

Chapter 13-1

After finishing their meal, Liang Shi sent Xu Qingya back to the hotel. Just as she was about to transfer money to her, she was stopped by Xu Qingzhu.

Xu Qingzhu transferred ten thousand yuan to Xu Qingya and instructed her not to spend it recklessly, and not to go out and mess around with that bunch of fair-weather friends.

Xu Qingya waved her hand at her, "Alright, alright, I know. You should go back quickly."

She also called out to Liang Shi, "Sister Liang Shi, manage your wife."

Liang Shi stood at the doorway, smiling helplessly with indulgence in her laugh, "How would I dare."

Xu Qingzhu cast her a light glance.

Those beautiful eyes naturally carried a touch of amorous charm, looking quite alluring, like a coquettish pout.

Liang Shi shrugged, her eyes innocent—just playing along with your act.

Xu Qingya rubbed her arms, "Hurry up and leave, I don't want to eat dog food¹."

Coming out of the hotel, Xu Qingzhu looked completely exhausted.

The air faintly carried the scent of strawberry Bailey's sweet wine.

If it were usual, Liang Shi's nose was particularly sensitive, but today she was somewhat tired. Since transmigrating, she had barely rested at all, and was only managing to hold up through sheer willpower.

Even so, she still caught that distinctive fragrance.

The more top-tier the Omega, the better they smelled.

Moreover, pheromones had compatibility levels. The greater the impact an Omega's pheromones had on an Alpha, the more compatible their pheromones were.

The suppressant's effectiveness must be wearing off, so the scent unique to Omegas was dispersing.

Liang Shi opened the car door for Xu Qingzhu. After she got in, Xu Qingzhu nodded slightly at her and quietly said thank you.

Much more polite than before.

Liang Shi got in the car and fastened her seatbelt, glancing at Xu Qingzhu, only to discover she hadn't fastened her seatbelt yet.

"Xu Qingzhu," Liang Shi called to her, "Seatbelt."

Xu Qingzhu frowned slightly, her straight, slender black hair falling to her shoulders, covering her beautiful shoulder blades and half her collarbone, cascading to her chest.

On the side facing Liang Shi, her bangs were meticulously tucked behind her ear, revealing her small ear and delicate jawline. However, her pale cheeks were covered with a layer of light red, as if she'd applied pink blush. Thin beads of sweat appeared on her nose tip, the small droplets so transparent they could refract the light inside the car. Her lips were very red, with a wet, tender pink sheen.

Like a flower bud about to bloom in spring.

Still bearing the morning dew.

Bright and alluring.

The visual impact was overwhelming in that instant.

It was hard to look away.

Liang Shi swallowed and turned her face away, pressing her hand to her heart and taking several deep breaths.

After several deep breaths, she finally managed to control her heartbeat.

Actually, it wasn't really liking.

This was probably just a face-obsessed person's appreciation for a beautiful woman and uncontrollable attraction.

Moreover, this body still retained some traces of liking Xu Qingzhu.

Liang Shi called out again: "Xu Qingzhu?"

Xu Qingzhu's face grew redder, and her pheromone scent spread throughout the car, becoming increasingly intense.

How was an Alpha supposed to handle this?

Liang Shi sighed. She picked up her water and took a sip, calming her mood.

She opened her side window halfway, hoping to use the early autumn breeze to clear her head a bit.

Xu Qingzhu only frowned and responded softly, but this response was too soft and seductive, making one's heart itch.

Liang Shi wanted to get her to the hospital quickly, so she had no choice but to lean over and help her fasten her seatbelt.

"Excuse me," Liang Shi said as she leaned over. The Alpha's pheromones intertwined with the Omega's pheromones in the air at that moment, like souls that had been lonely for ages meeting each other. The tantalizing fire quickly ignited, and the air seemed to crackle with sparks.

Liang Shi almost couldn't control herself and nearly pressed her whole body against her.

Her hand holding the seatbelt trembled, her fingers landing right on Xu Qingzhu's abdomen. Just a little higher, and it would be soft territory.

She immediately leaned back.

Her body felt like it had been set on fire.

The sensation was exactly the same as last night.

But now wasn't Alpha susceptible period², so it wasn't as severe as last night's situation. She could still hold on.

Like she was fleeing from disaster, she hurriedly fastened Xu Qingzhu's seatbelt. But just as she clicked the buckle in place, Xu Qingzhu's cool fingers brushed against the spot behind her left ear, where there was a small protrusion—her gland, the most sensitive place when bonding with an Omega.

Her fingertips were very soft, just lightly caressing Liang Shi's gland.

