

Chapter 85-1

Faced with Yin Lingzhu's surprise, Wan Miaoyin calmly nodded.

In the room, besides the hospital bed where Yin Lingzhu was lying, there was another bed.

Yin Lingzhu frowned, her fingers picking at the pure white bed sheet.

"Isn't this rather inconvenient for you? Isn't the program still filming?"

Yin Lingzhu leaned against the headboard, her hand not releasing its grip on the bed sheet.

Wan Miaoyin noticed Yin Lingzhu's nervous hand, and her gaze dropped with disappointment.

"Are you still blaming me?"

Yin Lingzhu hadn't expected that Wan Miaoyin was still troubled by this issue.

"Of course not. This matter has nothing to do with you either."

Yin Lingzhu hurriedly waved her hands.

But Wan Miaoyin didn't feel comforted at all.

She looked at Yin Lingzhu's hand in the cast, and the guilt in her heart became even more obvious.

"I'm sorry. I didn't expect it would turn out like this."

Wan Miaoyin's voice trembled with hoarseness, as if she could cry at any moment.

"If I had known beforehand, I definitely wouldn't have let her come."

Seeing her like this, Yin Lingzhu didn't know what she should say.

"This matter has nothing to do with you."

Yin Lingzhu said seriously, lifting up her casted hand.

"This was because I wasn't careful. It has nothing to do with you."

Yin Lingzhu stared at Wan Miaoyin, speaking word by word: "You don't need to blame yourself."

From Yin Lingzhu's perspective, she could clearly see that after she finished saying this, Wan Miaoyin's complexion visibly improved.

So Yin Lingzhu seized this opportunity and said a whole bunch more things, finally dispelling Wan Miaoyin's guilt.

After discovering this change, Yin Lingzhu quietly breathed a sigh of relief in her heart.

Now, she shouldn't be sleeping here tonight, right?

Thinking this, when Yin Lingzhu saw Wan Miaoyin getting up from the care chair, her face was full of expectation.

Under her gaze, Wan Miaoyin slowly walked out of the hospital room door, then came back.

Yin Lingzhu's expression collapsed instantly, but she still forced herself to ask:

"What did you just go do?"

Wan Miaoyin shook her head. "Nothing, I just collected your dinner plates."

Only then did Yin Lingzhu notice that the dishes on the table were gone.

She hadn't even noticed just now.

Yin Lingzhu immediately felt embarrassment spreading throughout her entire body.

"So you're going to—"

She began with a bit of confusion.

Wan Miaoyin was already making up the care bed, speaking naturally:

"Of course I'm going to stay with you."

When Yin Lingzhu heard this answer, her heart jumped.

Seeing Wan Miaoyin's actions, Yin Lingzhu knew that all her earlier words had been in vain.

"I really don't need you to take care of me. I'll be fine staying here alone—nothing will happen."

Yin Lingzhu said helplessly.

Wan Miaoyin glanced at her and continued tidying up the bed.

"With me by your side, at least you don't have to worry about inconvenient situations."

Wan Miaoyin said gently.

Seeing Wan Miaoyin's determined appearance, Yin Lingzhu's hand gripped the bed sheet again.

"Don't we still have a program to participate in?"

She said this with the last bit of hope in her eyes.

Yin Lingzhu really felt quite embarrassed in her heart.

After her hand was injured and put in a cast, most simple actions became very inconvenient for her.

Apart from Yan Si, she rarely showed her vulnerable side to others.

She didn't want other people to see her in such a state either.

Alone in the hospital room, she could move around freely without worrying about embarrassing situations occurring.

But if there was another person present, then Yin Lingzhu would feel as if her body was bound when doing things.

Even breathing seemed to become inconvenient.

Yin Lingzhu's limbs stiffened, especially since Wan Miaoyin had already finished organizing the bed.

Upon hearing Yin Lingzhu's question, Wan Miaoyin's eyes widened slightly.

"You don't know yet?"

Her reaction left Yin Lingzhu somewhat confused.

"What happened?"

Yin Lingzhu asked in puzzlement.

Wan Miaoyin looked at her, seemingly not expecting that Yin Lingzhu didn't know this news, her face showing great shock.

"This program is broadcast in live stream format."

Yin Lingzhu immediately froze on the bed, her brain completely crashing.

"My agent didn't tell me that."

Wan Miaoyin wasn't particularly surprised by this. She was holding a pillow in her hands.

"Because the production team will send agents a new contract after you arrive at the program location."

Wan Miaoyin gently patted the pillow, making the cotton inside fluffier.

Her tone was casual, as if she was talking about something completely normal.

Yin Lingzhu's heart was already in turmoil.

"Live stream?! The kind with absolutely no editing?"

Yin Lingzhu shouted in surprise.

"So my bathing and sleeping would all be seen?"

Just thinking about this possibility made Yin Lingzhu feel like she was going to collapse.

Wan Miaoyin quickly denied this: "How could that be? Didn't someone remind you on the first day that there were cameras in the rooms too?"

Only then did Yin Lingzhu extract from her memory what had happened on the first day.

She let out a long breath. Fortunately, she had covered the camera in her room with cloth.

Seeing her reaction was so strong, Wan Miaoyin could guess what had happened with just a little thought.

"You're so naive. How are you going to make it in the entertainment industry?"

Wan Miaoyin looked at her and said with feeling.

Yin Lingzhu raised an eyebrow at her. "The way you talk, you sound very experienced."

Wan Miaoyin sat on the edge of the bed. "You came to participate in a variety show without any preparation at all?"

Her posture was very proper, her back straight, but her tone was puzzled.