

Chapter 74-2

In the room, only Li Li had been soaked. He looked at the other people in the room with some resentment.

Yin Lingzhu noticed Li Li's expression and lifted the hose, aiming it at Li Li.

Li Li was drenched from head to toe again.

"That's not fair! Why are you still spraying me?"

Li Li shouted, accidentally revealing his true thoughts.

Yin Lingzhu couldn't help but be amused by his words. "Does this need a reason?"

As she spoke, she aimed the hose at Li Li's face.

Li Li immediately squeezed his eyes shut and didn't dare open his mouth.

Seeing Li Li's state, Qin Luo couldn't help but speak up.

"You're going too far! Even if we accidentally splashed some water on you before, you can't do this!"

While he was speaking, Yin Lingzhu also looked at him.

"Accidentally? Splashed some water?" Yin Lingzhu repeated these words, her tone full of mockery.

She moved the hose away from Li Li and aimed it at Qin Luo.

"Then I'm also being accidental." Yin Lingzhu's tone was ice-cold. "Splashing some water on you."

Qin Luo hadn't expected Yin Lingzhu's move and looked pleadingly toward Li Li.

Li Li was taking deep breaths. Receiving Qin Luo's gaze, he forced himself to stand beside Qin Luo.

Though he stayed about one or two meters away, afraid of getting splashed himself.

"We're filming a show. I advise you not to go too far," Li Li said in a low voice, trying to persuade her.

But at this moment, Yin Lingzhu couldn't listen at all. She waved the hose slightly.

Li Li was startled, thinking Yin Lingzhu had turned her target to him.

Seeing his frightened appearance, Yin Lingzhu didn't feel particularly happy.

"You also know that spraying people with a hose is excessive, so why did you still do it?"

Yin Lingzhu fixed her gaze on Qin Luo's face. "Because you didn't think this would happen to you."

At this moment, Qin Luo hated Yin Lingzhu to his core, but he didn't dare show it or let Yin Lingzhu notice.

Wan Miaoyyin had changed her clothes by now. Seeing everything that happened, she hurried to Yin Lingzhu's side.

"Don't be angry anymore. The cameras are filming."

Wan Miaoyyin stood beside Yin Lingzhu. Because the hose was still running and the water flow was loud, she had to raise her voice.

Hearing what Wan Miaoyyin said, Li Li felt disdainful inside. He had said the same thing earlier, and it hadn't worked.

Yin Lingzhu looked at Qin Luo's face, raised the hose, and finally sprayed his face once before turning off the water.

"There won't be a next time."

She threw the hose heavily on the ground.

Only after Yin Lingzhu left with Wan Miaoyyin did Li Li dare to approach Qin Luo.

"What are you coming here for now?"

Qin Luo rolled his eyes at him, full of disgust.

Li Li didn't care and said shamelessly, "I'm checking to see if my baby got hurt anywhere."

Seeing that Qin Luo still ignored him and was still angry, impatience flashed in Li Li's eyes.

"Alright, baby, don't be angry anymore. I was doing it for you too. If that psycho makes me sick, how can I take care of my baby?"

Hearing Li Li say this, Qin Luo finally turned to look at him. "Really?"

Li Li nodded eagerly like a pecking chicken¹. "Of course it's true. I love my baby so much, how could I lie to you?"

Qin Luo snorted. "I definitely won't let that Yin Lingzhu off."

Hearing what Qin Luo said, joy flashed in Li Li's eyes, but he didn't show it.

Everything that had just happened was broadcast live on the platform.

Ji Jingrong watched the video of Yin Lingzhu with worry, frowning uneasily.

This incident would definitely damage Yin Lingzhu's reputation.

Just as she was thinking about what to do, she suddenly heard her door being knocked.

Ji Jingrong's train of thought was interrupted. Feeling a bit annoyed, she opened the door and was very surprised to see the person standing at her doorstep.

Footnotes:

¹ Nodded eagerly like a pecking chicken: The Chinese idiom "点头如捣蒜" literally means "nodding like pounding garlic," describing someone nodding very rapidly and enthusiastically in agreement.