

Chapter 110 - Extra: Ten Thousand Collection Bonus

Three years after Feng Yue and Yan Lin remarried, CEO Yan's reputation for being henpecked¹ spread even wider than the Yan Group's fame itself.

Yan Lin felt sorry for what Feng Yue had endured in the past, so in their daily life, she basically spoiled her wife to the heavens. But love is mutual—from the moment Feng Yue decided to start over with Yan Lin, she had prepared to go all in.

Fortunately, neither disappointed the other. In Beijing's wealthy second-generation circles, everyone praised these two as a match made in heaven.

However, even celestial couples have their little spats.

Feng Yue curled up in the large, soft sofa in the study, holding her phone and chatting rapidly with someone, typing at lightning speed.

Feng Yue: [That's how it happened, so how should I apologize to her? TAT]

Zhou Qiongqiong: [From what you're saying, you just forgot—you didn't intentionally lie about not going for the check-up. Although she's angry, she hasn't lost her temper at you or given you the cold shoulder. She's just been much quieter these past few days, right?]

Feng Yue: [Mm... and a few nights ago when I got up to use the bathroom, I found her in the study in the middle of the night looking at my medical reports instead of sleeping...]

Zhou Qiongqiong: [Sigh, if you ask me, Yan Lin isn't angry at you at all—she's angry at herself. She feels like she didn't take good care of you and forgot to remind you to go for your check-up.]

Feng Yue frowned with guilt. [How can she blame herself? I was the one who insisted on going on the business trip with her. Before we left, she even asked if I'd been to the hospital, and I lied to her. I thought I wouldn't worry her, so I planned to go to the hospital right after we landed, but I had too much fun and forgot.]

Zhou Qiongqiong: [Sigh, well then, just sweet-talk her properly and buy her a little gift to make her happy.]

Feng Yue looked at Zhou Qiongqiong's message and thought it was feasible. [That's good, but what should I give her?]

This time Zhou Qiongqiong didn't type but sent a voice message instead. Feng Yue found it strange and clicked on the three-second audio clip.

"Hehe, the best gift is yourself, of course!" Zhou Qiongqiong's laughter was teasing, and the latter half of her sentence was spoken in a lowered, suggestive tone.

Feng Yue's cheeks flushed red, and she quickly shut off her phone and tossed it aside without another look. She rubbed her cheeks with both hands, but her mind couldn't help racing like a rocket.

Feng Yue wasn't someone with strong desires, but thinking carefully now, it seemed that ever since Yan Lin learned about this incident, they really hadn't been intimate. Although Yan Lin still kissed her cheek every morning and evening, those kisses mostly contained feelings of pity and love.

Feng Yue bit her lower lip lightly with her white teeth, spent a good while building up her courage, then picked up her phone again and opened the same-city express delivery app.

The next morning, Yan Lin got up at her usual time. After getting dressed and coming out of the walk-in closet, she looked at the small face peeking out from under the dark gray covers, her heart nearly overflowing with happiness. She knelt on one knee on the bed and gently planted a kiss on Feng Yue's forehead.

"Baby, I'm going to the office."

Feng Yue was sleeping drowsily. She half-opened her eyes to look at Yan Lin, stretched her hands out from under the covers to grab Yan Lin's sleeve, and said, "More." Then she tilted her head to expose her left cheek, her meaning crystal clear.

Yan Lin's lips curved slightly upward. Supporting Feng Yue's chin with one hand, she accurately captured those crimson lips.

After the kiss, Feng Yue was mostly awake, covering her mouth and grumbling softly, "Why did you do that? I haven't even brushed my teeth yet."

"Good girl." Yan Lin ruffled her hair. "If you're still sleepy, sleep a bit more. If not, go downstairs for breakfast—Auntie made your favorites today."

"Still want to sleep..."

Yan Lin brushed the hair from her cheek. "Alright, then I'll go to the office first."

"Mm, be careful on the road."

"Okay." After saying this, Yan Lin gave her another kiss on the lips before reluctantly stopping.

Feng Yue lay in bed with her eyes closed until she heard the front door open and close outside. Only then did she sit up abruptly, hurry to the window, and after seeing Yan Lin's car drive away, she pattered off to the guest bedroom to tinker with something unknown.

Around four in the afternoon, Mo Yixu, who was working, received an unexpected phone call and hung up with a strange expression.

