

Chapter 77-1

But Yin Lingzhu stood in place, not moving.

"What's wrong with you today? Did something happen?" Yin Lingzhu asked with confusion.

Obviously, Wan Miaoyin was very off today. "Did Li Li come to trouble you?"

Yin Lingzhu looked at Wan Miaoyin's face, which was redder than usual, and asked urgently.

"How could anything happen to me? I just fell in the bathroom earlier, it's nothing serious."

Wan Miaoyin smiled a little and slowly explained what had just happened.

"I was afraid you'd wait anxiously, so I hurried out."

After Wan Miaoyin finished speaking, she looked at Yin Lingzhu with a smile.

Yin Lingzhu looked at Wan Miaoyin carefully, and only after seeing that Wan Miaoyin truly had no problems did she feel relieved.

"If Li Li and the others come to trouble you, you must tell me." Yin Lingzhu said seriously as they walked along the road.

From what Li Li had said at noon today, Qin Luo's background seemed quite substantial.

Yin Lingzhu felt a bit worried.

But Wan Miaoyin was obviously much more optimistic than Yin Lingzhu. "Don't worry, nothing will happen."

But even after they finished eating, the scenario Yin Lingzhu had imagined didn't occur.

Wan Miaoyin noticed Yin Lingzhu's tension. "Why are you so afraid of them? No matter what, you did nothing wrong."

They walked on the road back to their rooms. The streetlights illuminated the path as bright as daylight.

Hearing Wan Miaoyin's question, Yin Lingzhu looked up at the sky.

She pondered in her heart for a while, but still didn't tell her about releasing pheromones.

Yin Lingzhu smiled lightly. "Maybe I'm overthinking it."

But the worry in her eyes didn't fade. She had previously seen Qin Luo's social media account.

Qin Luo's¹ video page had nothing to do with creative content; it mainly showed daily life.

But with just under ten videos, Qin Luo had accumulated tens of millions of followers.

Simply because the home videos Qin Luo shared were extremely luxurious and magnificent.

Moreover, Qin Luo was generous with money, casually giving out red envelopes² worth tens of thousands.

This left a particularly deep impression on Yin Lingzhu.

So she couldn't help but worry about Qin Luo's potential retaliation afterward.

She had been impulsive today.

But she didn't regret it. Yin Lingzhu's eyes suddenly became determined.

"If Qin Luo and the others come to trouble you, you must put all the blame on me."

Yin Lingzhu's face was serious, her tone very grave.

[Ah, at noon it was clearly them who started the trouble first, and Bamboo was just protecting Miaomiao.]

[I think so too. Li Li acts like he has a brain defect.]

[Wasn't it Qin Luo who took the water hose and sprayed people first? What does it have to do with Li Li?]

[Qin Luo and Bamboo have no grudges at all; he was just being used.]

[Exactly, so good-looking but no brains.]

[But it was also Yin Lingzhu who rejected Li Li first. Li Li being unhappy is understandable.]

[Laughable. Bamboo was sunbathing peacefully, and Li Li ran over to block the sunlight.]

[Bamboo's rejection was appropriate, but Li Li's retaliation was so obvious. Does he think we're all brainless?]

[I wondered why Li Li looked like he'd suffered a great injustice when he left. Turns out he was acting like green tea³.]

Wan Miaoyin looked at Yin Lingzhu and could feel the sweetness in her heart.

"I understand. Don't worry." Wan Miaoyin heard herself say.

This stretch of road felt particularly long.

Under the streetlights, their shadows looked especially harmonious.

After Yin Lingzhu returned to her room, the audience's screens once again fell into darkness.

[Why? I'm starting to hate this black screen.]

[My CP is separated, and my main character is also separated.]

Ji Jingrong's⁴ television was also plunged into darkness, but she chose not to turn off the TV, letting it continue playing.

She turned to look at the other two people in the room and frowned.

"You being here is useless. I won't cooperate with you."

Ming Qingyun's⁵ face grew even colder. She had waited all afternoon only to get this result.

She let out a light huff.

You Xiaoxiao⁶ had always been skilled at reading the room. She comforted Ming Qingyun while carefully thinking of countermeasures.

Ji Jingrong's lawyer status was obviously important, but more important was Yin Lingzhu's affection for her.

You Xiaoxiao also knew that Ji Jingrong had been rejected when she confessed to Yin Lingzhu.

But Ji Jingrong had returned now, which precisely proved that Ji Jingrong still couldn't let go of Yin Lingzhu in her heart.

And Yin Lingzhu would certainly not give up Ji Jingrong as a friend.

This was also the reason Ming Qingyun and You Xiaoxiao had waited so long.

In terms of closeness, except for Yan Si, the highest ranking in Yin Lingzhu's heart belonged to Ji Jingrong.

Thinking of this, You Xiaoxiao couldn't help but sigh.

If Yan Si knew about her actions, she would probably be even angrier.

While You Xiaoxiao was pondering, Ji Jingrong impatiently issued another eviction order.

"You should leave quickly and stop bothering me."

Since starting her successful business, Ming Qingyun hadn't had anyone speak to her so rudely.

Anger flared in her heart instantly. "You—"

Before Ming Qingyun could finish her words, You Xiaoxiao immediately stopped her.

"Alright, we'll visit again another day. Until we meet again."

You Xiaoxiao's face showed a smile as she spoke politely, pulling Ming Qingyun away.

Footnotes:

¹ Qin Luo (秦洛): A character mentioned as having a wealthy background, based on their social media presence showing a luxurious lifestyle.

² Red envelopes: In Chinese culture, these are monetary gifts typically given during holidays or special occasions, now commonly given digitally through social media platforms.

³ Green tea: Internet slang for someone (usually female) who appears innocent and sweet on the surface but is actually manipulative and scheming.

⁴ Ji Jingrong (季景容): A lawyer character who has a past romantic history with Yin Lingzhu.

⁵ Ming Qingyun (明青雲): A successful businesswoman who also has feelings for Yin Lingzhu.

⁶ You Xiaoxiao (尤笑笑): A doctor character who seems to be working with Ming Qingyun.