

Chapter 100 - Arrangements

Since ancient times, the saying that "rivals in love see each other with particular hostility" has applied to most people.

Yan Lin used to think this way too. She had always regarded this friend beside Feng Yue as her number one enemy.

But ever since she and Feng Yue had traveled abroad together once, she felt it wasn't necessary anymore.

Given Feng Yue's personality, if she liked Wen Zhen, she would have been with her long ago, and it wouldn't have been any of her business.

But things weren't like that, and even Wen Zhen herself knew clearly that she and Yan Lin were different.

Otherwise, when Wen Zhen got that bucket list, she wouldn't have come to find her, but would have directly chased after Feng Yue herself.

So, as things stood now, Wen Zhen's appearance couldn't really affect Yan Lin. It was just that when watching them chat happily, she felt a tiny bit jealous.

Actually, after Yan Lin took that bucket list and went to Vancouver, she and Wen Zhen hadn't been completely out of contact. At least she had reported Feng Yue's safety to Wen Zhen, though she hadn't explained the specific details so clearly.

So now the two of them didn't glare at each other upon sight like before, but very maturely nodded slightly at each other, which counted as greeting.

Feng Yue wasn't surprised by their attitude, since she knew about Wen Zhen discovering that bucket list. But Zhou Qiong Qiong didn't think so.

Zhou Qiong Qiong had been too focused on her own broken romance recently and hadn't paid much attention to her senior sister and Feng Yue's affairs. She had only learned about Feng Yue going abroad from seeing her social media posts.

What shocked her most was that even Yan Lin had gone along, but her senior sister hadn't.

So today when Wen Zhen took the initiative to contact her and ask her to come pick up Feng Yue at the airport together, she agreed without hesitation.

She wanted to see what methods Yan Lin had used to bewitch Feng Yue.

After everyone gathered, they all walked toward the airport exit together. Wen Zhen had already reserved a table at a restaurant to give the Feng family of three a welcome dinner. Out of politeness, she also casually invited Yan Lin.

Yan Lin wasn't polite at all and immediately nodded in agreement.

Wen Zhen's expression was somewhat unnatural, but she didn't say much. However, Zhou Qiong Qiong beside her was so angry she was fuming<sup>1</sup>.

But the two elders didn't have much interest in participating in the kids' activities, so they politely declined.

Outside the airport, Jiang Yu and Feng He Hai got into their own family driver's car, taking the two kids' luggage with them.

The four of Wen Zhen got into Wen Zhen's car, preparing to go directly to the restaurant.

When getting in the car, Zhou Qiong Qiong deliberately tried to get Feng Yue to sit in the passenger seat, but Yan Lin wouldn't let her succeed easily.

Wen Zhen's car was a particularly spacious SUV with a rather high threshold. Before Zhou Qiong Qiong could speak, Yan Lin proactively supported Feng Yue's arm to help her into the car, murmuring, "Be careful, the car is quite high."

Zhou Qiong Qiong's mouth was already open, but she didn't get a chance to say a word.

After getting in the car, Yan Lin even took off her trench coat and leaned close to Feng Yue's cheek to say, "If you're tired, sleep for a while."

Feng Yue wasn't fully awake when she got off the plane, and now that she was back home, her heart felt much more at ease. She nodded and leaned back in her seat, closing her eyes with Yan Lin's coat covering her.

Zhou Qiong Qiong saw this scene through the rearview mirror and suddenly remembered something.

She and Feng Yue and Yan Lin had been classmates for several years, but there was one thing she remembered particularly clearly.

Back in middle school, Zhou Qiong Qiong was in the same class as Feng Yue, while Yan Lin was in the neighboring class. The two had become famous throughout the school because of a collaborative performance, which led to many students from other classes coming to find them during their free time.

Unable to bear the disturbance, the two would run to the rooftop during lunch time to hide and get some peace. And as the one who had actively promoted this performance, Zhou Qiong Qiong also became the target of everyone's teasing.

Zhou Qiong Qiong still remembered that day had very good weather - the sky was azure blue and cloudless. She had been so annoyed by what those boys said that she threw down her textbook and angrily ran up to the rooftop.

But when she pushed open the door to the rooftop, she saw the two culprits who had caused her to be teased. She was furious and was about to deliberately make some noise to vent when she felt a gaze fall on her.

Zhou Qiong Qiong found that feeling very hard to describe - it was like the bone-chilling cold feeling of being targeted by a cold-blooded animal.

Then she looked up and saw Yan Lin with an indifferent expression looking at her, while beside Yan Lin was Feng Yue sleeping soundly, covered with a clean and tidy school uniform jacket.

Zhou Qiong Qiong couldn't remember clearly what happened after that, but even after all these years, she still remembered Yan Lin's gaze at that time.

Just like now.

Her expression was calm, with no emotion in her eyes.

But you could still feel an overwhelming sense of oppression coming from within them.

Zhou Qiong Qiong withdrew her gaze from the rearview mirror and lowered her head, silently sighing in her heart.

Looking back now, wasn't that the gaze of a wild animal marking its territory? Young Yan Lin might not have done it consciously at the time, but the scary thing was that even at such a young age, she had already unconsciously included Feng Yue in her territory.

