyin's cheek.

Even though it was just for an instant, she could feel the texture of the fine hair on Wan Miaoyyin's face.

This made Yin Lingzhu very embarrassed.

She secretly glanced at Wan Miaoyyin, only to find that Wan Miaoyyin showed no reaction at all.

Was she making too big a deal of it?

Yin Lingzhu thought this way and didn't dare look at Wan Miaoyyin again.

But after she looked away, Wan Miaoyyin's cheeks also slowly turned red.

All of this was faithfully recorded by the camera.

[Wow wow wow, what did I see?]

[Isn't this the official couple getting their heads pushed together²? I can't take it anymore.]

[I'm someone who doesn't usually ship couples, but I can feel the bubble atmosphere between these two people.]

[I agree, this fresh feeling really makes people want to ship them.]

[You people, don't go too far. Didn't Wan Miaoyyin say before that she has someone she likes?]

Yin Lingzhu's eyes were evasive, not daring to look at Wan Miaoyyin.

She deliberately put on a focused appearance, watching the director announce the final results of this game.

Starting from holding the apple and ending when it was passed to the next person, the person who used the shortest time would get two cards.

The rest would get no cards.

But since Yin Lingzhu was the last person, her apple had no recipient.

Therefore, the production team decided to add an extra round, with Yin Lingzhu passing the apple to Wan Miaoyyin.

And only these two people would be needed.

After learning this news, Yin Lingzhu couldn't contain her surprise.

She raised her hand, wanting to say she didn't want to play this game anymore and would forfeit directly.

But unexpectedly, the director seemed particularly fond of this game and rejected Yin Lingzhu's request.

When under someone else's roof, one must bow one's head³.

Yin Lingzhu could only stand in front of Wan Miaoyyin and take a new apple to place between her neck.

"Then I'll start."

Seeing Wan Miaoyyin nod, Yin Lingzhu encouraged herself mentally.

She slowly approached Wan Miaoyyin, her face getting closer and closer to Wan Miaoyyin's.

If she wanted to safely pass the apple, the posture between the two would be like an embrace.

When Yin Lingzhu was giving the apple to Wan Miaoyyin, it almost fell out.

Wan Miaoyyin reacted quickly and immediately hugged Yin Lingzhu's back with her hands.

The collarbones of the two were just a few centimeters away from touching.

This way, Wan Miaoyyin steadily caught the apple that might have fallen.

[Who just took a screenshot? Sisters, share one.]

[I was stunned. Just now when Miaomiao raised her hand, I suspected she wasn't trying to support her back but wanted to push her head down.]

[I completely agree. If this wasn't a live broadcast, I would suspect this was scripted. It feels so natural.]

[Right, right, that atmosphere - if they don't get together, I'll do a headstand and wash my hair.]

[Come on, live broadcasts can't have scripts?]

[I have someone I know in the production team. He told me that this program being live was something the guests didn't know about.]

[How is that possible? Just because he said it, you believe it? So naive.]

[Ridiculous, why wouldn't I believe him? He's my family member - would he lie to me?]

[Sister, that's impossible. Don't they have to sign contracts to participate in shows?]

[That's exactly it - the production team went all out, two contracts, and they paid the penalty fees too.]

The intensity of the barrage discussion was unknown to Yin Lingzhu. At this moment, her face was as red as a monkey's bottom⁴.

She didn't dare look at Wan Miaoyyin even once.

Wan Miaoyyin noticed Yin Lingzhu's avoidance.

"Are you angry?" Taking advantage of no one else being around, Wan Miaoyyin asked quietly.

Yin Lingzhu's face temperature hadn't cooled down yet. She didn't look at Wan Miaoyyin, just shook her head.

Wan Miaoyyin looked at Yin Lingzhu's face, which was red enough to drip blood, and didn't ask further.

She hummed in acknowledgment and also looked away, but the smile on her lips couldn't fade for a long time.

This time, it was Qin Luo who won the game.

Footnotes:

¹ Bamboo: This refers to Yin Lingzhu's nickname. In Chinese, "竹" means bamboo, which is part of her name "靈竹."

² Official couple getting their heads pushed together: Internet slang referring to when fans "ship" (want to see romantically paired) two people, often saying they want to "push their heads together" to make them kiss.

³ When under someone else's roof, one must bow one's head: A Chinese idiom meaning when you're dependent on others or in their territory, you must be humble and comply with their wishes.

⁴ Red as a monkey's bottom: A common Chinese expression to describe someone blushing extremely red from embarrassment.