

Chapter 97

Ming Qingyun raised her head, looking at Yan Si with confusion.

She didn't seem to understand the meaning behind Yan Si's words.

Yan Si looked down at Ming Qingyun from above, parting her lips lightly.

"Ming Qingyun, for your own sake, you can push the person you like toward death. What kind of person are you exactly?"

After hearing what Yan Si said, Ming Qingyun lowered her head and fell into deep thought.

Yan Si didn't pay attention to her and walked straight past her.

She didn't want to say much more to this kind of person.

Yan Si now also had to go find Yin Lingzhu.

At this moment, Yin Lingzhu was lying on the bed, her thoughts in chaos.

She tossed and turned on the bed, unable to feel the slightest bit sleepy.

The stars outside were still twinkling.

Yin Lingzhu stared blankly at the scenery outside.

But no matter how beautiful the scenery outside was, Yin Lingzhu had no mood to appreciate it.

Her mind was full of thoughts about Yan Si.

When she saw Yan Si lying on the bed, not knowing whether she was alive or dead, she felt an unprecedented panic in her heart.

If You Xiaoxiao hadn't followed along, she really didn't know what she would have done.

Yin Lingzhu closed her eyes, not daring to continue imagining.

She suddenly turned over and got up from the bed, continuing to send messages to Yang Daiyi.

[Sister Yang, I'll take that variety show.]

Yang Daiyi opened her phone, and after seeing these words, she hurriedly typed to persuade Yin Lingzhu.

[Xiao Yin, wait a few days. I'll look for better variety shows for you. This show won't benefit you at all.]

Yin Lingzhu couldn't wait a single minute at this moment.

The longer time dragged on, the more she would think about Yan Si.

She was afraid that she would truly lose control of her heart.

She had clearly already decided not to have any relationship with Yan Si anymore.

But now...

Yin Lingzhu gripped her phone tightly, her heart panicking.

She was afraid of softening her heart again.

She was afraid of giving away her true heart again, only to be hurt beyond recognition once more.

Yin Lingzhu closed her eyes, thinking about what had happened in the past.

The past could not be repeated.

Her gaze gradually became determined.

[Sister Yang, I want to start tomorrow.]

Yin Lingzhu typed rapidly on her phone screen, even making many typos because her hands were shaking.

[Any program is fine.]

Yang Daiyi could see Yin Lingzhu's urgency and immediately thought of a program.

She was just about to tell Yin Lingzhu when Yan Si pushed open the office door.

Yang Daiyi's hand that was tidying up immediately stopped. She didn't know what Yan Si was here for.

Yang Daiyi immediately stood up, her face showing respect and confusion.

"President Yan, are you here looking for Xiao Yin?"

Yan Si hummed in acknowledgment and scanned the room.

"Lingzhu isn't here?"

She looked at Yang Daiyi, frowning as she asked.

Yang Daiyi nodded and quietly moved away from her position by the door.

She didn't want to block Yan Si's exit route.

As an agent, she had her own networks and channels.

She secretly glanced at Yan Si with her eyes.

She also knew about the matter of Yan Si's hospital being bought by someone else.

Combined with Yan Si coming to look for someone, and the complete lack of any smile on her face...

Yang Daiyi was startled by her own thoughts.

Could this matter be related to Lingzhu?

"Do you know where Lingzhu is?"

Yan Si suddenly spoke, startling Yang Daiyi.

Her mind was racing, thinking about how to respond.

Seeing Yang Daiyi silent for so long, Yan Si felt somewhat displeased.

Yang Daiyi caught sight of her expression and suddenly realized she had kept Yan Si waiting for so long.

"President Yan, she didn't tell me."

Yang Daiyi lowered her head, not daring to look at Yan Si's face.

Yan Si didn't suspect her either and coldly hummed in acknowledgment.

After Yan Si left, Yang Daiyi patted her chest in relief.

She hadn't expected that she would actually lie to Yan Si.

Yang Daiyi opened her phone and began replying to Yin Lingzhu's messages.

[Xiao Yin, rest for a day first, I'll look for you.]

Yang Daiyi knew the address of the hotel where Yin Lingzhu was currently staying, but she didn't want to tell Yan Si.

After waiting for a long time, Yin Lingzhu finally received Yang Daiyi's message.

But looking at the words on the screen, her heart filled with despair.

She didn't want to wait another day. Her mind was very chaotic right now.

Yin Lingzhu threw her phone onto the bed and closed her eyes tightly.

Yin Lingzhu tried every method to divert her attention, but none of them worked.

She still unconsciously thought of Yan Si.

Her first meeting with Yan Si, every time Yan Si frowned, and Yan Si's rare smiles toward her.

Yin Lingzhu remembered all of these clearly, and they appeared before her eyes from time to time.

She let out a long sigh and left the hotel.

Going outside to clear her mind might be much better.

Yin Lingzhu thought.

But after leaving the hotel, she was at a loss again.

This city was so big, she didn't know where her destination was.

The people around her were busy and hurried, as if there was no place for her.

Someone hurriedly walked past Yin Lingzhu, bumping into her shoulder, saying "sorry" without even lifting their head, then hurriedly left again.

Yin Lingzhu looked at his anxious appearance and didn't make things difficult for him.

She sighed, found a bus stop, and sat there without getting on any bus.

She just watched people come and go.

Night gradually fell, and fewer people boarded the buses.

Yin Lingzhu also got up and returned to the hotel.

She had never felt this way before, as if only she remained in the entire world.

Yin Lingzhu stared blankly at her phone screen with vacant eyes, the screen black.