Liang Shi felt all her strength drain away.

Liang Shi: "..."

"Hos...pital," Xu Qingzhu said haltingly, her fingers suddenly curling, but her nails scraped across Liang Shi's gland.

A sharp pain.

Liang Shi even suspected she did it on purpose.

But she finally escaped, her back covered in sweat.

If this happened a few more times, she'd probably lose her life.

Who could withstand "Haizhou's Number One Omega³" being this seductive?

Liang Shi was afraid Xu Qingzhu's pheromone scent would drift out, so she closed the window and turned on the car's air conditioning.

Xu Qingzhu, wearing a dress, shivered and hugged her arms in the corner from the cold. Liang Shi draped her own jacket over her.

It was a difficult journey back to the hospital.

Seeing that Xu Qingzhu was already in a semi-unconscious state with a tear of physiological response still hanging at the corner of her eye, she simply didn't call out to her and directly carried her into the hospital.

Footnotes:

¹ Dog food (狗粮): Chinese internet slang for public displays of affection between couples. The phrase implies that single people are being "fed dog food" when they witness couples being sweet to each other.

² Alpha susceptible period (易感期): In ABO dynamics, this refers to a period when Alphas are more sensitive to Omega pheromones and more likely to be affected by them. It's the Alpha equivalent of an Omega's heat period.

³ Haizhou's Number One Omega: A reference to Xu Qingzhu's reputation as the most beautiful/desirable Omega in Haizhou city, as established in the story's background.

Chapter 13-2

Zhao Xuning didn't have a night shift today, but she was worried about Xu Qingzhu leaving the hospital, so she simply switched shifts with a colleague.

By ten o'clock, Xu Qingzhu still hadn't returned. She was about to call Xu Qingzhu when she took out her phone and saw Liang Shi carrying Xu Qingzhu in.

The situation didn't look good.

"What happened?" Zhao Xuning asked, "Didn't she get a suppressant injection?"

"The medication wore off," Liang Shi answered concisely.

At this moment, Omega pheromones were dispersing throughout the hospital lobby, and quite a few Alphas caught the scent.

The smell was so sweet that it caused a severely ill Alpha to faint, creating brief chaos.

Back in the hospital room, Zhao Xuning gave Xu Qingzhu another suppressant injection and put her on an IV drip. After that, Xu Qingzhu fell into a deep sleep.

Liang Shi stayed in her room for a while before leaving.

It was too late, and Liang Shi was too lazy to return to the villa, so she simply went back to the upstairs hospital room. Looking at the time, it was already eleven o'clock.

She lay on the bed, her mind rapidly flashing through this long day.

Too many people had appeared, and too many things had happened.

All the people and events had disrupted her original life rhythm, leaving her somewhat at a loss.

Just as she was thinking about whether to use amnesia as an excuse in the future or use "turning over a new leaf and becoming a new person" as an excuse, her phone's urgent ringtone sounded again.

It startled her.

She'd change that ringtone in a moment.

Liang Shi glanced at the contact name—it was Mrs. Liang.

That is, the original body's current mother.

Liang Shi pressed her temples and took a deep breath, trying to dispel her fatigue in this way. She answered the phone in the last second before the ringing ended, "Hello?"

"Darling¹, are you asleep yet?" Qiu Zimin asked kindly.

"Not yet," Liang Shi replied, "I was just about to sleep."

"Good that I didn't disturb you." Qiu Zimin smiled, "Mom is calling to tell you that I've already arranged things with Mrs. Zhou. You and An'an² will meet the day after tomorrow at Cangyue Restaurant for dinner. If things go well, you two can continue getting to know each other."

Liang Shi: "...?"

Why did this sound so much like a blind date?

If the original body were single, she could understand, but the problem was that the original body was married!

"An'an said she doesn't mind your past romantic history," Qiu Zimin said, "As long as you clean things up before you two get married."

Liang Shi: "?"

"Mom, you must be mistaken," Liang Shi said helplessly, "I'm already married."

"What am I mistaken about?" Qiu Zimin sounded somewhat angry, "Being married doesn't mean you can't get divorced. Besides, weren't you the one who asked me to arrange this meeting? You said you didn't like your current one anymore and wanted to change to someone new."

Liang Shi: "..."

God, please save her.

¹ Darling (囡囡): A term of endearment used by parents for their daughters in Chinese, similar to "sweetheart" or "baby girl."

² An'an: A nickname for Zhou Yi'an, the person Qiu Zimin wants to set Liang Shi up with. Using nicknames in this context suggests familiarity and informality between the families.
