

Chapter 80-2

When entering the changing room, cameramen were not allowed to go in.

But fortunately, the lockers storing clothes had names posted on them.

Yan Si quickly identified which locker belonged to Yin Lingzhu.

She took out the new clothes from the locker and examined them carefully.

When she saw that the threads on the clothes had been cut, she understood what had happened.

She snorted and took the clothes out.

When the director saw her come out, he breathed a sigh of relief, but when he saw the clothes in Yan Si's hands, he almost couldn't catch his breath.

Especially seeing Yan Si's expression, he understood that she must have discovered something inside.

The director's eyes turned vicious - if necessary, he would have to sacrifice the assistant director.

Back in the office, Yan Si sat at the desk.

The director and assistant director stood before her with their heads lowered, not daring to speak.

Yan Si placed the clothes on the table for them to see clearly.

The director, with his sharp eyes, immediately spotted the problem.

"President Yan, I don't know how this happened. When we checked, everything was still normal."

After the director finished speaking, he glanced at the assistant director.

"But after I left, the assistant director seemed to have gone in once."

The assistant director hadn't expected that the director would try to pin this on him.

"President Yan, I didn't. I only went to double-check the clothes in the changing room, nothing else."

The assistant director said hurriedly, while Yan Si was currently staring at the surveillance footage.

Looking at the assistant director in the monitor, from when he went in to when he came out, it hadn't even been a minute.

Based on this timing, the assistant director had just entered and immediately came back out.

Although his work was careless, he also didn't have time to damage the clothes.

Yan Si thought about this while looking at the cut threads on the clothes.

It was obvious that the threads on the clothes had been cut with a knife or similar tool, and it was delicate work.

It would definitely require staying inside for a long time.

So it wasn't these two people who were just going through the motions with their work.

This matter wasn't done by them, but Yan Si didn't plan to let them off either.

"Who arranged Qin Luo's revival?"

Yan Si narrowed her eyes. "And why was his water gun so big?"

The director decisively sold out the assistant director. "President Yan, it was all him. I knew nothing about it."

Yan Si didn't believe his words. She raised her chin toward the assistant director.

"You tell me."

The assistant director looked at Yan Si's gesture and felt very regretful.

But seeing the director's blame-shifting behavior, the assistant director's heart hardened.

"President Yan, regarding Qin Luo's matter, I did take benefits, but the director knew about it."

The assistant director broke the jar and spilled everything¹.

"Moreover, he even asked Qin Luo for more benefits. He knew that Qin Luo held a grudge against Yin Lingzhu in his heart."

The assistant director's eyes turned red, carrying a momentum of mutual destruction.

"So changing to a large water gun was his initiative."

When the director heard these words, he immediately wanted to rush forward and cover the assistant director's mouth.

But his body was controlled by Yan Si's bodyguards and he couldn't move.

He could only watch helplessly as the assistant director finished telling everything.

With every word the assistant director said, the director's face turned a shade whiter.

When the assistant director finished the last word, the director's face was already impossibly pale.

He knew his career was completely finished.

Yan Si's willingness to specially come to this place for Yin Lingzhu was enough to show how much she cared about Yin Lingzhu.

Thinking back to the past few days when Yan Si had been here.

At first, the director thought Yan Si valued this program, but now it seemed that the person she wanted to see was that person.

The director understood all this, his face ashen.

Footnotes:

¹ Broke the jar and spilled everything: This is a reference to the Chinese idiom "破罐子破摔" (pòguànzǐ pòshuāi), meaning when someone is in a desperate situation, they might as well go all the way and reveal everything, having nothing left to lose.