

Chapter 60 - Tracking

Qian He's disappearance ruined their entire group's plans. Since tonight's gathering was organized by Qian He, everyone naturally lost their mood when something happened to her.

Qian He had good relationships with people, so her wealthy second-generation friends all gathered together at this time, wanting to help.

However, Xu Yan eventually spoke up and persuaded them all to go home. She knew they genuinely cared about Qian He, but too many people would create chaos and make things worse.

Since the person was knocked unconscious and taken from Sen'er Hotel's underground parking garage, the hotel bore significant responsibility. Moreover, the missing person was Qian Yaozhu's daughter, and even Yan Lin had stepped forward to handle this matter, making the hotel's assigned manager even more anxious.

The Qian family's bodyguards were tracking the locator on Qian He, the police had deployed forces to check surveillance along the route, and Yan Lin's side was investigating the identities of those three men.

Everything proceeded in an orderly manner. Feng Yue, Xu Yan, and the others could only sit in the hotel's prepared lounge waiting for news.

Tracking wasn't difficult, so it wasn't long before the Qian family's people obtained Qian He's exact location.

"Boss, the young lady's position keeps changing. It looks like she's still in a vehicle. We're not sure of their destination yet," said the bodyguard responsible for tracking.

"Officer, let's dispatch to intercept them. We'll cooperate with police operations," said the man he called boss. This was the captain of the Qian family's security team - a buzz-cut man who looked fierce but reliable.

The police immediately agreed and dispatched officers to pursue.

The captain glanced at the continuously moving red dot on the map, then took out his phone to make a call. "Hello, dispatch a squad to intercept now, cooperating with police operations. Remember, no matter what happens, the young lady's safety must be ensured."

They were private bodyguards, and their first rule of conduct was "ensure employer's personal safety" - everything else was less important.

Xu Yan and Zhiyu also wanted to follow, but the Qian family's bodyguards stopped them, saying the situation there was unclear and bringing them would be inconvenient.

Seeing the two with dejected faces and worried expressions, and remembering that Qian He had been mistakenly kidnapped because of her, Feng Yue wanted to argue with the captain.

The captain didn't dare place these young ladies in an unclear situation, so he still refused their request.

Seeing Feng Yue lower her head with a guilty expression, Yan Lin helplessly stepped forward to negotiate with the captain. "I'll take them along, just following behind you. I'll send people to protect them - you don't need to worry about anything else."

The captain had served Beijing's wealthy elite for years, so Yan Lin's face was naturally familiar to him. Since she said they didn't need to worry, then they definitely wouldn't need to worry.

After considering for a few seconds, the captain nodded in agreement.

Yan Lin slightly nodded her thanks, then took her car keys and said to the three anxious and worried people nearby, "Let's go, my car is outside."

Xu Yan and Zhiyu knew they were benefiting from Feng Yue's connection, so after thanking Yan Lin, they hurried outside.

Yan Lin and Feng Yue fell a step behind the other two. Yan Lin held her car keys in one hand and the gift she'd brought for Feng Yue in the other, while Feng Yue bit her lower lip lightly, her brows slightly furrowed, looking conflicted and helpless.

"Yan Lin," just as she was about to open the car door, Feng Yue called out to her. "Thank you for tonight."

Yan Lin stood beside her without speaking, just reaching out to open the passenger door for Feng Yue. "Thank me after your friend is rescued. Get in the car for now."

Feng Yue silently got into the passenger seat.

After all four were in the car, Yan Lin started the engine and followed behind the Qian family bodyguards' car.

The car was very quiet, the atmosphere even somewhat oppressive, with Yan Lin driving without looking sideways.

After they left the bustling city area, Yan Lin spoke to Feng Yue. "Use my phone to call Assistant Mo."

Yan Lin's phone was in the storage compartment beside the handbrake. Feng Yue was silent for a moment before picking up the phone, unlocking it, and calling Mo Yixu.

Yan Lin's phone was the same as before, with Feng Yue's Face ID stored in it.

Seeing she had made the call, Yan Lin put on her Bluetooth earpiece. Soon Mo Yixu answered.

"Boss Yan."

"Assistant Mo, I'm currently heading to Huize District. Send some people to follow."

"Understood, I'll contact Xu Tian immediately."

Xu Tian was the captain in charge of all the Yan family's security, with responsibilities similar to the Qian family's captain.

Seeing she had finished talking and removed her earpiece, Feng Yue reached out to hang up the phone and put it back in place.

Xu Yan and Zhiyu in the back seat looked confused. The two exchanged glances, both seeing bewilderment in each other's faces.

If they remembered correctly, Feng Yue and Yan Lin should be divorced, right? How come their behavior didn't seem like it at all?

Although they were confused, they didn't show it in front of Feng Yue and Yan Lin. Right now they were most worried about Qian He's safety.

Meanwhile, Qian He, who was on everyone's minds, was currently in the car facing four "kidnappers" with an angry expression.

"Hey! You absolutely cannot dump me in this wilderness!" Hearing these people wanted to dump her alone in the suburbs, Qian He immediately sat up from the back seat.

These four men drove a shabby-looking van that reeked of secondhand smoke mixed with gasoline.

Seeing Qian He suddenly sit up from the back seat startled all four, and even the driver was so frightened he slammed on the brakes, giving everyone a sudden stop.

The sudden braking's inertia made everyone lurch forward, and Qian He accidentally hit her forehead on the seat back in front of her.

"Damn it, can't you drive properly!" The fierce-looking man turned around and slapped the driver on the head.