A colleague from the secretary's office nearby asked curiously, "Assistant Mo, what's wrong?"

Mo Yixu composed his expression and said matter-of-factly, "Nothing, just a small problem with one of the departments below."

"Secretary Chen, you handle President Yan's meeting later—I have something to take care of." Before his colleague could ask anything, Mo Yixu stood up and left the office, heading straight for the elevator.

Secretary Chen watched him rush around and muttered, "What's so urgent?"

Standing in the CEO's private elevator, Mo Yixu recalled that phone call—it really was quite unbelievable.

If Madam wanted to come up, she should contact President Yan directly. Why would she call him instead?

It wasn't until five in the afternoon that Yan Lin finished her last meeting. Secretary Chen walked behind her, reporting on work, but his capabilities really weren't as good as Mo Yixu's, so Yan Lin had him give the materials to Mo Yixu to review first before bringing them to her.

Taking the elevator back to the executive floor, Yan Lin was surprised to find Mo Yixu waiting right at the elevator doors. Secretary Chen, thinking the two had work to discuss, tactfully returned to his own office first.

Yan Lin looked at Mo Yixu's hesitant expression. "What's wrong? Why do you look like that?"

"President Yan, Madam came by earlier and brought you a gift. Everything's in your office."

Upon hearing this, Yan Lin's expression softened. "Is she still in the office now?"

Mo Yixu's face looked somewhat strange. "Yes."

Yan Lin nodded. "Then tell everyone they can leave work early. I'll go check the office."

"Yes, President Yan."

Yan Lin walked straight to her office door. Upon pushing it open, she saw that all the window curtains were drawn tightly shut, and not a single light was on.

Yan Lin walked in, casually closing the door and turning on the side light switch. "A Yue?"

Apart from a large gift box about half a person's height with a bow tied around it by the sofa, there wasn't a soul in the office. Yan Lin thought Feng Yue might be sleeping in the rest room, so she headed there.

After looking around the rest room, there was still no one.

Yan Lin stood in place, her gaze uncontrollably falling on that half-person-tall gift box. Since she wasn't here or in the rest room, there was only one possibility left...

Yan Lin walked lightly toward the cardboard box. She had some ideas in her mind, but thinking of Feng Yue's easily embarrassed nature, she immediately dismissed this possibility.

Impossible—why would A Yue crawl into this gift box for no reason...

Yan Lin silently took out her phone to call her, but when her peripheral vision caught sight of that box again, she questioned herself: What if? What if A Yue really was inside?

Yan Lin's heart beat somewhat faster, and her throat felt dry and itchy. She reached up to undo two buttons at her collar before her breathing felt somewhat smoother.

Yan Lin took a deep breath, casually pushed her long hair scattered across her chest behind her, then gently knocked on the box and said softly, "A Yue, I'm going to open it."

Yan Lin waited a moment without getting a response, so she crouched down and almost reverently untied the blue ribbon bow on the box, then removed the top lid.

Once the lid was lifted, the four sides that had been held in place by the lid opened like flower petals and fell to the ground, revealing Feng Yue, who was kneeling in the center like a flower's pistil.

The moment Yan Lin saw Feng Yue, she almost gasped audibly. "A Yue... you..."

Feng Yue was looking up at Yan Lin with her head slightly tilted back. Her fair collarbones and slender, lotus-root-like arms looked even more elegant against the backdrop of her outfit. The nearly all-lace intimate garment outlined her figure beautifully, and the white fluffy tail at her lower back looked as if it had grown from her body, trembling slightly with her movements.

Seeing Yan Lin staring at her without speaking, Feng Yue shyly and nervously fidgeted with the bunny ear headband on her head. Her whole body was trembling, and her eyes were as red as could be, with a layer of mist when looked at closely.

"A Lin... I'm sorry, it was my fault before. I promise I'll go for check-ups on time from now on. Please don't be angry anymore, okay?" As she spoke, Feng Yue reached out both hands to tug at the hem of Yan Lin's shirt.

Yan Lin seemed not to have recovered from this shock yet. It wasn't until Feng Yue pulled at her clothes and shook her several times that she seemed to come back to her senses.

"Baby, I was never angry at you." Yan Lin said this in an almost hoarse voice, then, disregarding Feng Yue's opinion, wrapped one arm around Feng Yue's slender waist, lifted her into her arms, turned around, and placed her sitting on the office desk.

