

Chapter 13: Ring

Because she went to bed quite late last night, Feng Yue canceled her morning exercise today, so it was almost ten o'clock when she came downstairs.

While Yan Lin should have gone to the company early, she was sitting at the dining table drinking coffee and looking at her tablet.

Yan Lin seemed to sense Feng Yue's gaze. After looking up and seeing her, she reached out to remove the plain gold-rimmed glasses from her nose and greeted Feng Yue as usual.

"Morning."

"Morning." Feng Yue changed from her usual casual manner, appearing somewhat awkward under Yan Lin's gaze. After taking her seat at the dining table, Aunt Liu brought out her breakfast.

"Mrs. Yan slept in a bit today. Didn't you rest well yesterday?" Aunt Liu asked with some concern.

Ever since seeing Feng Yue taking so many medications, Aunt Liu had begun paying attention to her physical condition.

"Mm, it was okay. I went to bed a bit late last night, so I got up late." Feng Yue replied casually, then frowned when she saw the hot milk that was brought to her. "Aunt Liu, is there no coffee today?"

"Ah, this is..."

"I had Aunt Liu switch it for you." Yan Lin looked up at her, her tone still without a trace of emotion. "You're not suitable for coffee anymore."

Feng Yue was stunned, then smiled slightly without saying anything, just politely saying thank you.

However, that glass of hot milk was never finished - Feng Yue only took one sip and didn't touch it again.

Feng Yue got up to eat fruit in the living room, and only then did Yan Lin shift her gaze from the tablet to the glass of milk that had only decreased by one sip.

"Miss, this..."

"Take it away." Yan Lin rubbed her temples wearily and instructed, "From now on, prepare a glass of milk for her morning and evening, and don't let her have coffee."

Aunt Liu nodded in agreement and went back to tidy the kitchen.

Feng Yue was puzzled by Yan Lin's series of behaviors. Having been able to say such cruel and heartless words to her, what was the point of doing these things now?

While eating fruit, Feng Yue pondered Yan Lin's motives for these actions. She only reacted when Yan Lin sat down beside her.

At home, Yan Lin's usual distance that kept people at arm's length would fade somewhat. Combined with the beige loungewear she was wearing and her hair casually pinned up in a bun, she looked no different from a recent university graduate.

Feng Yue was startled by her sudden sitting down and blinked, asking, "Don't you have to go to the company today?"

"In the afternoon."

"Oh." After speaking, Feng Yue turned back to reach for the fruit on the table.

Yan Lin frowned - she actually felt somewhat at a loss in front of Feng Yue.

This shouldn't be the case. Her relationship with Feng Yue shouldn't be like this.

Feng Yue would care about her, would chatter endlessly about all sorts of strange topics in front of her.

Looking at each other in silence.

Yan Lin never thought this phrase would one day be used to describe herself and Feng Yue.

Yan Lin squeezed the glasses in her hand and asked somewhat awkwardly, "The class reunion on Friday, will you go?"

Feng Yue was somewhat surprised that Yan Lin would ask her about this, but she still nodded, "I'll go."

Yan Lin got her answer and nodded as well, not knowing what else to say. She could only sit quietly beside Feng Yue.

Time passed quickly, and soon it was the day of the class reunion. JT Club was quite far from their area, so Feng Yue had to leave early.

She had arranged with the driver for six o'clock in the evening, but what Feng Yue didn't expect was that around five-thirty, the busy Yan Lin also came home from work early.

Feng Yue was clearly surprised by Yan Lin's arrival home at this time, but before she could ask anything, Yan Lin said, "I'll go with you."

Hearing this, Feng Yue frowned almost imperceptibly. To be honest, she didn't really want to go to the class reunion with Yan Lin.

When they got married initially, they didn't have a wedding ceremony - they just got the certificate and had a meal with both families.

So almost no one knew they were married, though people outside knew that the head of Yan Group had married young, but no one knew who the partner specifically was.

But if Yan Lin and Feng Yue went to the class reunion together today, their relationship would inevitably be revealed.

Yan Lin didn't seem to plan on going upstairs to change clothes, just sitting on the living room sofa, watching Feng Yue run up and down like a little bird gathering her things.

"Alright, let's go." Feng Yue couldn't figure out Yan Lin's thoughts, so she simply stopped trying. After all, they would be divorced soon, so it didn't matter if the news got out.

After speaking, Feng Yue headed outside first, but at this moment, Yan Lin, who had been sitting silently on the sofa, suddenly grabbed Feng Yue's wrist.

Both had very fair skin, but at this moment Feng Yue looked more pale - her wrist had a red mark from Yan Lin's grip.

Feng Yue couldn't break free from her grasp and frowned in displeasure, "What's wrong?"

"Ring." Yan Lin's burning gaze looked at Feng Yue's five bare fingers, her heart uncontrollably panicking.

She had noticed it the day she returned - Feng Yue, who always wore her ring, was no longer wearing it.

For those few days, Yan Lin could still make excuses for Feng Yue - she wasn't going out so she didn't want to wear it at home. But today she was going out, and still Feng Yue didn't put on the ring.

