

Chapter 80-1

Yan Si hadn't expected that Yin Lingzhu would be bullied to this extent.

She immediately called her driver and rushed toward Yin Lingzhu's location.

It seemed that her long absence had made people forget her methods.

Yan Si's eyes were like ice, piercing and cold.

The low-key black car sped along, leaving no trace behind.

The driver advanced at the fastest speed throughout the journey, arriving at the livestream venue within minutes.

Someone from the production team spotted Yan Si's car and immediately reported it to the director.

Therefore, the director had already prepared.

The moment Yan Si arrived, the broadcast sounded.

[Due to our decision-making errors and incomplete rules.]

[After our discussion, we have decided to cancel Qin Luo's 'revival.']

Upon hearing this, Qin Luo, who was happily spraying water, froze.

He looked at the speaker on the wall in disbelief.

"How is this possible?" he murmured softly.

But the repeated broadcast forced him to accept this reality.

Qin Luo stared at the person in front of him, feeling a surge of frustration.

Having lived smoothly for so many years, this was the first time he had experienced such setbacks.

"Yin Lingzhu, remember this - I won't let you off."

Qin Luo threw the water gun on the ground and walked away without looking back.

Li Li saw this opportunity and immediately followed beside Qin Luo.

"Baby, don't get angry over unnecessary people."

Yin Lingzhu could only hear this sentence before they walked too far away to be heard.

But she could imagine with her toes that they weren't saying anything good.

Yin Lingzhu smiled indifferently.

She looked around at Wan Miaoyin and found that Wan Miaoyin hadn't gotten a single drop of water on her, which put her at ease.

Wan Miaoyin was also looking at her. There wasn't a single dry spot on Yin Lingzhu's clothes - everything was soaked.

Water was also dripping from her hair drop by drop, making her look quite disheveled.

Wan Miaoyin could see this and frowned.

"You should quickly go change clothes. We're not far from the changing room."

Yin Lingzhu immediately thought of the sabotaged clothes and shook her head.

"Forget it. It's not cold here, and it'll dry if I run around."

Wan Miaoyin looked at Yin Lingzhu's profile, not understanding why she wouldn't change clothes.

She didn't ask further.

"Alright, let's do as you say."

Yin Lingzhu hummed in a muffled voice, then began searching for other people floor by floor.

The production team's clothes were of poor quality. Once soaked with water, they stuck to her body uncomfortably.

Yin Lingzhu's brow furrowed tightly. The wet hair stuck to the back of her neck, bringing an unavoidable sticky sensation.

Wan Miaoyin noticed Yin Lingzhu's discomfort. "How about going to change clothes?"

Yin Lingzhu sighed and shook her head.

"Forget it, let's just leave it like this."

[Why won't Bamboo go change clothes? I feel uncomfortable just watching.]

[The production team's bias has gone too far. It's really inhumane - Qin Luo's water gun was so big.]

[Right, Qin Luo's water gun was completely empty, and all the water was shot at Bamboo.]

[Qin Luo didn't even look at Miaomiao. He came straight for Bamboo - it's definitely revenge.]

[But in the end, they took Qin Luo away. The production team still seems to have some conscience.]

[What? If they had conscience, they shouldn't have created a revival segment for Qin Luo in the first place.]

Ji Jingrong watched all this, her heart feeling as if it were being squeezed by a large hand, aching sourly.

Her gaze fixed on the clothes clinging tightly to Yin Lingzhu's body, and she clenched her hands.

Although she didn't know why Yin Lingzhu wouldn't change clothes, everyone knew that wearing wet clothes was uncomfortable.

She looked at Yin Lingzhu and pressed her lips together tightly.

Is this how Yan Si takes care of people?

Ji Jingrong irritably knitted her brows together.

Yan Si was still watching the livestream on her way there.

But it wasn't until the driver parked the car in the underground garage that she heard the broadcast announcement.

It was the overlapping broadcast sounds from her phone and reality.

The anger in Yan Si's eyes grew heavier.

This obvious perfunctory gesture - if she hadn't come, would the director not have planned to make this broadcast at all?

Was the director's heart so biased toward Qin Luo that it couldn't be moved?

The more Yan Si thought about it, the angrier she became.

When Yan Si got out of the car, the director also came to her car.

When the director saw Yan Si's darkened face, he realized something was terribly wrong.

Being able to reach this position, the director immediately calculated to make the assistant director take the blame.

So the moment Yan Si got out of the car, the director began to distance himself from responsibility.

"President Yan, I shouldn't have entrusted the broadcast notification task to the assistant director. It was my oversight."

The director felt his words were very sincere. Perhaps from being around actors for so long, his acting skills had also become quite good.

Yan Si herself was an actress - how could she not know the director's little schemes?

But she didn't expose him. She was also thinking about a problem.

Why wouldn't Yin Lingzhu go change clothes?

Yan Si looked at Yin Lingzhu on her phone and said sternly to the director, "Take me to their changing room."

The director was confused for a moment, not understanding what Yan Si wanted to do.

"President Yan, if you want to change clothes, come with me. You don't need to use the same room as them."

Yan Si's gaze remained on her phone screen, not looking at the director once.

"You're quite meddlesome, aren't you?"

The director immediately fell silent, not daring to say anything else.

"President Yan, this way please."

The director bent over and respectfully led the way.

While walking, the director boldly glanced at Yan Si's phone.

When he saw that the person on the phone screen was Yin Lingzhu, the director held onto a tiny bit of hope in his heart.

Even though he knew this possibility was very slim, what if?

What if Yan Si coming here was just a coincidence?

As the director thought about this, cold sweat began to form on his forehead.

He also knew that such a coincidence was almost impossible.

But he had to think this way - the consequences of offending Yan Si were beyond his imagination.

The director prayed in his heart, but it seemed God didn't hear his prayers.

The changing room was reached in the blink of an eye.

The director didn't know why Yan Si wanted to go to the changing room.

But he knew that if anything went wrong, he would be in trouble.

This world had six genders¹, so there were six changing rooms.

Since Yin Lingzhu had been to the changing room before, Yan Si also knew where the female Alpha changing room was.

When the director saw Yan Si's target, his last bit of hope was also shattered.

He now only hoped that nothing would go wrong in the changing room.

Otherwise, his position might not be secure.

¹ Six genders: In this ABO universe, there are six gender combinations - male/female Alpha, Beta, and Omega, hence six separate changing rooms.