"Yes, yes boss, I'll drive properly now," the driver replied while covering his head, then restarted the car.

The man turned to look at Qian He, frowning with a conflicted expression. The blonde beside him moved closer to the man. "Boss, what do we do now that she's suddenly awake? We can't actually do anything illegal, or should we just dump her here?"

"Right boss, going to jail for that little money isn't worth it!"

Although the man loved money, he really didn't want to go to jail for Wang Huili's small payment. Moreover, he knew Qian He and naturally knew this Miss Qian was Qian Yaozhu's precious daughter. If they really harmed her, that old fox Qian Yaozhu wouldn't let it slide.

Besides, now that Qian He was awake and had seen what they looked like, if they really did something to this young lady, they could only suffer the consequences.

So he looked at Qian He and forced a smile. "Miss Qian, we'll send you back to the hotel now. Please be magnanimous and let us live?"

Qian He narrowed her eyes looking at this man. While pretending to be unconscious, she had heard what they were saying. These people had probably grabbed the wrong person, and she could roughly guess who they should have grabbed.

Moreover, judging from his tone, they really hadn't planned to harm her from the beginning, which was why Qian He dared to sit up halfway through, fearing these people would dump her in some remote suburb.

"I can let you live," Qian He nodded in agreement.

The man looked pleased and immediately signaled the driver to turn around. "Miss Qian, I know you never lie. Since you've said so, we brothers will trust you this once."

Qian He nodded, then said, "I want to ask you a question."

The man said, "Please ask."

"Why did you want to kidnap Feng Yue? Who told you to kidnap her?"

The man's face changed, then he played dumb. "What Feng Yue? I don't understand what Miss Qian is saying."

Qian He straightened her coat. "Come on, I just heard you saying you grabbed the wrong person. I was knocked unconscious next to Feng Yue's car. If it wasn't me you were supposed to grab, it could only be Feng Yue."

"You don't look like professional kidnappers either. If it's not purely for money, then someone's pulling the strings. Tell me, who sent you?"

The man looked guarded, while his two subordinates' expressions had already told Qian He the answer after her analysis.

"Don't worry, I'll hold the right person responsible. I won't cause trouble for you. Feng Yue is my friend - I just want to know who wants to harm her."

The man fell silent. He knew that when Qian He said she wouldn't cause them trouble, she definitely wouldn't. This was the first time he had messed up a job Wang Huili had given him, and he wasn't sure if that woman would deal with him.

Seeing his conflicted expression, Qian He dropped her final bombshell. "You know Yan Lin, right? The current head of Yan Group, the Yan family's only heir. Her relationship with Feng Yue is quite special. Since the person behind you wants to target Feng Yue, they should have told you about their relationship, right?"

Wang Huili had naturally told him about the relationship between Feng Yue and Yan Lin. The man said warily, "Didn't they already divorce? They have no relationship anymore."

Bingo! Qian He thought to herself.

"Is that what the person behind you told you?" Qian He smiled. "Then her information is quite outdated. These two have indeed divorced, but Yan Lin has been pursuing Feng Yue again recently. Even if you don't tell me who sent you now, I believe with Yan Lin's methods, she'll quickly find out who it is."

"So you should understand the difference between voluntary confession and being found out, right?"

The man fell silent again, but his two subordinates had already been convinced. They had long been involved with these wealthy second-generation circles, handling their dirty business, so they naturally knew something about the Yan family.

If there was one family in Beijing they absolutely dared not touch, it would be the Yan family. Although the Yan family seemed more law-abiding in recent years, they had originally built their fortune in Beijing through gray-area industries.

It was only when they reached Yan Lin's grandfather's generation that they gradually went legitimate, pulling the Yan family out of those gray areas.

So while the Yan family's influence was much less than before, dealing with them would still be easy. No one could protect them from the Yan family, not even Wang Huili.

When he first learned that the person they were supposed to kidnap was related to Yan Lin, he had refused Wang Huili. But she had sworn to him that Yan Lin and Feng Yue were divorced and had absolutely no relationship, which was why he dared take on this job.

Since Wang Huili had deceived him first, he couldn't blame him for stabbing her in the back.

Having made up his mind, the man looked up at Qian He and said, "Miss Qian, I trust you. I also hope you can give us a good ending as you said."

Qian He smiled, showing her dimples. "Naturally."

"Miss Wang sent us. She showed me Miss Feng's car and told us to knock her unconscious and take her when she went to drive."

"Wang Huili?" Qian He's expression darkened. "What did she want you to kidnap Feng Yue for?"

"There's an abandoned warehouse in the suburbs that used to store truck tires. After it was abandoned, Miss Wang bought the place. We were to take Miss Feng there, then take compromising photos of her according to Miss Wang's requirements and intimidate her to blackmail Miss Feng."

The more Qian He heard, the uglier her expression became, but she still suppressed her anger and asked, "From your tone, it sounds like you're quite experienced. This isn't the first time, is it?"

Hearing this, a sinister look flashed in the man's eyes before quickly disappearing. "Of course not. This is our first time following Miss Wang's orders to kidnap someone, but whether Miss Wang has hired others to do these things before, we don't know."

Qian He nodded. She hadn't missed the emotion that flashed through the man's eyes.

He was lying.

Qian He didn't show it, instead trustingly patting the man's shoulder. "Very good, don't worry. I'll hold the right person responsible - I won't blame Wang Huili's actions on you."

"Thank you so much, Miss Qian."
