

Chapter 91-2

She returned to her room, picked up her phone, and watched the content that the production team had just broadcast.

Yin Lingzhu played the video at double speed and finally finished watching the entire process.

She knew it—the production team definitely did this on purpose.

Yin Lingzhu opened Yang Daiyi's phone number and dialed it.

Yang Daiyi had been following Yin Lingzhu's live stream, and the moment Yin Lingzhu's phone rang, she immediately answered.

"Sister Yang, how much would the penalty fee be for breaching this variety show contract?"

When Yang Daiyi heard this question, her heart skipped a beat.

"What happened? I was just watching the live stream too."

Yin Lingzhu sighed. This program really made her feel very uncomfortable.

Yang Daiyi frowned and lowered her voice, "Twenty million."

Upon hearing this number, Yin Lingzhu immediately gave up on this path.

Because of the aftereffects left by her susceptible period¹ and pheromone extraction, she basically had to go to the hospital once a month.

Naturally, she hadn't managed to save much money.

"Alright then."

Yin Lingzhu's tone was dejected. After hanging up the phone, her mind was in complete chaos.

After this phone call, Yang Daiyi brought Yin Lingzhu some obviously...

Ever since joining this program, she had hardly had any particularly happy moments. Especially tonight, when something like this happened, it lowered her opinion of this program to its lowest point.

Seeing Yin Lingzhu come out of her room on the screen, Yan Si seemed to be emanating cold air all around her.

This director was personally selected by her, yet she hadn't expected that he would also use such underhanded tactics.

This made Yan Si feel sick to her stomach, as if she had swallowed a fly.

She hadn't thought that her judgment could be this poor now.

Yan Si had already decided to remove this person and determine who would take over.

Just as she was contemplating, she suddenly received an unexpected phone call.

Yan Si looked at the name displayed on her phone screen and pressed the answer button.

After Yan Si answered the call, Yang Daiyi immediately told her about today's situation.

After listening to what she said, Yan Si completely overturned all the plans that had just been in her mind.

The director was still feeling smug when he suddenly received a call from Yan Si.

He thought Yan Si was calling to praise him and hurriedly answered.

But on the other end of the phone wasn't Yan Si herself, but her assistant.

After Yang Daiyi's phone call, Yan Si had given instructions to her assistant.

The assistant coldly informed the director of devastating news, not bothering to listen to his explanations.

"Your termination notice has already been placed on your desk. Just sign it, and the company will provide compensation."

Only then did the director realize that he had made the same mistake as the previous director.

Wan Miaoyín was now in the hospital room, her entire arm bruised and discolored.

The doctor was applying medicine to her, but Wan Miaoyín wasn't paying attention to her arm.

In her mind, all she could think about were the events she had experienced with Yin Lingzhu just moments ago.

Wan Miaoyín smiled bitterly. She knew that her decision was truly too wrong.

"All done."

The doctor finished applying the medicine and looked up at Wan Miaoyín.

But she noticed that Wan Miaoyín's facial expression was very strange—she seemed to be smiling, yet also seemed to be crying.

"Are you alright?"

The doctor asked tentatively.

Wan Miaoyín wiped away the barely visible tears from the corner of her eyes and smiled.

"I'm fine, you can go about your business."

All her emotions were completely hidden away.

Even if she regretted it, what could she do? There was no medicine for regret.
