

Chapter 76-1

Faced with Yin Lingzhu's questioning, Yan Si hesitated for a moment. She didn't know what she should say.

This matter was indeed her problem.

Seeing the silent Yan Si, Yin Lingzhu looked at her with raised eyebrows.

"What do you want to say?" The cold smile at the corner of Yin Lingzhu's mouth never went away.

She asked lightly, but it increased the pressure on Yan Si.

The person who was silver-tongued in the business world was now so clumsy that she couldn't say a single word.

Yan Si's eyes at this moment showed obvious vulnerability.

Yin Lingzhu saw it clearly, but she only changed her hand position to make herself more comfortable.

"Do you want to say that Nian Nian¹ wasn't brought by you, and you weren't at the scene at that time?"

Yin Lingzhu's tone was mocking, yet it precisely hit Yan Si's thoughts.

Yan Si lowered her head even more, trying to hide her disheveled appearance.

But the more she wanted to hide, the more it showed.

"I, I'm sorry."

Yan Si's voice still trembled, not raising her head.

Clearly she was only two centimeters shorter than Yin Lingzhu, but at this moment they looked like there was a huge gap between them.

Yin Lingzhu sighed, looking at the top of Yan Si's head, really not knowing what to say.

"Let's just leave it at that. Just don't appear in front of me anymore."

Yin Lingzhu left these words behind and turned to leave.

Yan Si raised her hand, wanting to grab her, but couldn't even touch the corner of her clothes.

She watched Yin Lingzhu's retreating figure, her eyes full of sorrow.

If only there were no past incidents, how good that would be.

Yan Si watched in despair as Yin Lingzhu entered her room, staying in place for a long time before being willing to leave.

Returning to her room, Yin Lingzhu looked at the half-packed clothes and had no mood to continue organizing them.

Regarding just encountering Yan Si, Yin Lingzhu actually had some psychological preparation.

These past few days, when she looked down from the stage, she could always see a figure.

Even though that person wrapped herself up tightly, Yin Lingzhu still planted seeds of suspicion in her heart.

Now seeing her, her thoughts were correct - that person was indeed Yan Si.

But even if she discovered that the person wearing the baseball cap was Yan Si, what could she do about it?

The current Yan Si was like a robot that could only say "I'm sorry."

Yin Lingzhu shook her head, wanting to shake Yan Si out of her mind.

But the image of Yan Si constantly apologizing to her just now was fixed before her eyes.

As long as she closed her eyes, she could see Yan Si with her head lowered, saying sorry.

Yin Lingzhu frowned tightly, using her rationality to forcibly suppress this image.

She didn't want to have any connection with Yan Si, and she didn't want to see Yan Si.

Yan Si had already ruined a year of her time; she couldn't continue to ruin her entire life.

Yin Lingzhu exhaled a breath of stale air and slowly lay down on the bed.

In a daze, her consciousness dispersed. It seemed that before falling asleep, she saw Yan Si.

But because she wasn't yet skilled at releasing pheromones², it led to her body being extremely exhausted now.

Even though Yin Lingzhu wanted to open her eyes, she couldn't do it. She lost consciousness and fell into a deep sleep.

Yan Si originally wanted to leave, but she still wanted to see Yin Lingzhu one last time.

Even if she would hear Yin Lingzhu's disgusted words, she still wanted to meet once more.

But she didn't expect that as soon as she pushed open the door, she would see such a scene.

Yin Lingzhu was lying on her side on the bed, her lips also pale, with thin sweat on her forehead.

Yan Si's heart became anxious, and she hurriedly ran over.

After carefully examining her and finding that there was nothing seriously wrong with Yin Lingzhu's body, she finally breathed a sigh of relief.

After recovering, she took off Yin Lingzhu's shoes, helped Yin Lingzhu lie properly on the bed, and covered her with the blanket.

After completing this routine, she moved over a chair and sat guard beside Yin Lingzhu's bed.

She looked at Yin Lingzhu's sleeping face, and her heart also felt sweet.

As long as she could stay by Yin Lingzhu's side, anything would be fine.

But Yan Si also knew that the current scene was like a reflection of the moon in water - it would dissipate when the time came.

A bitter smile appeared on Yan Si's face, so she had to cherish every moment they spent together.

People always have to pay for their past mistakes.

Yan Si quietly watched Yin Lingzhu, originally wanting to keep watching until Yin Lingzhu woke up.

But the knocking sound at the door interrupted her plan.

Yan Si looked at Yin Lingzhu with gentle eyes, and when she got up to open the door, her facial expression became sharp.

She wanted to see who had disturbed her.

After seeing who it was, Yan Si's eyes became even sharper.

"What are you doing here?"

She looked at Wan Miaoyin³ in front of her, her tone very unfriendly.

Wan Miaoyin obviously didn't expect that the person opening the door wasn't Yin Lingzhu, but Yan Si.

"Why are you in Lingzhu's room?"

Wan Miaoyin's questioning tone made Yan Si feel irritated.

"You need to be clear about your identity. When your father comes, he has to speak to me politely, let alone you."

Yan Si's tone was disdainful, and she had the capital to be disdainful.

Wan Miaoyin was choked by her words, and the words in her throat were swallowed back.

"If there's nothing else, then leave. And be moral - don't covet someone who has a wife."

Yan Si looked at Wan Miaoyin's frustrated appearance, feeling much more comfortable.

A daughter of the Wan family wanting to compete with her for someone? Not qualified enough.

But after hearing Yan Si's words, Wan Miaoyin suddenly seemed to find some breakthrough.

"Wife, you mean you?" Mockery revealed in Wan Miaoyin's eyes.

She slowly approached Yan Si, saying words that stabbed at the backbone.

"I know that Yin Lingzhu doesn't like you at all now, she even despises you."

"You hurt her so much before, how could she still have a good face for you?"

Yan Si was hit in her painful spot, her face turning ashen. "It's none of your business."

She slammed the door shut forcefully. The loud noise made Yan Si's heart even more panicked.

Yan Si's heart was very clear that what Wan Miaoyin said was all true.

Yin Lingzhu could now be said to hate her very much.

But knowing it in her heart was one thing; having someone else say it was another matter.

Yan Si sat back beside Yin Lingzhu, looking at Yin Lingzhu's peaceful sleeping appearance, her heart slowly calmed down.

And Wan Miaoyin, who was shut outside the door, found that the door was less than one centimeter from her nose, but she wasn't angry. Instead, she curved her lips in a smile.

Yan Si's reaction was so intense, which precisely showed that what she said was all fact.

Wan Miaoyin felt even more confident.

She let out a light laugh and walked away with cheerful steps.

Wan Miaoyin knew that Yan Si, this enemy who had always ranked first in her heart, was no longer to be feared.

Footnotes:

¹ Nian Nian (年年): This appears to be referring to a cat or pet, likely the one mentioned in earlier chapters that was involved in an accident.

² Pheromones: In ABO (Alpha/Beta/Omega) universe fiction, pheromones are chemical signals that the different secondary genders can release to communicate emotions, attraction, or dominance.

³ Wan Miaoyin (萬妙音): A character name. The Wan family appears to be a wealthy/influential family based on the context of the conversation about her father needing to speak politely to Yan Si.
