

Chapter 90-1

The next day, Yin Lingzhu hesitated at the door for a long time. Finally, she took a deep breath.

She reached out and opened the door.

Sure enough, Wan Miaoyin was waiting for her at the door.

When Wan Miaoyin saw Yin Lingzhu, she acted as if nothing had happened and intimately came over to link arms with her.

Yin Lingzhu felt a bit uncomfortable and tried to pull her arm away.

But Wan Miaoyin held on tightly.

Yin Lingzhu couldn't pull her arm free.

She looked at the person in front of her, wondering in her heart whether she should remind Wan Miaoyin.

But Wan Miaoyin seemed to know what she was thinking. She looked directly at Yin Lingzhu.

"You said we're friends."

Yin Lingzhu was speechless at her words. What she had been about to say, she now couldn't say.

She wanted to say that this was completely different - how could people who had confessed to each other still be friends?

Yin Lingzhu looked at her but ultimately didn't say those words.

After all, there were several cameramen following beside Wan Miaoyin.

Speaking so directly would probably leave the audience with a bad impression of Wan Miaoyin.

Yin Lingzhu had no choice but to let Wan Miaoyin have her way.

From the audience's perspective, they appeared no different from usual.

【I knew it, yesterday was all an illusion. Look at them today, so normal.】

【I don't know if it's a psychological reaction from yesterday, but I still think they're acting strange.】

【You're just overthinking it. Look, they're exactly the same as usual.】

【I hope I'm overthinking it. My CP has already broken up six times. I hope this first pair won't break up, woo woo woo.】

In front of the screen, Ji Jingrong watched their harmonious appearance, feeling incredibly bitter in her heart.

This result was completely different from her own outcome back then.

Thinking this way, Ji Jingrong lost the mood to continue watching.

Her gaze fell outside the monitor.

She hadn't paid attention to any of those bullet comments just now.

She was very clear that Wan Miaoyin had definitely confessed to Yin Lingzhu.

The look in Wan Miaoyin's eyes when she looked at Yin Lingzhu - that kind of gaze - she was very familiar with it.

She had once looked at someone the same way.

And Wan Miaoyin's movements after coming down from the Ferris wheel last night were exactly the same as hers back then.

But she couldn't understand why today they acted as if nothing had happened.

Back then, she had chosen to leave this city for the same reason.

Ji Jingrong's gaze returned to the monitor.

Inside, the sight of Yin Lingzhu and someone else walking shoulder to shoulder was particularly glaring.

Ji Jingrong's eyes contained unwillingness. She couldn't understand why it was like this.

Yin Lingzhu had actually been trying to pull her hand free the whole time.

But Wan Miaoyin was also secretly exerting force.

Because of the presence of cameras nearby, Yin Lingzhu didn't dare make her movements too obvious.

She glanced at Wan Miaoyin, but from Wan Miaoyin's expression, she couldn't tell what was going on.

Yin Lingzhu had to give up and assume Wan Miaoyin wasn't doing it on purpose.

But in her heart, she always knew that her relationship with Wan Miaoyin could never go back to how it was before.

Yin Lingzhu knew her own thoughts, but others didn't.

What was recorded by the cameras was the scene of Yin Lingzhu and Wan Miaoyin walking together in perfect harmony.

Yan Si was also watching the live broadcast.

Since Yin Lingzhu's live broadcast started, she had been watching Yin Lingzhu almost all day long.

She rarely went to the company she used to visit frequently.

Yan Si watched the two people who had returned to harmony, feeling somewhat suffocated.

She knew her emotions were wrong, but she couldn't control them.

Yan Si focused intently on Yin Lingzhu's back, her eyes full of deep affection.

She really wanted to rush over and separate the two of them.

This thought seemed to have taken root in Yan Si's mind.

But no matter how much she thought about it, there was nothing she could do.

Between her and Yin Lingzhu was a thick barrier.

Impossible to break through.

Yin Lingzhu and Wan Miaoyin came before the director. As soon as they arrived at the venue, Yin Lingzhu immediately asked Wan Miaoyin to let go of her.

Perhaps because there were more people around than before, Wan Miaoyin didn't deliberately use force with her hands like earlier.

Wan Miaoyin actually didn't want to let go either.

She looked deeply at Yin Lingzhu, and the strength in her hands gradually lessened.

After being released, Yin Lingzhu didn't move very far from Wan Miaoyin.

It was really just three or four steps.

But in the audience's eyes, these three or four steps took on a different meaning.

【I feel like Yin Lingzhu seems to be deliberately avoiding Wan Miaoyin.】

【Here we go again, here we go again.】

【Is she deliberately avoiding Wan Miaoyin? I can't tell.】

【It's over, it's over. They're probably finished. Are they trying to avoid suspicion?】

【Based on my years in the entertainment industry, this kind of behavior means they're either together, or they'll never be able to be together.】

The last bullet comment received high praise.

Ji Jingrong also silently gave it a like.

Wan Miaoyin turned her head to look at the person beside her, feeling incredibly sad.

The other people might have also noticed something was wrong between them and moved away from them a bit.

Suddenly, a circle of empty space appeared around Wan Miaoyin and Yin Lingzhu.

The director noticed this situation, his brow furrowing tightly.

So far, the bullet comments about these two were the most numerous, and the people who specifically became members to watch these two were also the most.

If necessary, he would need to take some measures to remedy this situation.

A cold glint flashed in the director's eyes.

Yin Lingzhu acted as if she hadn't noticed anything and just looked at the director, waiting for his announcement.

Seeing this, Wan Miaoyin could only look at the director as well.

Under their gazes, the director cleared his throat and began to explain the rules.

【Continue with the previous partnerships, two people per group.】

The director's words gave Yin Lingzhu a bad feeling.

Sure enough, Yin Lingzhu and Wan Miaoyin were paired together.

By now, there was no possibility of switching groups.

【After partners are assigned, please follow the staff to the designated area.】

Yin Lingzhu and Wan Miaoyin maintained a distance of three or four steps - not far, not close.

Wan Miaoyin sighed, feeling incredibly regretful about her previous decision.

She had clearly planned for so long - why couldn't she control herself this time?

Wan Miaoyin couldn't help but clutch her clothes.

Her appearance completely shattered the audience's last hope.

Previously, some people might have been speculating, but now Wan Miaoyin's expression explained everything.

【Impossible, my seventh CP just ended like this.】

【You're lucky, my first CP ended so perfectly.】

【Help me, who can tell me what exactly happened on that Ferris wheel?】

【I want to know too. Why didn't the cameramen follow them up, leaving me here to guess wildly?】

Watching Yin Lingzhu and Wan Miaoyin's estranged appearance, Ji Jingrong also thought of herself back then.

She could even imagine how Yin Lingzhu and Wan Miaoyin would develop afterward.

Following the staff, Yin Lingzhu walked along and gradually realized something was wrong.

This path was not only getting more remote, but there were also fewer and fewer cameramen.

On this path, there were only four people in total.

This was counting Yin Lingzhu and Wan Miaoyin.

Yin Lingzhu felt increasingly uneasy. For safety reasons, she moved a bit closer to Wan Miaoyin.

Wan Miaoyin's mood obviously improved a bit because of Yin Lingzhu's approach.

But this couldn't stop the staff from leading them further and further off the beaten path.