The four arrived at the restaurant and went straight to a private room. The restaurant was one that Feng Yue used to really like. Coming back after several months, she felt some different emotions rising in her heart.

The restaurant had been reserved in advance, and even the dishes were customized by Wen Zhen according to Feng Yue's taste, so not long after they sat down, servers came in one after another carrying dishes.

Although Yan Lin and Wen Zhen still felt somewhat displeased with each other, the atmosphere at the dinner table today was fairly harmonious.

During the meal, Zhou Qiong Qiong got up to use the restroom, leaving only the three people in the know in the private room.

Although Wen Zhen had long ago received answers about that bucket list from Yan Lin, she was still very worried. So taking advantage of Zhou Qiong Qiong's absence, she proactively brought up this matter.

"Ah Yue, I've always had something I wanted to ask you." Wen Zhen chose her words carefully, thinking about how to begin.

Seeing her troubled expression, Feng Yue had a vague premonition in her heart. "Sister Wen Zhen, please ask."

Wen Zhen looked at Yan Lin, her expression somewhat serious. "Miss Yan should have shown it to you, right? That bucket list I accidentally saw at your house."

Yan Lin's expression didn't change, still drinking tea with a blank face.

Feng Yue put on an expression of surprise, then smiled normally. "Oh, you mean that list. That's nothing. I just wanted to write down things I wanted to do in this lifetime and make a list."

"I didn't expect you to see it and worry about it. When Yan Lin showed it to me, I explained it to her. I didn't expect Sister Wen Zhen was still thinking about this."

"Is that really all it is?"

"Of course it is."

Hearing her say this, Wen Zhen felt she might have been making a big deal out of nothing.

"Alright, if there's nothing wrong, that's good." But while she felt relieved, she still felt something was off somewhere.

Afraid that she was worried, Feng Yue smiled and said, "I'm really fine. Besides, my health is better than before now, and my condition is gradually recovering. That title on the bucket list was just a name I made up for fun."

Feng Yue said many more things to comfort Wen Zhen, while Yan Lin didn't say a word during this time.

Her left hand was under the table, tightly gripping her pants with great force, even her knuckles were somewhat pale.

Only she knew how tormented Ah Yue's heart was when she said these words to comfort others.

In the whole world, except for her, Yan Lin, no one else could see Feng Yue's suffering.

Knowing her death date in advance, living each day only to get closer to that date, yet Feng Yue still smiled to comfort others.

Yan Lin felt this world was truly unfair.

In the end, Feng Yue naturally dispelled Wen Zhen's anxiety and worry, so when Wen Zhen said goodbye to Feng Yue, she even made plans with her to watch Zhou Qiong Qiong's final performance<sup>2</sup> together next month.

Wen Zhen drove them to the entrance of Feng Yue's house. Just as Wen Zhen and Zhou Qiong Qiong were about to leave, Feng Yue suddenly stepped forward and hugged each of them.

"Drive safely, goodbye."

The two had no suspicion and cheerfully said goodbye to Feng Yue. "Ah Yue, goodbye."

Only after watching Wen Zhen's car drive away did Feng Yue finally let go of the smile she had been maintaining.

Yan Lin stood beside her and silently embraced her, offering wordless comfort.

The two stood quietly at the entrance like this until Feng Yue adjusted her emotions, and only then did they go inside.

Yan Lin didn't stay overnight. After taking her luggage, she contacted Mo Yi Xu to come pick her up.

Yan Lin leaned back in the rear seat with her eyes closed, resting. Mo Yi Xu quietly glanced at her through the mirror, feeling somewhat puzzled.

What was wrong with their boss? She had clearly gone out to have fun with the missus, so why did her mood seem worse than before? Could it be that she couldn't bear to be separated from the missus?

Mo Yi Xu thought about it and confirmed this possibility. Maybe since they had just reconciled with the missus, she couldn't bear to be apart.

Mo Yi Xu nodded silently, then pushed the stack of documents and materials requiring Yan Lin's attention deeper into his bag.

Since that was the case, he'd better not touch the boss's sore spot.

But Yan Lin only rested with her eyes closed for a while, then opened them and said, "Let me see all the files that have been piling up unprocessed during this time."

"Uh, President Yan, don't you want to rest a bit since you just got back?" Mo Yi Xu was confused. Had he guessed wrong?

Yan Lin rubbed her temples, trying to dispel her fatigue, and said lightly, "No need. Go directly to the company. Work overtime tonight - I'll double your bonus."

Mo Yi Xu had been looking gloomy about working overtime, but when he heard his bonus would be doubled, he immediately cheered up.

"Yes, President Yan!"

Yan Lin smiled slightly and turned to look at the street with its flashing lights.

She had quite a few capable people under her, but not many to whom she could entrust company affairs. Apart from the usually unreliable Mo Yi Xu, there was only the iron-fisted Chang Ya.

Since she had already decided to advance and retreat together with Feng Yue, she needed to arrange and hand over all these matters in advance.

---

Footnotes:

<sup>1</sup> "Fuming" (吹胡子瞪眼) - A Chinese idiom literally meaning "blowing beard and glaring eyes," describing someone who is extremely angry or indignant.

<sup>2</sup> "Final performance" (封箱表演) - In Chinese traditional performing arts, this refers to the last performance before a break or retirement, literally meaning "sealing the box" where costumes and props are stored.