

Chapter 81-2

Before leaving, the assistant director suddenly remembered something, but seeing Yan Si's cold expression, he closed his mouth again.

"You still dare to come over?" Qin Luo saw the director and didn't care that there were cameras here.

"Took the money but didn't do the work - is this how you're a director?"

The director didn't care about Qin Luo's sarcasm. He just wanted to complete his task quickly.

"Come with me."

The director ignored Qin Luo's resistance, grabbed Qin Luo's wrist, and dragged him in front of Yan Si with pulling and tugging.

Throughout the journey, no matter how harshly Qin Luo cursed, he didn't let go.

But when entering the door, the director took a long breath.

"Watch your words inside. President Yan is in there."

Qin Luo felt the director's grip loosen when he spoke, and immediately shook off his hand.

"No matter how big her face is, can it be bigger than my dad's?"

Qin Luo said disdainfully.

After hearing Qin Luo's words, the director's eyes immediately showed a trace of sympathy.

"She's your boss, right? I'd like to see how this boss of yours acts. Even a waste like you can be a director."

The director now felt that this person must be mentally abnormal.

"I haven't received a single penny from you."

The director looked at him. "What we agreed on was—"

"I provide you benefits in this game, and you give me money after this episode ends."

"At most, I'm just not keeping my word now."

The director's words made Qin Luo furious.

Qin Luo said angrily, "You, you, you wait and see."

"It's just a crappy show. Believe it or not, I'll make sure it can't continue tomorrow."

Just as Qin Luo was making threats, Yan Si opened the door from inside.

"What did you say?"

Yan Si's tone was calm, carrying a naturally imposing feeling.

Qin Luo was startled by her and recognized Yan Si's identity as a movie queen.

"Oh, aren't you supposed to be acting? What, is this variety show yours?"

Qin Luo's tone was contemptuous as he directly ignored Yan Si and sat on the sofa.

"So, what do you want from me?"

Qin Luo crossed his legs, saying casually.

Yan Si looked at Qin Luo's arrogant attitude and suddenly smiled.

Even Qin Ruri wouldn't dare treat her this way. This Qin Luo was really audacious.

"You, call Qin Ruri."

Hearing Yan Si's order, the director didn't dare say anything.

Just as he was about to grab Qin Luo's phone, he suddenly heard Qin Luo's furious voice.

"Who did you say? You dare call my dad's name directly?"

Qin Luo looked at Yan Si in disbelief. "You're just a small movie queen. You really don't know your place."

Yan Si ignored him and glanced at the director who was standing there stunned. "Hurry up."

Only then did the director wake up as if from a dream and quickly ran off.

Yan Si looked at the bodyguards at the door and said a few words to them.

Qin Luo only saw that after Yan Si spoke, the bodyguards left.

"What did you send them to do?"

Qin Luo was a bit panicked. "If you dare touch me, my dad will make you disappear from the entertainment industry tomorrow."

Yan Si didn't take his threatening words seriously at all. "Are you an elementary school student?"

In Qin Luo's confused gaze, Yan Si added the second half of the sentence: "Only knowing how to find daddy."

After thinking for a while, Qin Luo realized that Yan Si was insulting him.

"You, damn it."

Qin Luo sprang up from the sofa, raised his fist, and wanted to hit Yan Si.

Yan Si stopped the bodyguards from stepping forward to protect her. She watched Qin Luo getting closer and revealed a cold smile.

Yan Si raised her leg and kicked Qin Luo in the abdomen.

When Qin Luo fell to the ground, she stepped on his chest.

Qin Luo lay on the ground, glaring at Yan Si.

"You actually dare treat me like this."

As Qin Luo spoke, Yan Si increased the pressure of her foot.

"Ah."

Qin Luo couldn't help but cry out in pain.

"Qin Ruri didn't teach you respect. Today I'll teach you what respect means."

Yan Si rested her forearm on her bent thigh and said with a smile.

The director came in with the phone and saw this scene.

"President Yan, I brought Qin Luo's phone."

The director held the phone respectfully with both hands.

Only then did Yan Si release Qin Luo. "Make the call."

Qin Luo got up from the ground with a face full of humiliation.

He took the phone from the director's hands and dialed with hatred.

Yan Si saw the expression on Qin Luo's face, but she didn't care.

Can the anger of the weak be called anger?

Yan Si sat in the office chair, thinking carelessly.

At this moment, the cameraman was also brought in by the assistant director.

The moment the cameraman entered the door, his legs went weak, especially when he saw the bodyguards beside Yan Si.

His knees went soft and he knelt directly on the ground.

"It's not my fault! Li Li made me do it all."

The cameraman said in panic.

He confessed so readily, which was unexpected.

Yan Si looked at the cameraman kneeling on the ground. "What did Li Li make you do?"

The cameraman's voice stammered, trembling constantly.

"He just said to cut open Yin Lingzhu's clothes, and then he'd give me a large sum of money."

The cameraman glanced at Yan Si's expressionless face and quickly begged for mercy.

"Everything I said is true. This is also my first time doing this kind of thing."

The cameraman was nervous and sweating profusely.

Yan Si's red lips parted. "You're saying Li Li made you do it."

The cameraman was like someone who had found a life-saving straw.

"Yes, yes, yes, he made me do everything. It has nothing to do with me at all."

Yan Si's lips had no makeup on them, but they were red like roses with dewdrops, charming and alluring.

"Is that so?"

She said softly, but the coldness in her eyes made it impossible to look directly at her.

Footnotes:

No additional cultural footnotes needed for this chapter as the content is straightforward and the character dynamics and power relationships are clear from context.