Feng Yue had been waiting for Yan Lin in the box for some time, so her legs were somewhat numb. When Yan Lin moved her, the tingling discomfort in her legs spread throughout her entire body. "Ah—"

Yan Lin placed her sitting on the office desk and looked at those feet wrapped in stockings. She sighed helplessly and began massaging her feet. After a while, she asked, "Does it still hurt?"

Feng Yue looked at her and obediently shook her head.

Only then did Yan Lin nod and stop what she was doing. She stepped back slightly and began to carefully examine Feng Yue's current attire.

Bunny girl costume, bunny ears, bunny tail, black stockings.

Her gaze was direct and unabashed. Feng Yue's face, which had stopped being red, now flushed bright red again under her stare. "Why... why do you keep looking at me?"

"Looking at how cute my wife is." After saying this, Yan Lin took a forceful step forward, spread Feng Yue's legs apart, wrapped her arms around her waist, lowered her head, and captured those crimson little lips.

This kiss was much more aggressive than the good morning kisses Feng Yue received daily. Yan Lin held her waist with one hand and firmly gripped the back of her head with the other, making escape impossible as she aggressively stole Feng Yue's breath away.

For a moment, the spacious office was filled only with the sticky sounds of their breathing.

It wasn't until Feng Yue really couldn't breathe anymore and began patting Yan Lin's shoulder that Yan Lin reluctantly released her grip on the back of her head.

Feng Yue collapsed weakly against Yan Lin's shoulder, greedily breathing in fresh air. Yan Lin's palm gently stroked her back, as if comforting or appeasing.

After their brief intimacy, Feng Yue remembered the purpose of today's performance. She buried her head in Yan Lin's neck, inhaling the familiar scent on her body, and asked in a muffled voice, "Are you really not angry at me?"

Yan Lin's hand stroking her back paused, then she pulled Feng Yue away from her embrace and looked seriously and solemnly into Feng Yue's eyes. "A Yue, I was never angry at you. I was just angrier at myself for not taking better care of you."

Feng Yue turned her head away, avoiding Yan Lin's gaze, and mumbled quietly, "Then why don't you ever... with me..."

Upon hearing this, Yan Lin was stunned, almost instinctively understanding Feng Yue's unfinished meaning.

Looking at Feng Yue's sexy and seductive outfit, she finally understood the true purpose behind her wearing these clothes.

Yan Lin chuckled lowly twice, leaning close to Feng Yue's ear and whispering softly, "I was originally feeling sorry that you worked so hard accompanying me on that business trip for nearly half a month. I didn't expect our A Yue to be so tireless."

"I... I'm not!" Feng Yue's face turned bright red.

Yan Lin acted as if she hadn't heard her and continued, "So shall we try it here today?" After speaking, she took Feng Yue's earlobe into her mouth and gently nibbled it between her lips and teeth.

"Ah... hu hu... that tickles, don't... don't bite..." The earlobe was one of Feng Yue's most sensitive spots. The moment Yan Lin used her mouth, she immediately melted like a puddle of water in her arms.

Yan Lin helped Feng Yue wrap her limp arms around her neck and her legs around her waist, then lifted her up with a surge of strength.

"Wait... wait... the box... there's still something in the box..." Feng Yue panted as she directed her to get something.

Yan Lin turned back to the box, where a black handbag was placed inside. She held Feng Yue with one arm and picked up the handbag with the other, then headed straight for the rest room.

Upon entering the rest room, Yan Lin placed her on the bed, dropped the handbag, and immediately pressed down on her.

...

...

...

The two tossed and turned in the rest room all evening until nine o'clock, when a fully dressed Yan Lin finally left the company carrying a princess-carried Feng Yue in her arms.

Yan Lin sat refreshed in the driver's seat, looking at Feng Yue in the passenger seat who had been nearly exhausted to the point of unconsciousness by her ministrations, and planted a comforting kiss on her forehead.

"Baby, let's continue when we get home, okay?"

Feng Yue, who had been lying with her eyes closed, tremblingly opened her eyes, and her swollen red lips clearly articulated one word:

"Scram!"

Footnotes:

¹ 妻管严 (qī guǎn yán) - A Chinese term meaning "henpecked" or "strictly controlled by one's wife," though here it's used more affectionately to describe someone who dotes on their spouse