Yan Lin's heart was in chaos, but she didn't know how to ease this panicked feeling.

Feng Yue followed Yan Lin's gaze to her own hand and remembered that she had taken off the ring after waking up.

"I put the ring away."

"Put it on."

Feng Yue frowned, clearly unwilling, "I'm not—"

"Put it on!" As she spoke, Yan Lin looked up at Feng Yue.

Feng Yue looked down at Yan Lin sitting on the sofa, but at this moment she felt as if she were the prey being watched by a fierce beast.

Feng Yue pressed her lips together - this was the first time she had seen Yan Lin have such intense emotional fluctuations. Time was running short, and she couldn't waste time arguing with Yan Lin here.

Having no choice, Feng Yue nodded and turned to go upstairs to find the ring and put it on.

However, until both of them got in the car, they didn't say another word.

Yan Lin was surrounded by a low pressure, and Feng Yue wasn't much better.

The driver didn't know what was wrong with them and could only focus seriously on driving while keeping his eyes on the road.

"Sorry." An apology rang out in the car.

In just one week, Feng Yue had heard Yan Lin apologize twice - saying she wasn't shocked would be a lie. She rubbed her temples with some frustration, not really wanting to deal with Yan Lin.

Yan Lin didn't get a response from Feng Yue and thought she hadn't heard, so she raised her voice slightly, "About what just happened, sorry."

Feng Yue knew that if she didn't respond, Yan Lin might say it again, "Mm."

Hearing the response, Yan Lin nodded with satisfaction and then closed her eyes to rest.

Feng Yue: ?

Feng Yue was quite speechless about some of Yan Lin's behaviors, but she still had things she hadn't figured out, so she could only compromise and ask, "Yan Lin, you know what it means for us to attend the class reunion wearing matching rings, right?"

Yan Lin opened her eyes and tilted her head slightly to look at Feng Yue, "I know."

Feng Yue tilted her head, indicating for her to continue.

"I don't care if outsiders know." Yan Lin thought Feng Yue was worried and clumsily tried to comfort her, "It's fine."

"Alright."

Soon the car stopped at the entrance of JT Club. It was about five minutes before seven o'clock, and Feng Yue didn't want to be late, so she walked quite quickly. Yan Lin followed beside her the whole time.

Perhaps she was walking too hastily - when going up the steps, she accidentally tripped and was about to fall flat on her face. Fortunately, a pair of hands reached out in time to catch her waist.

"Careful."

Then Feng Yue smelled the familiar scent of perfume from Yan Lin. They used the same bottle of perfume.

With Yan Lin's support, Feng Yue steadied herself. She had planned to step away and continue walking forward after steadying herself, but Yan Lin took the opportunity to hold her hand and walked forward first, "Let's go, we're almost late."

Feng Yue knew this wasn't the time to be petty, so she gritted her teeth and let Yan Lin hold her hand.

The two hurried and finally pushed open the private room door just as the seven o'clock bell chimed.

Less than twenty people came to this class reunion, and the most anticipated were Yan Lin and Feng Yue.

When Zhou Qiongqiong was counting these two names, she was momentarily dazed.

Although the two weren't late, they still became the focus of everyone's attention. Zhou Qiongqiong noticed the embarrassment on Feng Yue's face and quickly came forward to welcome them in.

"Feng Yue and Yan Lin are here! Come sit, come sit." As soon as Zhou Qiongqiong spoke, everyone snapped back to attention.

Although everyone wasn't very familiar with Yan Lin in high school, they had at least copied homework from each other for three years, so seeing each other now wasn't completely awkward.

With Zhou Qiongqiong and several classmates livening up the atmosphere, the private room began to warm up again, and everyone stopped staring at the two.

But what surprised Feng Yue was that she thought Yan Lin would be very uncomfortable in such a setting, but currently Yan Lin didn't seem to have much discomfort, and even had several classmates actively coming to chat with her.

Yan Lin had lost that harsh, decisive stiffness, and though she was still quiet, she released a hint of goodwill to the outside world.

Feng Yue had seen Yan Lin in business social settings before, but the current Yan Lin made her feel somewhat unfamiliar.

While feeling unfamiliar, a trace of desolation also arose in her heart.

How ridiculous - Yan Lin could release some goodwill toward outsiders, but toward herself, she wouldn't even bother to appease her.

Feng Yue tilted her head back and drank all the beverage in her glass.

The pre-meal socializing quickly came to an end, everyone took their seats, and the servers began bringing out the dishes.

Feng Yue sat next to Zhou Qiongqiong, with Yan Lin naturally sitting on her other side. After a few rounds of drinks and several dishes, someone sharp-eyed noticed the matching rings on Yan Lin and Feng Yue's hands.

A girl in a light blue dress curiously asked, "Feng Yue, are you and Yan Lin wearing matching rings?"

Feng Yue was stunned and instinctively looked at Yan Lin beside her. She saw Yan Lin put down her chopsticks, wiped her mouth, and said:

"These are mine and Feng Yue's wedding rings."
